ANOTHER "political latest" says a great bloc of Coolidge delegates has been organized. At the Kansas City start President Coolidge will be put in nomination for a second elective term. The convention will be stampeded, Coolidge will be nominated, and it will be all over. Like other important information, that may lack accuracy. They may stampede a convention. But can they stampede Coolidge?

ANYHOW, the national debt was reduced by $1,118,140,130, last year. Our debt is down below eighteen thousand million dollars, less than $180 per American, hardly enough to buy a motorcycle. What does that amount to?

FOLLOWING the war, came the era of billions. Now, here and there, the trillion crops up.

Production of electric water power breaking records recently, shows an output for April of two trillion nine hundred and forty billion kilowatt hours. No wonder those that control power hire professors, editors and such to denounce government ownership. No wonder it is possible to finance defeat of the Government's Boulder Dam plan.

HOWEVER, those that produce power do good work in conservation. April's hydro-electric power would have required $7,000,000 tons of coal, manufactured in the old way.

Accidents are greatly reduced where electric power replaces steam. And always, in the shadow, sitteth the law of eminent domain, which can be used if needed.

YOU could not guess what takes Prof. Crampton from Columbia University to the high valleys in tropical islands. North of New Guinea and south of Japan he goes to study land snails. They will be prodded, observed, biologically interpreted, and science will learn about evolution from them.

YOU could not make those snails understand that a higher analytical brain will find why they differ, from valley to valley, from mountain to mountain. The poor partula—that is their scientific name—would say: "Don't talk nonsense to us about a higher mind."

THAT is what some scientists say when you suggest the possibility of a cosmic thinking mind above theirs. Like the partula, they KNOW that no such being exists, since their telescopes can't find him. The little, peering horns of the land snails, with eyes at the ends, will not identify Prof. Crampton.

PROF. BURSTALL, genuine British highbrow, tells Oxford that human beings are lazy, and he is glad of it. Laziness makes us find ways to do things easily, quickly. The working day will be reduced to five hours within a generation. As for domestic servants, that "slavery" will soon be a thing of the past.

Also science will enable man to make a heaven on earth if he has brains enough to go in the right direction.

INTERESTING promises, but not surprising. A machine can do as much with one man's guidance as 100 men could do without the machine. Men's work may be reduced to pushing buttons one hour in twenty-four. Let's hope it won't come soon.

A LADY in Massachusetts is criticized, her sanity questioned, for these trifling reasons:

When her first husband died, she dressed him in a black-and-white check suit, with celluloid collar, brilliant red necktie, and a diamond stickpin. He had bought those things for a trip to Florida.

WHEN the second died, she buried him close to Number 1, leaving between them just room enough for herself.

The judge decided there was no proof of insanity, in that arrangement. There might have been danger in the celluloid collar, unless the widow knew just where her husband was going.

SOUTH SIDE HAS DAY IN LIQUOR PROBE

Starting the fourth week of the Federal grand jury probe, 90 witnesses from South Side were called today in a session which was expected to last late into the night. Daily sessions of from 11 to 15 hours are scheduled for this week to wind up the inquisition, as 450 witnesses are under subpena to be heard before Friday night.

Additional arrests on perjury charges of witnesses who have testified were held up today. Four were taken into custody Saturday and each furnished $5,000 bail, the last of these, Mark Epstein, of Atwood street, putting up bond today. He also furnished $1,500 bond on a state liquor charge.

Additional witnesses from the North Side are scheduled for a hearing tomorrow and Wednesday, and Thursday will be devoted to hearing those from the Hill district and other parts of the city.

PIRATES' GAME OFF

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

BROOKLYN, June 4.—The second game of the Pirates-Dodgers series, scheduled for Ebbets Field this afternoon, was postponed shortly after mid-day when a heavy rain which started here this morning showed no indication of letting up.

The postponement and day of rest was welcomed by the athletes of both clubs, who put in a couple days' work yesterday when the Bucs garnered a 9-7 decision in a marathon 14-inning encounter.

Carmen Hill and Doug McWeeny, who were to have done the pitching today, probably will retain the mound duty nominations tomorrow.

BODY OF MAN FOUND IN RIVER IDENTIFIED

Identification of the body found in the Ohio River Saturday, near Dixmont, was made today by W. T. Wilson, of 3366 Emily street, who said the victim was his friend, Sidney S. Potter, 70, former educator, but more recently a heavy stock speculator, who resided at the Monongahela House. According to Wilson, Potter disappeared last February after saying he was tired of life. A brother, W. A. Potter, is said to reside at 15 North Stone avenue, LaGrange, Ill.

WAR LORD BOMBED ON FLEEING TRAIN

TOKIO, June 4.—(AP.)—Dispatches from Mukden, Manchuria, say that Chang Tso-Lin, former North China dictator, who was injured in a bomb explosion this morning en route to Mukden from Peking, is reported in a serious condition.

TRAIN ATTACKED

MUKDEN, Manchuria, June 4.—(AP.)—The return of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian war lord, to his stronghold in Mukden after two years of rule as dictator of North China was marked this morning by the bombing of Chang's special train as it entered the suburbs of the Manchurian capital.

Several of those aboard the former dictator's special train were killed, two officials were injured and Chang Tso-Lin himself suffered slight facial injuries.

The bombing has caused some tension between the Chinese and Japanese, as the Japanese declared the Chinese aboard the train fired at random and mainly directed their fire at Japanese gendarmes guarding the railway. The latter replied and for 40 minutes there was an exchange of shots.

TWO SUSPECTS SHOT

At least two suspects were arrested and reported to have been summarily shot, while a number of Mukden officials also are said to be under arrest. Japanese reports say that the bombs were of Soviet manufacture.

Two bombs were dropped on the train as it was passing under a railway bridge at 5:30 o'clock this morning. The bombs blew up the eleventh coach and set fire to four others, which were destroyed by the blaze. The number of casualties was not definitely known.

Included among the wounded were Wu Chun Sheng, governor of Heilunkiang province, and the minister of agriculture of the former Pekin regime. They were in the car next to that of Chang Tso-Lin.

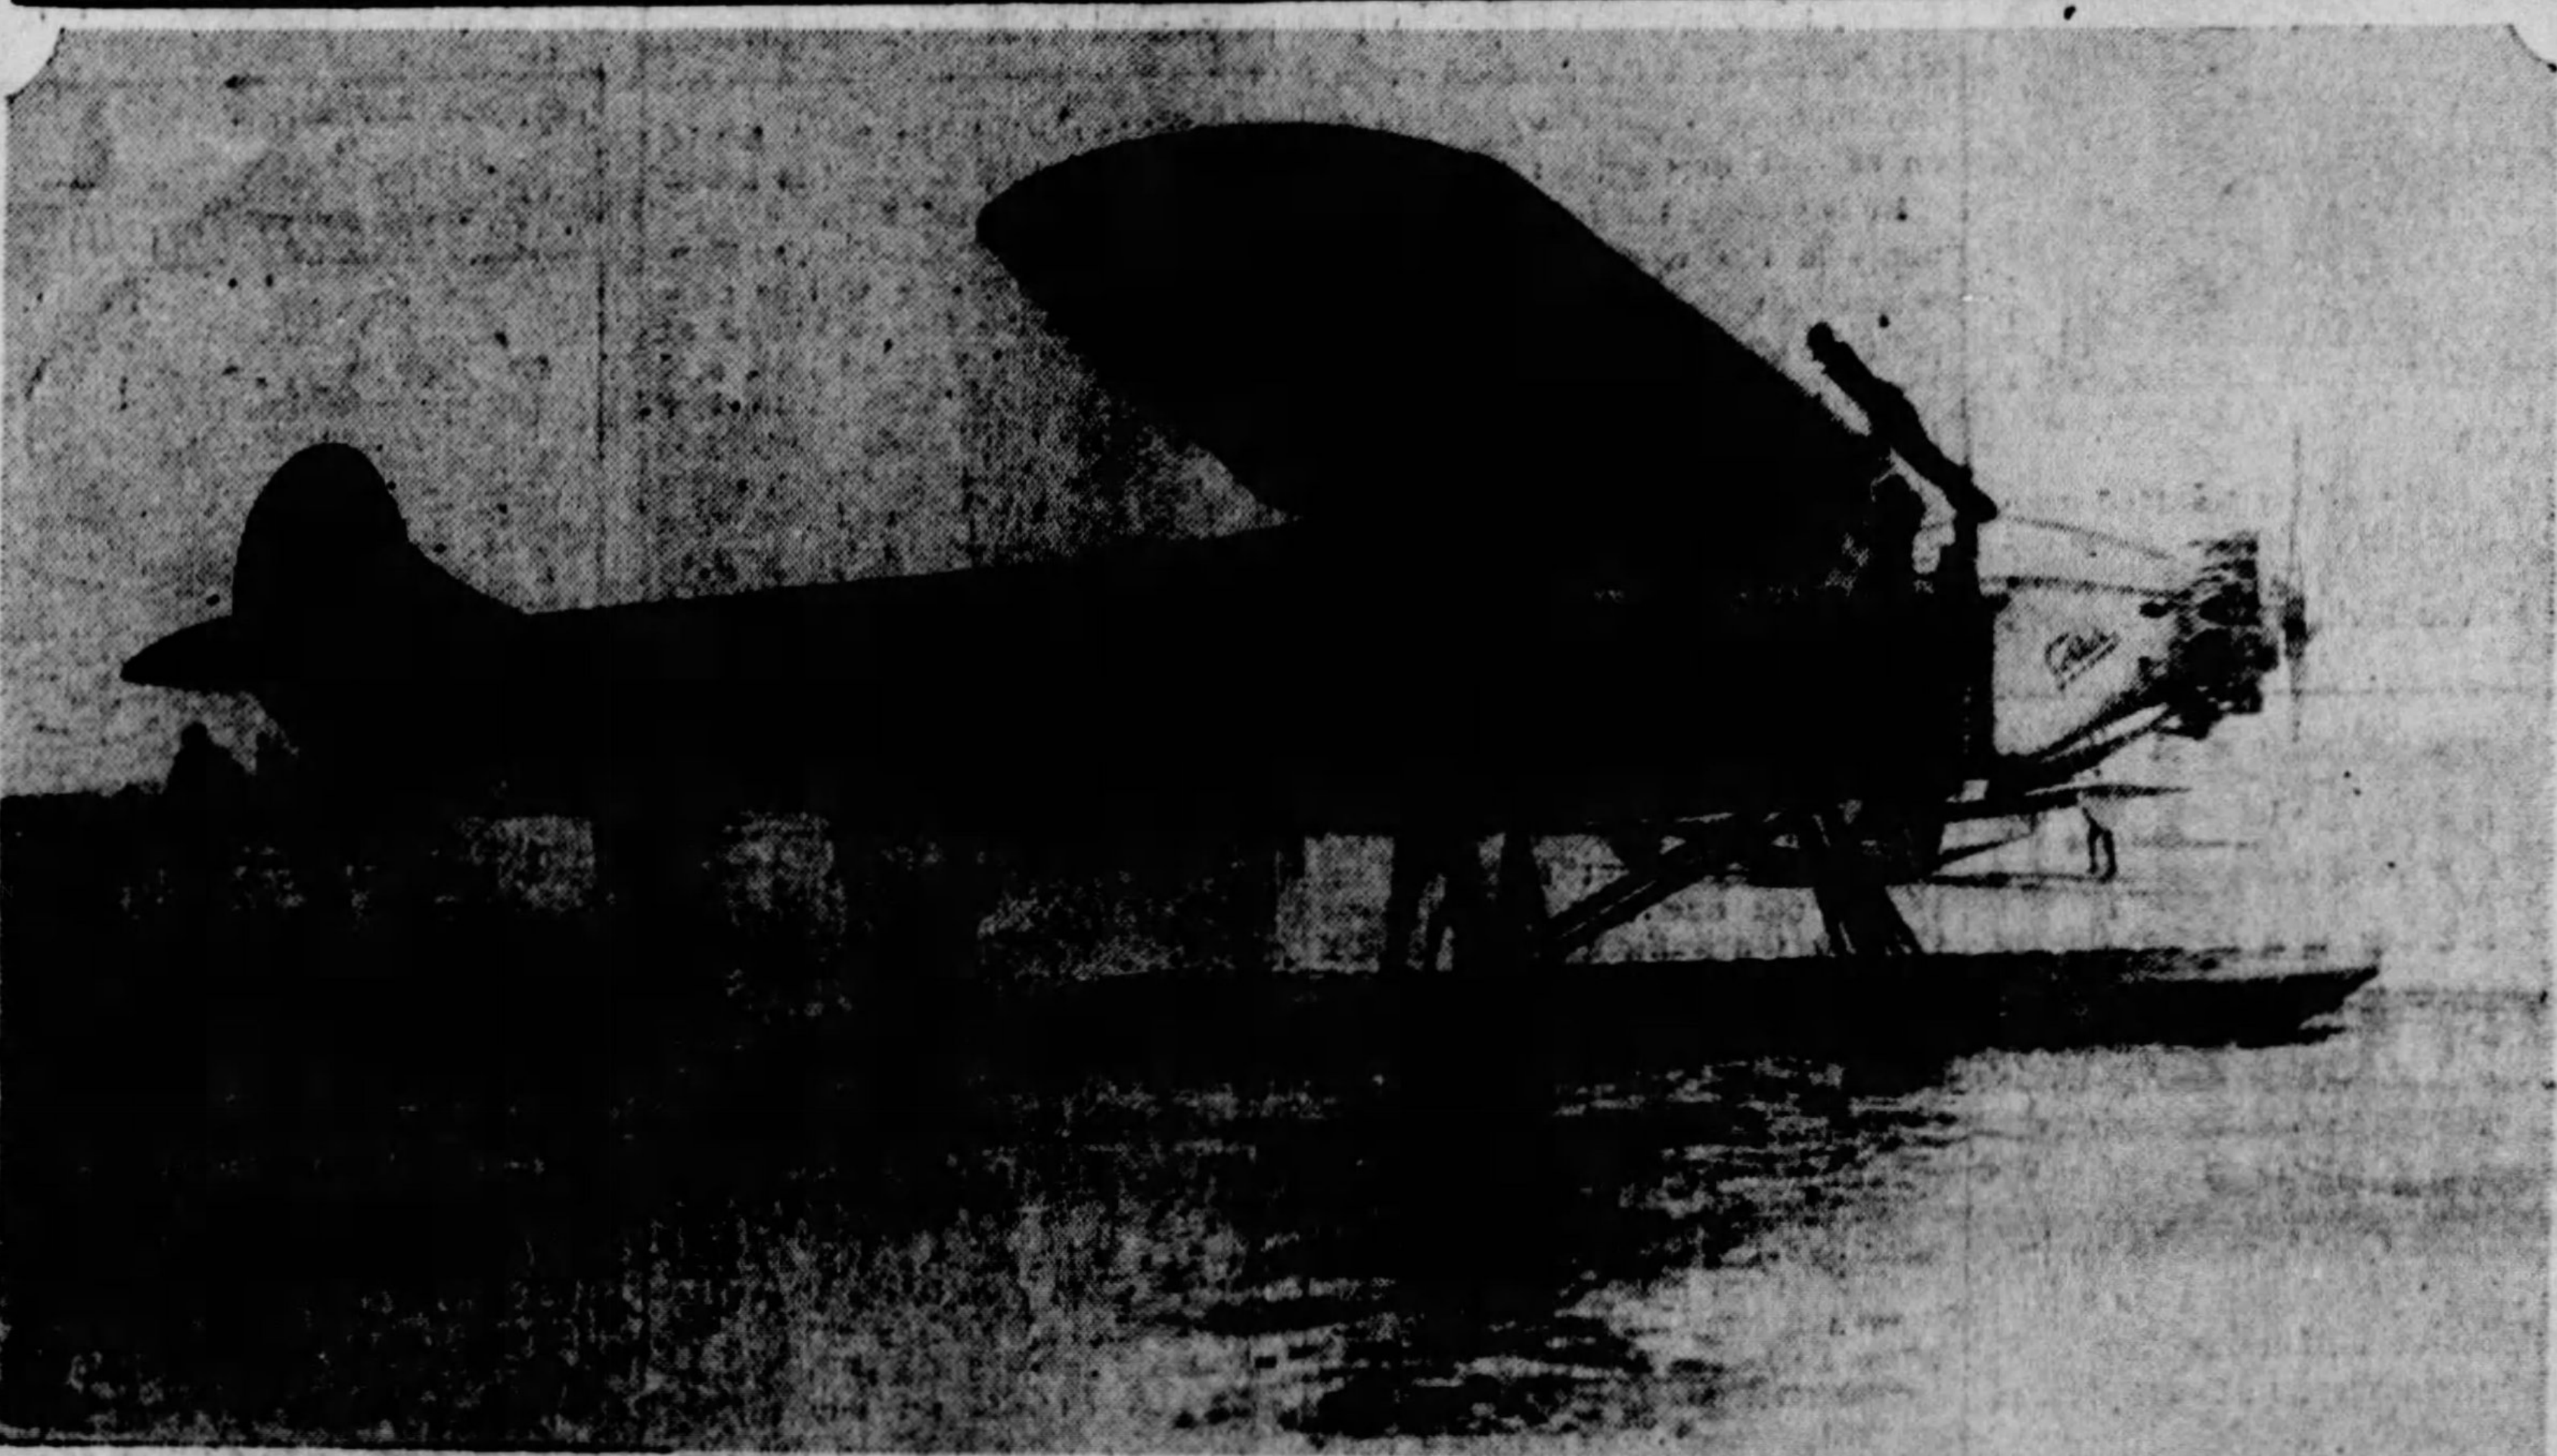
RULES FROM MANCHURIA

TIENTSIN, China, June 4.—(AP.)—Although Chang Tso-Lin has withdrawn to Mukden, Manchuria, and the presidential palace at Pekin, which he occupied as Northern dictator, is empty, he apparently intends to rule North China as long as possible.

Premier Pan Fu, who accompanied Chang as far as Tientsin, telegraphed the secretary of the Northern cabinet and the ministers of foreign affairs and interior instructing them to refer matters to Mukden, from which place mandates would be telegraphed to Pekin. He announced that he would join Chang in Mukden and establish the temporary office of the cabinet there.

All the foreign defense troops, including the American Marines, were taking precautions in Tientsin. The Japanese concession was practically closed to traffic. Railroad stations, light and water works were guarded by the international defense forces.

Girl's Plane Ready for Ocean Hop



GIRL FLIER AT HOP-OFF

TREPASSEY BAY, NEWFOUNDLAND, June 4.—(INS.)—The trans-Atlantic plane Friendship bearing Wilmer Stultz, Miss Amelia Earhart and Lou Gordon arrived from Halifax, N. S., at 2:28 o'clock p. m., local time.

The Friendship hopped off at Halifax at 9:30 o'clock on the 500-mile jump from Halifax to Trepassey Bay. Just before the departure from Halifax 100 gallons of gasoline were placed on board the monoplane.

Weather conditions here were good and if they continue, the fliers may hop for England later today or tomorrow morning. It was here that Sir John Alcock and Sir Whitten Brown, the first transatlantic fliers, started on their long sky journey for the British isles.

The trio of fliers made the jump from Boston to Halifax on Sunday. They secretly made preparations for the flight for Miss Earhart is determined to be the first woman to fly over the North Atlantic.

Miss Earhart will relieve Stultz at the controls during their contemplated flight to England. She is a capable pilot, having more than 500 hours of solo flying to her credit.

The greatest secrecy shrouded the preparations for the flight. The plane, a Fokker, officially recorded as the NX 4204, was purchased from Commander Richard E. Byrd, who originally intended using it on his forthcoming Antarctic expedition. Preparations for the flight had been going on for weeks, but the announcement of the sale of the plane was not made until last Friday.

Except that the Friendship is equipped with pontoons, it is al-

Mother Is Shot in Tussle

Mrs. Nellie Garrett, employed at the George H. Calvert farm, Hampton township, was probably fatally shot last night while it is said she was trying to prevent her son, James, 14, from purchasing an old rifle from a neighbor boy for 50 cents.

According to the boy's story to county detectives, he was about to close the deal for a sawed-off 22-caliber rifle when his mother interposed objections. During the argument, the lad said, his mother took the gun and struck him with it. The muzzle was toward her and the weapon exploded, a bullet entering her abdomen and lodging in the liver. Dr. T. L. Wessell performed an operation and had the woman rushed to the Allegheny Hospital, where it was said this afternoon that she probably would die.

TREPASSEY BASE

Amelia Earhart, Boston aviatrix and social worker, piloted by Wilmer Stultz, Englishman and former Levine pilot, and accompanied by Lou Gordon, mechanic, is ready to attempt a conquest of the Atlantic Ocean from a Trepassey (N. F.) base. If she succeeds, she'll be the first woman to span the Atlantic by air. The plane, tri-motored Fokker which Commander Byrd held as the one to be used on his South Pole expedition, is equipped with great pontoons and will be the first of that type to be used on an ocean flight from west to east. Mabel Boll, "Diamond Lady," was to have flown with Stultz in the Columbia. She can't understand why he went with "that other woman."

HONOLULU, T. H., June 4.—The monoplane Southern Cross, on the last leg of its perilous 3,100-mile flight from Hawaii to Suva, Fiji Islands, ran into bad weather early today 800 miles from its goal.

A message to the Radio Corporation here today, direct from the plane, gave its position at 5 a. m., island time, as Latitude 7:6 South, Longitude 174 West.

"Eight hundred miles to Suva," added the message. "Bad weather."

PASS ONLY LAND

Had the plane faltered or the fuel supply run short, Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith, commander of the aerial adventure, had planned to make an emergency landing on the Phoenix Islands, a few tiny specks representing the only land in the path of the airmen on their long journey.

The islands were reached and passed, however, early today, indicating that the four men on board the big tri-motored monoplane were certain of their ability to carry on to Suva.

The plane was 24 hours out from Kauai at 5:20 a. m., island time, and at its present rate of speed should reach Suva sometime between 3 and 6 p. m. tonight.

A radiogram received at 4:33 o'clock (Greenwich time) gave the position of the Southern Cross as latitude six degrees south, longitude 173.12 degrees west. Kingsford-Smith reported that "it is "rough riding" and that there was only one generator for light.

Wireless stations along the eastern coast of Australia kept in continuous touch throughout the day with the flight of the Southern Cross. These stations will watch the balance of the flight step by step until Australia is reached. In the event anything goes wrong with the mechanism of the Southern Cross, the Australian stations will be on the alert for an "SOS" so that assistance can be rushed immediately.

SIGHTED BY STEAMER

The steamer Sonoma, bound from San Francisco to Sydney, reported to the Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company at 3:55 a. m. today that the Southern Cross had passed overhead at 3 a. m., Pacific coast time (7 a. m. Pittsburgh time), at a position 3,506 miles from San Francisco.

The steamer said she sighted the plane in the vicinity of the Phoenix Islands and attempted to radio the airmen on 600 meters wave length. The plane failed to answer.

BRANDON HECKLED ON DRY STAND

Magistrate A. D. Brandon, of Morals Court, made an impassioned defense of his statement that "prohibition is a failure" in an address before the Ministerial Union in the First Lutheran Church today, but the ministers were not impressed and harried him with embarrassing questions.

Brandon based his argument chiefly on the fact that of 1,300 violators of the liquor laws that have appeared before him and been held for the grand jury, not one, according to him, has been compelled to serve a prison sentence.

The ministers after a spirited debate postponed action on a resolution condemning the magistrate and Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh for their public utterances on prohibition. The matter was deferred until next Monday, when a special meeting will be held in the Second Presbyterian Church to discuss the subject further. Walsh will be invited to attend and defend his position.

Brandon admitted that prohibition was being enforced in small towns like Butler and Mercer.

URGES DEPORTATION

He declared further that if bootleggers were sent to prison and the foreigners among them deported the moonshine business would be wiped it.

The Rev. Dr. G. L. Powell, pastor the McMaster Methodist Episcopal urch, Ttutle Creek, said: "Bran- n has saddled on prohibition what uld be saddled on the authorities. may be a good magistrate, but is a poor logician. I am not a ting man, but I'll bet a silk hat t if Dr. C. R. Zahniser were apnted superintendent of police proition would be enforced."

The Rev. S. G. Noble, pastor of the Arch Street Methodist Episcopal Church, was one of the most persistent hecklers of Brandon. He asked the magistrate the simple question if he had said prohibition could not be enforced. Thrice Brandon arose to answer him. A torrest of words poured forth: the evens of moonshine as revealed in thousands of Morals Court cases were rescribed, the failure of juries to convict and of judges to impose adequate sentences was cited in a voice that rang with emotion.

And thrice the minister repeated that his question had not been answered.

ASK INVESTIGATION

"We are facing the outstanding problem in American life," said Brandon. "Before you criticize me and the position I have fearlessly taken for months, I suggest you appoint a committee who will come to Morals Court with open mind. Let them stay long enough to grasp at least a few of our outstanding problems and after making such a study let them report to you the results of their study."

Dr. Powell offered a resolution condemning Walsh and Brandon and praising United States Attorney John D. Meyer. Dr. Zahniser offered an amendment under which the paragraph criticizing the magistrate would have been referred to the temperance committee. But it was decided to hold the whole matter in abeyance until next Monday.

A resolution passed by the Afro-American Brotherhood, protesting against the retention in office of Supt. Walsh, was read in the course of the debate. The brotherhood declared Walsh "manifestly cannot create respect for a law which he openly and publicly denounces."

Brandon's remark that most of the bootleggers in Pittsburgh are unnaturalized foreigners brought forth some bitter comments from the ministers. His suggestion that selling of liquor be made sufficient cause for deportation was applauded.

ATTERBURY ACCEPTS POSTS AS U. S. CITIZEN'S DUTY

(Copyright, 1928, by the New York American and Universal Service.)

NEW YORK, June 4.—Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the two-and-half billion dollar Pennsylvania Railroad Company, now stands forth in two new and striking enterprises.

He is the first big railroad executive to seize upon the airplane as an adjunct in carrying passengers.

He is among the few men of eminence in the world of finance and commerce who have accepted a high political office.

In an interview which Gen. Atterbury accorded today in this city he consented to discuss both of these topics.

It was revealed that he takes no small degree of pride in the fact that the famous Col. Lindbergh is associated with his new air-rail line to the Pacific coast as technical adviser-in-chief.

It was also disclosed that the General was a bit surprised—although not one whit dismayed—at the few journalistic shafts leveled at him when he accepted the post of Republican national committeeman from Pennsylvania.

One or two of the political writers, puzzled when Gen. Atterbury was singled out for election as national committeeman, seemed to want to infer that the General might "have something up his sleeve."

As a matter of fact he regards what work he will have to do as national committeeman as an important part of his duty as a plain citizen of the United States.

In short, Gen. Atterbury is putting into effect his long cherished notion that no citizen has a right to complain of the kind of government he gets if he dodges his individual responsibility for making that government what it should be. Having reasoned thus, Gen. Atterbury sees no reason whatever why he should not take a seat openly and frankly at the proceedings of the important national political body which is in a position to affect so profoundly the welfare of the nation. Gen. Atterbury said:

"I regard my new post as member of the Republican national committee as an opportunity of performing a real public service to the country and of doing good. The proceedings of this committee, in their ultimate effect, are of large importance to the business, industrial, and social life of the people.

"For example, take the matter of shaping legislation. Its effect should be the intimate concern of every citizen.

"The time to take a hand in the affairs of our country is in the formative stage. If we do not do so then, we have no right to complain, if later on things do not go to suit us.

"I regard this new post as one of the gravest responsibilities I have ever assumed."

This last utterance may be taken as an important reflection of his mind, for Gen. Atterbury is famous for doing large things in a large way for his country.

When Gen. Pershing was at the front in France in the World War, he cabled to President Wilson:

"I want the best railroad man in America."

President Wilson sent Gen. Atterbury who built the rail lines which enabled the A. E. F. to go into action in time to make their weight felt at the crucial moment.

Seek Air Rail Safety

With a twinkle in his eye, Gen. Atterbury referred to the association of Col. Lindbergh with his air-rail project, whereby passengers are to be whisked from coast to coast in 48 hours.

Gen. Atterbury said:

"We decided to go into the air-rail line only after the most serious weighing of all the factors. We were particularly impressed with the network of airlines spreading over Europe.

"Naturally, in looking for a technical adviser on airplanes and flying we wanted the best—Col. Lindbergh. Our officers felt very much gratified that he would undertake this work, for his participation in it will give the public added assurances that the prime consideration we have in mind is safety. This is, of course, in addition to the very great pleasure that we have in being associated with a young man so deservedly honored by all the world."

It was recalled that when Lindy spanned the ocean from New York to Paris, Gen. Atterbury promptly named his crack train to St. Louis, "The Spirit of St. Louis," in honor of Lindbergh's great feat.

Now in a very short time, so Gen. Atterbury stated, one will be able to step up to the ticket kindow at the Pennsylvania Station here, and buy an "Air-Rail" ticket to Los Angeles. He can board the "Spirit of St. Louis" at the station, sleep all night as it rolls luxuriously along, then alight and take one of Lindberg's planes at Columbus, O. Then a daylight air hop to the Santa Fe Railroad, thence by rail for another night. Then next day, by airplane, one descends from the skies at Los Angeles.

Start Service Soon

This service will be started at the earliest moment consistent with safety, said Gen. Atterbury. He was asked if it would be ready within the year. He replied:

"In a much shorter time than that, we hope. Safety is the prime consideration. We do not know when an all-air line will be feasible. We do not think it will be feasible until night flying becomes as safe as day flying. However, we expect to cut the time to the coast considerably under 48 hours. The schedule will develop, always with the consideration of safety to our passengers in mind.

Gen. Atterbury has no fears that the advent of the airplane and the pressure of competion by the motor car will enforce ultimate amortization of the railroads.

He was asked: "Do you envision railroads ultimately reduced to handlers of freight as a result of the age of flying and motoring?"

Gen. Atterbury replied: "Not in your day or mine."

Nor is he agitated at the press reports that the great empire of China, slumbering through the ages, is now taking avidly to flying. Whereas some have pictured ominously the "Golden Dragon spreading her wings" and putting 400,000,000 yellow men into the air, Gen. Atterbury stated.

"I have always contended that China's greatest need has been a good railroad system. They need thousands and thousands of miles of railroads. They've got to make a beginning there, when tranquility is restored, and railroads will do more than any one thing to enable China to take its rightful place among the nations."

Backs Foreign Trade

Gen. Atterbury disclosed he is an ardent devotee of greater foreign trade for the United States, as one of the things which will enable maintenance of the country's unusually high standard of living.

In this connection he told this story:

"When I was a youngster there used to be a poker game played at a table with a slot in the center. Into that slot went a certain percentage of every pot. It was the 'kitty.' That went to the house. Well, you know, if the players played long enough the 'kitty' got all their money.

"We are in the same position as regards foreign trade. If we stop sending out our manufactured products in exchange for raw materials and stand aloof, we merely consume all that we have. This exchange is like putting new money in the game.

"I am glad the President signed the Jones shipping bill. I am for any reasonable measures that will put the American flag back on the high seas."

Gen. Atterbury has no fears of the economic results or any other results of a shorter work week, wherever it is possible.

He said:

"On the results of a shorter work week, giving a man more leisure, I am an individualist. It's every man's right and privilege to devote his leisure to what he likes. Whether it would mean more time for study of the arts, greater culture or mere frivolities, I can't say. That is up to the man himself, but if we help him to appreciate the finer things of life he probably would turn some of his leisure to those things."

For Yet More Schools

Nor has Gen. Atterbury any fears that the citizenry of the United States is being "over educated," as was recently suggested by one eminent man. Gen. Atterbury said:

"I believe in extending educational advantages for all. I do not think that the universities are crowded with students who think that more of the prestige that a degree may give than they do of the study and learning necessary to acquire it.

"I know that is not the case with such universities as Penn State, the universities of the Middle and the Far West. In these there is a high percentage of students of limited means or working their way through.

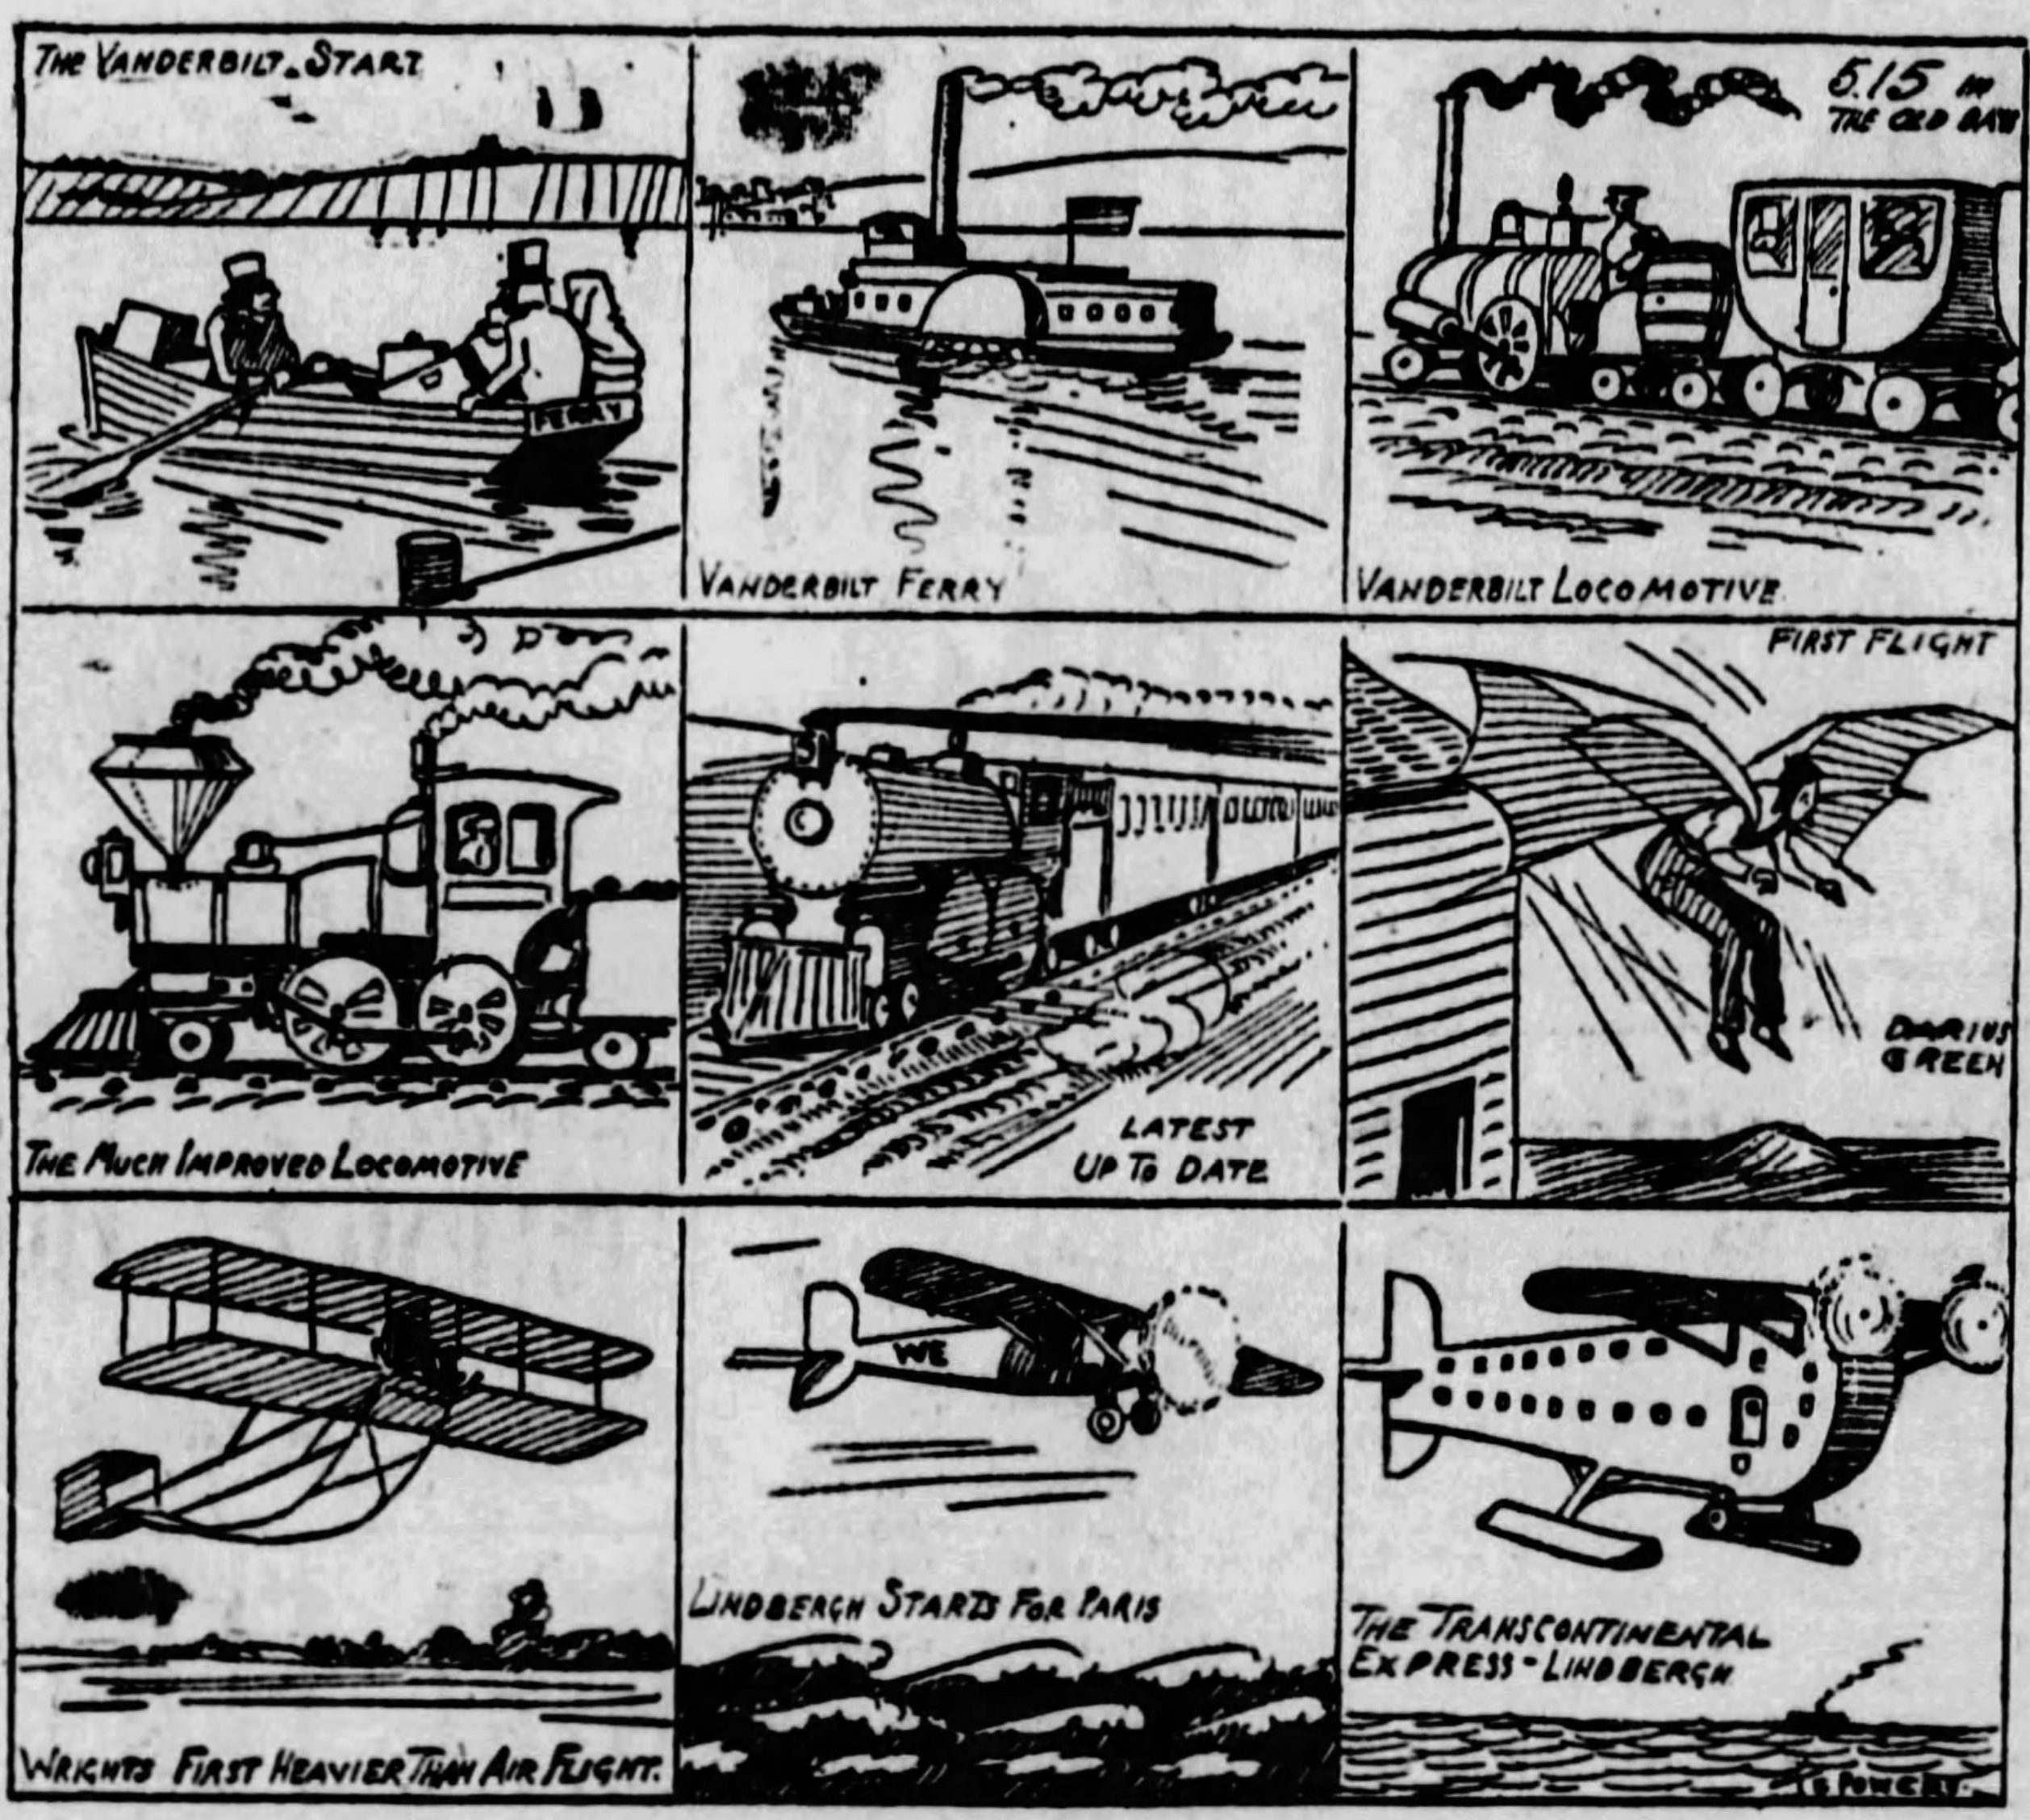
"I favor larger endowments, more schools, both secondary and collegiate, available for all. We can never make a mistake in that direction."

But as to the "Utopia," which some learned savants have stated may eventuate on this planet, Gen. Atterbury is a stern realist.

Gen. Atterbury exclaimed:

"Utopia? Why worry about that! Why not let's make the best of things as they are, as long as we are here!"

Thus We Rise, and Prosper



PAUSE a moment, dear reader, and consider the story that this picture tells of 100 American years.

You see the Vanderbilt start, with the old commodore rowing the boat, running a steamboat, building railroads and getting them away from people that had already built them.

You see the attempted flight of Darius Green, that made everybody LAUGH. You see the first heavier-than-air machine that flew and made people THINK.

You see Lindbergh's reality of today and the transcontinental, transoceanic express of a later year.

Never despise a NEW idea. The idea comes first, reality, prosperity and increased wealth come afterward.

Those that laughed at Fulton's steamboat and stood on the bank waiting to see it sink were the grandfathers of those that go to Europe in great passenger steamers now.

They will go in great flying machines later. Progress has only begun.

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, June 4.—In the course of an interview he granted the New York American, Gen. W. W. Atterbury was asked what three things he would say to a young man on how to achieve success. He replied with characteristic brevity:

1—"Work hard."

2—"Play hard when you play."

"Don't worry."

He was also asked:

Do married men make better, steadier workers than single men? Do church-going men make better workers?"

He replied:

"They ought to—but whether they do or not I don't know."

Another question was:

"Do you think an ordinary salaried man can afford to buy an automobile on the installment plan?"

Gen. Atterbury said:

"That's a case where each man must decide for himself, whether he goes in for a house or a car, or both, on the installment plan, he should understand it will influence his life for success or failure."

WINGING ON LONGEST FLIGHT OVER WATER EVER ATTEMPTED

The Southern Cross, scarcely cooled since its conquest of the Pacific Ocean from Oakland, Cal., to Honolulu, today hums over the South Seas on the 3,138-mile flight from Honolulu to Suva, tiny South Sea island in the Fijis. The plane, carrying four men, is seeking to fly with three stops from California to Sydney, Australia. Two of its crew are Australians and two Americans. The Honolulu-Suva hop, entirely over water, is practically the same distance as that which Lindbergh flew from New York to Paris, much of which was over land.

Pittsburgh AS OTHERS SEE US

"And chief among these cities that are the Fairy Godmother to art is Pittsburgh."
—DOROTHY DIX.

DOROTHY DIX

ELIZABETH MERIWETHER GILMER (DOROTHY DIX) was born in Montgomery county, Tenn., November 18, 1870. Married George O. Gilmer in 1888. Edited the woman's page in the New Orleans Picayune, 1896-1901. Began contributions of "Dorothy Dix" talks to the New York Journal in 1901, and is best known by her pen name. Lives in New Orleans, La.

I think that Pittsburgh, probably more than any other city in the United States, typifies the real American spirit. I see it as the melting pot out of which has come a lusty young giant in whose veins runs, red and hot and passionate, the fused blood of a dozen different races—a go-getter with steel ingots in his hands, whose eyes are fixed on unimaginable achievements of the future, and who builds sky-scrapers as a child builds block houses.

The arts have always been too fragile to stand alone. They have always needed a protector. In olden time the painter and the sculptor lived by the grace of some great prince. The minstrel had his place at some lord's table. The writer dedicated his books to some powerful personage. In these days it is the great industrial communities that heap up wealth that play the part of patron to genius. They foster the fine arts by building museums and gathering together great collections of pictures and sculpture, and establishing libraries, and supporting opera and concerts.

And chief among these cities that are the Fairy Godmother to Art is Pittsburgh.

She Stole My Pilot, Sobs Mabel; 3 Women May Race Over Atlantic

NEW YORK, June 4.

MISS THEA RASCHE

MISS MABEL BOLL

A WOMAN'S secret start from Boston on a trans-Atlantic air expedition today spurred two other women to activity for such ventures.

Surprised and hurt, Miss Mabel Boll, "Queen of Diamonds," who thought that Wilmer Stultz was to fly her to Europe in Charles Levine's Columbia this summer, broke into tears when she learned Stultz had flown from Boston to Halifax with Miss Amelia Earhart.

Telephoning the newspapers for information, Miss Boll said:

"I can't understand it. Wilbur was down here only a few days ago and I asked him when he was coming back to fly the Columbia. He said in just a few days and that he would be here today sure."

Here she started to cry, her sobs being plainly audible.

"And now he has gone and taken off with this other woman." After a moment her voice steadied and she continued. "My car is waiting down here now and I am going right out to Curtiss Field and see if I cannot take off at once. Capt. Boutillier will fly with me."

She found the Columbia being locked up in her hangar, however. Mechanics estimate it wiuld take two days to get the plane into shape for an ocean flight.

Thea Rasche, the German flier, who is planning an ocean flight with Germany as her goal, spent the day stunting her new sport biplane over Curtiss Field.

Mis Rasche's new Bellanca plane, which she plans to use on her ocean flight, has not been delivered yet, but she expects to have it before the end of the wek.

WOMAN HURT IN AUTO CRASH IN HOMESTEAD

Mrs. Mary Macko, 36, of 1313 O'Connell boulevard, North Braddock, was hurled through the windshield of an auto driven by her husband, John Macko, in a collision at Eighth avenue and Heisel street, Homestead, early today. She was taken to the Homestead Hospital suffering from severe lacerations of the head and bruises. Other occupants were slightly hurt. R. G. Small, Negro, of Homestead Park, driver of the car which struck the Macko's, was arrested.

NOBILE HUNTERS OFF; NEW CLUE REPORTED

(Copyright 1928, by The Associated Press.)

KINGS BAY, SPITZBERGEN, June 4.— Search for the missing dirigible Italia, unheard from since May 25, was in full swing today, after a week of extensive preparation.

The ice cutter Braganza was plowing through the icy waters off Northern Spitzbergen with search parties of Italian Alpinists ready to disembark at strategical points to seek the crew of the Italia.

Early this morning the sealer Hobby arrived at Kings Bay, carrying Lieut. Luetzow Holm, crack Norwegian flier, and a naval monoplane from which he will survey the Polar Sea off Spitzbergen. Lieut. Holm held a conference with Kings Bay officials and then announced that he hoped he would be able to leave Kings Bay with his plane on the Hobby later in the day.

ICE BREAKERS MARCHING

The Braganza, en route to Reindeer Land, put a search party ashore at Cape Verlegen Hoek, which is midway between Moffen Island and the Straits of Hinlopen. The party made a rapid survey of the peninsula and the journey was then continued.

The ice in the Straits of Hinlopen was found broken up and this will permit the Braganza to reach the coast of Northeast Land, an extensive deserted tract upon which the Italia may possibly have come down since the wind was in that direction when she was last heard from.

Various hunters along the northern border of Spitzbergen were questioned and said that they had seen no trace of the missing airship or its crew, but expressed the opinion that they may be found on Northeast Land.

FRANZ JOSEPH LAND CLUE

MOSCOW, Russia, June 4—(AP.) –The Soviet Russian Nobile rescue commission, which has been investigating a report by a radio amateur that he had picked up a message believed to be from the missing dirigible Italia from Franz Josef Land, today held a growing belief that the Nobile expedition may have landed at that place.

The radio amateur at Voznesensk, in North Dvinsk Province, bordering Archangel, confirmed reports of the message, giving the full text, although apparently garbled, of the appeal. It read:

"Italia Nobile Franz Josefs SOS SOS SOS SOS terri teng ehn."

This message was received on a 33.35 wave, corresponding to the Italia's radio station, the amateur operator stated.

Franz Josef Land is an archipelago lying east of Spitzbergen and north of Novoe Zemblya. The islands are volcanic. The bear and fox are the only land mammals and insects are rare.

The possibility that the dirigible may have landed at Franz Josef Land is strengthened by wind conditions about the time that the Italia lost contact with Kings Bay, the wind blowing in an easterly direction.

Little Word 'But' Spoils Peace Plan—Will

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 4. —Just when Secretary Kellogg had his "No More War Plan" all going good and about ready to sign up, why, England, Japan and France came through with the old usual diplomatic clause which says, "We agree in principle, but." Well, there was the but. "We are are heartily against all wars, unless, of course, we should see fit to do a little fighting ourselves. Then, of course, this agreement would be null and void. But we certainly join you in preventing others from having the pleasure of fighting."

WILL ROGERS

If Kellogg can get all us four big nations to agree that Monday follows Sunday without them having "I agree in principle, but" in it, he will be the world's greatest diplomat.

Yours, just an amateur diplomat,
WILL.

May Close High Cost Mines

Following the example of the Consolidation Coal Company, the Bertha Consumers Company and the Pittsburgh Coal Company, other operators are thinking of abandoning high-cost mines, it was learned today.

It may be necessary, they say, to "jettison the cargo to save the sinking ship." Over-production of coal has reduced the price below the cost of producing it, and the output will have to be cut drastically to raise the industry out of its depressed condition, it is argued.

C. E. Lesher, executive vice president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, pointed out that his company originated the movement in 1925 when it abandoned about 20 mines in the Pittsburgh district and seven in Ohio. It is operating only low-cost mines now and plans to close no more.

Horace F. Baker, president of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, said all that company's mines are modern and efficient, and there is no good reason why any of them should be closed.

At the local office of the Valley Camp Coal Company it was said consideration was being given the proposal to abandon unprofitable operations.

C. C. McGregor, receiver of the Carnegie Coal Company, said it might abandon some of its mines when the company is reorganized. It plans to consolidate some of its operations by linking up underground workings. The Carnegie Coal Company has nine mines.

F. L. Barnhart, secretary of the Union Collieries Company, said it intended to keep its mines going.

The Bertha Consumers Company announced that it had stopped operations in the Jean mine near Burgettstown, the Sara mine near Charleston, W. Va., and the Elsie No. 3 mine at Elsiecoal, Ky. They are among its "less efficient" mines and will remain closed "indefinitely."

FOUNDRY SITE TO ENLARGE TERMINALS

The Pennsylvania Railroad has purchased the Fort Pitt Foundry of the Mackintosh-Hemphill Company at Thirteenth and Etna streets for $1,275,000. It is understood that the ground will be used for freight and produce terminal purposes. It adjoins other property owned by the railroad.

The ground fronts 420 feet on Etna street, 424 feet on Thirteenth street, 425 feet on the harbor line of the Allegheny river and 432 feet on the line of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company. The plot contains 178,0 0 square feet.

LARGER PRODUCE YARDS

This is the largest purchase made by the railroad since the acquisition of the former Schoenberger mill sit at Fourteenth, Pike and Sixteenth streets for approximately $5,000,000. It is believed that the purchase of the Mackintosh-Hemphill property will mean the extension of the produce yards another city block westward.

11:30 a. m. (1:30 p. m. Pacific Coast time). Speed 82 knots, altitude 400. Position estimated 600 miles from Kauai, on plotted course.

11:48 A. M. (2:18 P. M. PACIFIC COAST TIME). RAIN AHEAD. MESSAGE RECEIVED TWO MINUTES LATER SAID RAIN SQUALLS.

12 Noon (2:30 p. m. Pacific Coast time). Latitude, by observation, 12.47 north, by dead reckoning 12:58; longitude 163.13. Running time seven hours. Distance 630. Average speed 90. Sea smooth, partly cloudy. Occasional squalls. Wind approximately 15 miles east by north. Ship behaving good. Motors doing well.

2:00 P. M. (4:30 P. M. PACIFIC COAST TIME). POSITION 10:10 NORTH, 164.55 WEST. POSITION ESTIMATED ABOUT 810 MILES OUT.

3:40 p. m. (6:25 p. m. Pacific Coast time). One motor sounds bad, dropped to 60 miles an hour.

3:55 P. M. (6:25 P. M. PACIFIC COAST TIME). MESSAGE INTERCEPTED BY NAVAL RADIO CAN FANCISCO INDICATED POSITION 910 LAND MILES FROM KAUAI.

4:25 p. m. (6:55 p. m. Pacific Coast time). Another message through San Francisco Naval radio said: Have been flying low all day to insure gasoline economy. Have encountered many small rainstorms and recently the starboard (right) motor started fluttering. All O. K. now. Altitude 600 feet. Speed 72 knots. Quartering winds helping us. Revolutions more economical than on Hawaiian hop. Regards to all.

5:00 P. M. (7:30 P. M. PACIFIC COAST TIME). SOUTHERN CROSS REPORTED POSITION SLIGHTLY MORE THAN 1,100 MILES FROM KAUAI.

6:24 p. m. (8:54 Pacific Coast time). Naval radio station at San Francisco heard: "Black clouds ahead."

6:30 P. M. (9:00 P. M. PACIFIC COAST TIME). WE ARE GAINING ALTITUDE, GOING UP NEAR 2,000 FEET NOW.

7:00 p. m. (9:30 p. m. Pacific Coast time). San Francisco Naval radio received another radiogram saying the plane was "dodging about" and climbing to avoid the storm.

7:56 P. M. (10:26 P. M. PACIFIC COAST TIME) MESSAGE TO SAN FRANCISCO NAVAL RADIO STATION SAID THE PLANE HAD CLIMBED TO 7,800 FEET TO AVOID THE STORM CLOUDS, BUT STILL FOUND CLOUDS OVERHEAD AND ALL AROUND. MESSAGE SAID THAT THE FLIERS WERE USING AUXILIARY LIGHTS. ONE GENERATOR HAVING QUIT THREE HOURS AFTER THE START.

8 p. m. (10:30 p. m. Pacific Coast Time). The San Francisco Naval Radio received a message from the Southern Cross setting her 7 p. m. position at about 1,370 miles from Kauai.

8:45 P. M. (11:15 P. M. PACIFIC COAST TIME). SAN FRANCISCO NAVAL RADIO STATION RECEIVED A MESSAGE SAYING THE FLIERS HAD CLIMBED ABOVE THE CLOUDS AND WERE "SAILING FINE, WITH A NICE FULL MOON."

9:00 p. m. (11:30 p. m. Pacific Coast Time). Reported to San Francisco Naval Radio through Honolulu Naval Station Latitude 0-30 North, Longitude 169.50 West. That would place the plane directly over the Magnetic Equator, with only 20 miles to go before entering the Southern Hemisphere. Estimated position, 1,650 miles from Kauai, 216 miles from Canton Island in the Phoenix group and 1,488 miles from Suva.

9:30 P. M. ALL IS WELL, CLOUDY, BUT NOT SO BAD. CLOUDS LOWER AND CLEAR OVER US, WITH NICE MOON. THAT'S WHEN ONE ENJOYS MOON.

10:50 p. m. (1:20 a. m. Monday, Pacific Coast Time). Latitude 0:41 South, Longitude 171.18 West. All's Well. This placed the plane approximately 1,740 miles from Kauai.

11:35 P. M. (1:55 A. M., MONDAY, PACIFIC COAST TIME). EVERYTHING O. K.

Monday, 12:25 a. m. (2:55 a. m. Pacific Coast Time). Now flying 1,000 feet altitude. Going good.

12:45 A. M. (3:15 A. M., PACIFIC COAST TIME). MACKAY RADIO RECEIVED MESSAGE GIVING MIDNIGHT POSITION OF SOUTHERN CROSS AS LATITUDE 2.00 SOUTH, LONGITUDE 170.33 WEST. SPEED 78 KNOTS. THIS WOULD PLACE SHIP NEAR PHOENIX ISLANDS, 1,866 MILES FROM HONOLULU.

[Fanning Island time is one-half hour slower than Honolulu time and seven hours slower than Pittsburgh time.]

12:15 A. M., FANNING ISLAND TIME (3:15 A. M. PACIFIC COAST TIME). SOUTHERN CROSS RADIOED THE MONOPLANE HAD DROPPED DOWN TO 1,000 FEET ALTITUDE. ALL WELL.

3:55 a. m. (Pacific Coast time). Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company at San Francisco picked up a report from Steamer Sonoma that Southern Cross had passed overhead at 3 a. m., Pacific time, plane flying at 1,400 feet in vicinity of Phoenix Islands. Sonoma reported air rough, weather fair.

1 A. M., FANNING ISLAND TIME (4 A. M., PACIFIC COAST TIME). RAIN. POSITION LATITUDE 3 SOUTH, LONGITUDE 171 WEST. NOW OVER PHOENIX GROUP. ALL WELL.

3:20 A. M., Fanning Island Time, (6:20 A. M., Coast Time), Southern Cross radioed: "Doing fine. Been expecting sight of land but none yet. It's not so clear as one would like. Altitude 1,000; speed 80 knots."

3 A. M. (8:00 A. M. COAST TIME). SEVEN DEGREES, 6 MINUTES SOUTH LATITUDE. LONGITUDE 174 WEST. 800 MILES TO SUVA. BAD WEATHER.

9:10 A. M. (Pacific Coast Time.) "Hello Samoa. How are you getting us?"

FLIERS NEAR FIJIS

The gallant crew of the plane consists of Capt. C. E. Kingsford-Smith, C. T. P. Ulm, Harry W. Lyon and James Warner, who reached Honolulu Friday after a non-stop flight from the mainland of California.

Today they were on the second lap of their proposed 7,800-mile flight to Australia. With barely two days' rest, the intrepid airmen yesterday morning climbed aboard their ship at Barking Sands Field, on the neighboring Island of Kauai, and calmly set out on the longest over-water flight ever attempted.

Their destination, Suva in the Fiji Islands, is a little dot in the Southern Pacific, 3,138 miles from Honolulu.

At 1 o'clock this morning, Pacific time, the huge monoplane was in clear view of the constellation "Southern Cross" for which it was named.

The equator had been crossd, and the plane continued roaring on its way at a speed of 100 miles an hour.

Throughout the early hours of this morning, the plane's radio continued to flash back the cheery message "All's well!" A few hours before the fliers had fought and conquered a terrific tropical storm.

Messages told of the storm and the struggle to rise above it with a missing motor, as calmly as a man would say "Good morning." These men, already reconciled to death, but fighting every minute to live, take their troubles lightly and in a jesting mood.

"Ulm just drew a cartoon of Lyon with his eyes popping out when the motor sputtered," said a message, received here by a watching crowd, still filled with trepidation.

A few minutes later, Warner was radioing the description of another grim battle with the elements. They were just entering the dread area of the Doldrums, a region of fierce variable winds and rains, feared by mariners as the "hotbed" of tropical storms.

They ran into ponderous cloud banks. They were forced to climb again to an altitude of 10,000 feet and to bank sharply, first to left and then to right, in order to avoid them.

"This is a great game," radioed Warner, "dodging those dark clouds."

most an exact replica of the Southern Cross, which is now winging its way over the Pacific from Hawaii to the Fiji Island with four intrepid airmen aboard.

Much interest is centered on the projected flight because of the fact that the plane is the first equipped on this side of the ocean with pontoons which will enable it to make a safe landing on water at any time.

The expedition is backed by the Medical Science Corporation, which owns the plane. George Palmer Putnam, New York publisher and explorer, is acting as the corporation's representative in charge of all details concerning the flight.

Girl Flier Looks Like Twin of Lindbergh

BOSTON, June 4.—(INS.)—Lady Lindy!

Today America has a heroine of the vaulted spaces capable of intriguing the imagination like Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Tall, slight, with curly, yellow, bobbed hair, Miss Ameria M. Earhart, 30, who is co-pilot of the London-bound monoplane Friendship, bears remarkable resemblance to Lindbergh whose air trail she is following.

"She looks more like Lindbergh than Lindbergh himself," declared Brynjulf Standenaes, Norwegian artist, who made life portrait studies of Lindy and who was in Boston last week.

And like Lindbergh, Miss Earhart, college girl, settlement worker, former holder of the altitude championship for women and veteran of 500 solo hours of flying has an infectious smile that wins one and all.

Miss Earhart was born in Atchison, Kan., in 1898. She is a graduate of the Hyde Park High School at Chicago and of the Ogontz School for Girls at Philadelphia. She served in the Canadian Red Cross as a nurse throughout 1917 and 1918. Later she went to California, where she took up aviation.

Stutz jumped into the limelight last year as the pilot for Mrs. Frances Grayson's plane, Dawn, in its first takeoff. Engine trouble developed on the ill-fated plane when the ship was several hundred miles out at sea, but Stutz managed to bring it back to Old Orchard Beach, Me., in safety. Later the Dawn was lost, with Mrs. Grayson and two men fliers aboard.

The following were elected members of the executive committee: The Rev. James E. Detweiler, Presbyterian; the Rev. Gaylord B. Boyer, Brethren; the Rev. John E. Simpson, United Presbyterian; the Rev. Homer A. Flint, Protestant Episcopal, and the Rev. Norman C. Millron, Evangelical.

SHIELDS LOSES HIS APPEAL

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The District of Columbia Court of Appeals today upheld a lower court's conviction of two years sentence of Daniel J. Shields, Johnstown, Pa., brewer for conspiracy to bribe a government employe to obtain information from the government's prohibition files.

Shields had been convicted of bribery for giving money to a government clerk. The court in affirming sentence today offered the opinion that Shields had apparently been an offender against the prohibition laws.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 4.—His throat cut and his ankles slashed because he feared examinations, Donald M. Angle, 19, Pittsburgh, president of the sophomore class of St. John's College, is at the Naval Academy Hospital, with a fighting chance to recover.

Angle is said to have told surgeons soon after two policemen had carried him to the hospital that he had attempted to end his life with a safety razor blade.

Angle refused to discuss motives for his act, but friends said he had been worrying over his examinations, the last one of which he took Friday.

N. KENSINGTON DANCE ON

86 START LONG MARATHON GRIND

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., June 4.—Forty-three couples started on their long grind in the Allegheny Valley's first dance marathon at 12:45 o'clock this morning, Burgess Daniel Burns officiating as the starter.

Approximately 4,000 persons were in the Nu-Ken Gardens this morning for the start of the contest, which has been planned to continue over next Sunday. No effort will be made to conduct the dance in New Kensington on Sunday. Contestants will be loaded on a boat Saturday night and taken to East Liverpool, O., over Sunday, returning to New Kensington on Monday morning.

The winning couple will collect 10 per cent of the receipts; the second couple 5 per cent and the third couple 2 per cent.

Special events have been arranged for each day and on Friday a bathing beauty contest will be held at which Miss New Kensington of 1928 will be named.

TO CONTINUE DANCE

The 24 couples still on the floor on May 26 when the Sunday closing laws broke up the Homestead marathon dance will be given a chance to dance it out for the "World's Championship" and another percentage of the gate receipts by Edward J. Murray and John B. Schume, promoters of the latest marathon dance, which will start in the Academy Theater Thursday night at 8 o'clock and last "until there is a champion."

Over Sunday, the dance will go on aboard the Japanese Garden Boat in the middle of the Monongahela.

WASHINGTON DANCE ON

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 4.—To phonographic strains of the "St. Louis Blues," 20 couples, representing five counties, began a dance marathon in Washington Gardens here at 12:15 a. m. today and all were going briskly this afternoon.

A crowd of several hundred attended the opening. Mayor Robert H. McBurney had given official [illegible] for the event over pro[illegible]nisters, who branded the [illegible]ce shuffle was nonsensi[illegible]ainst the "best interests [illegible]mmunity."

YOUTH ADMITS AUTO THEFTS

Captured after a wild automobile chase through East Liberty yesterday, Robert Casey, 19, of 7306 Mt. Vernon street, confessed today, police say, to theft of between 45 and 50 automobiles and several store robberies, including the attempted looting of the Columbia Pharmacy, 301 Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, April 30.

Charles Beatty, 13, of 5116 Kincaid street, was fatally wounded in the pharmacy robbery by Lieut. Delmont Pugh, of the Wilkinsburg police force, and died in the Pittsburgh Hospital, May 4.

"We placed Beatty in the hospital corridor, then beat it," Casey is said to have told police today, describing his part in the robbery. There were four youths in the gang, Casey said. He went to Detroit the next day, but returned two weeks later and stole a number of machines which he used in escaping from store robberies or for joy-rides.

Casey was held over by Magistrate W. J. Soost at the hearings in the Frankstown Avenue Station until police check up his confession.

MUSEUM GETS "DEVIL INCARNATE"

. RARE SPECIMEN PRESENTED

A beautiful specimen of Alaskan black wolf, now almost extinct, has been presented to the Carnegie Museum by Mrs. Telesio Lucci, Sheelas, Pa. Mrs. Lucci two months ago turned over the skin to R. H. Santens, the museum's taxidermist, who mounted it in the characteristically belligerent pose shown here. A Fort Yukon missionary shot the animal eight years ago and presented it to Mrs. Lucci. According to Santens, the species is rapidly dwindling, and this is the only specimen he knows in this country. The creature will be on view for the first time today.

STEWART CALLS SIX SENATORS IN DEFENSE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 4. — The government today will formally complete the presentation of its contempt case against Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), who declined to answer questions asked by the Senate Public Lands Committee in its Teapot Dome investigation.

That the trial will extend over a considerable period of time is indicated by attorneys for the oil executive.

Frank J. Hogan, chief defense attorney, will attempt to show that the two questions which Senator Gerald P. Nye, the youthful chairman of the Senate Public Lands Committee, put to Stewart were written by newspaper men. He subpenaed Elliott Thurston and Paul Y. Anderson, Washington correspondents, as witnesses in an effort to prove that point.

Six United States Senators, all members of the Senate Public Lands Committee, have been subpenaed as defense witnesses.

AIR CRASH KILLS 2 PASSENGERS

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—Two passengers are dead and a pilot is fighting against heavy odds to live here today, following an airplane crash at Palms, Los Angeles suburb, late yesterday.

The dead are Irwin Stamnes, 19, and Cecil Wehrman, 20. The injured pilot is Harry G. Carley.

The two passengers were instantly killed when Carley's plane crashed in a nose dive from an elevation of only 200 feet. Carley was so seriously injured he is expected to die.

JOHNSTOWN PIONEER, 84, DIES IN HOSPITAL

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 4.—One of the oldest residents of this city, Mrs. Anna Duff, 84, died Saturday at Mercy Hospital.

WIFE FAINTS IN DIVORCE COURT

As her husband testified she had hurled dishes at him, Mrs. Stella Crock, being sued for divorce on a charge of cruelty by Leo A. Crock, swooned in Judge T. J. Ford's court today. She was assisted from the room and proceedings halted 10 minutes.

Crock, of 1207 Chislett street, testified his wife objected to his placing flowers on the graves of his first wife and their child.

Mrs. Crock resides at 126 North Negley avenue.

Heaviest Rain Of Season Forecast

"The heaviest general rain of the season," according to Forecaster W. S. Brotzman, set in early today and will continue tonight and at least part of tomorrow. The rain belt embraces the Ohio and Mississippi valleys with the center of the storm over Arkansas this morning. Little change in temperature is predicted.

WASHINGTON YOUTHS HELD IN AUTO THEFTS

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 4.—Two local youths, Wilbert Carpenter, 20, and Nelson Beatty, 18, alleged members of a band of auto accessory thieves, were arrested here Saturday night. Police claim they have implicated the pair in five auto thefts. Two other members of the alleged gang escaped.

This Cocktail Dress

—is such a versatile one for women, being an afternoon and evening frock in one, and made of the fabric which is most fashionable for all summer functions after one o'clock in the afternoon—chiffon.

The frock itself is sleeveless. When worn with the jacket it is suited to luncheons, five o'clock weddings, bridges and teas; without it, one has a smart, simple frock for dinner wear.

In black, orchid, imperial blue, coral or sunlight. Priced $49.50.

We Show the New Type of Smart Travel Coat

It is a woman's Wear-Weave which, although having the unmistakable marks of belonging in smart company on the highways, is so marvelously neat and conforming in outline that it is as trim for town wear as a tailored suit.

The fabrics have been chosen for their perfect harmony with the design of the coat, so that they will be striking without being obtrusive. They are in soft gray-and-black effects—stripes, plaids, mixtures—shaded to subtly slenderize the figure.

It is a beautiful coat, a distinctive coat, coming from one who is an artist in the designing and tailoring of coats; and yet the price is but $65.00.

DANCE 65 HOURS FOR $6 BET

This is the story of four able-bodied young sons of Italy and Syria, reared in our Hill district, who started a petty argument about the intricacies of the foxtrot and ended by dancing a 65-hour marathon for a $6 bet.

In a two-by-four storeroom, otherwise vacant, at 911 Bedford avenue, last Thursday night Johnny (Budds) Thomas, 19, and Tom Ferraro, 20, of 1210 Gilmore way, were tossing adolescent jibes at Tony (Chippie) Conti, 19, of 66 Washington street, and Johnny (Sharkey) Julian, 19, of Bedford avenue, because Chippie and Sharkey had not yet learned to step the light fantastic.

"Well," challenged Sharkey, who is an amateur boxer, "we can stand up longer than you, can't we, Chippie?"

"Sure," Chippie agreed, "those marathon dancers don't dance anyhow. They just move."

There was much arguing. Chippie and Sharkey ended it all by emptying their pockets of $6 which was promptly covered by Budds and Tom.

"All right, Pete, let 'er go," Chippie ordered, and Pete Antoon, the outstanding harmonica player of Bedford avenue, proceeded to furnish the music.

They danced 36 hours in that very small room and then, in the middle of Saturday, moved across the street to the more spacious room of the Young Men's Syrian Club, where their many admirers could more readily inspect their talents. Pete, the harmonica player, was given a graphaphone to spell him, but after midnight he played incessantly because the neighbors kicked about the scratching the needles made in the canned music.

Natives of the Hill district crowded into the Young Men's Syrian Club to cheer on Chippie and Sharkey, who were bent on annexing $6 and proving at the same time that a marathon dancer actually doesn't dance.

They danced into Sunday, ignoring utterly those ancient blue laws, and moving all the while to tunes which Pete, the harmonica conqueror, had learned from the Amerita band. Each hour they rested 15 minutes, just as regular marathon dancers do.

It ended Sunday noon. Tom Ferraro and Budds Thomas quit, Chippie and Sharkey pocketed the $6 and Pete, of the mouth harp, went home to bed. They split up $40 which their many admirers, delighted with the free show, had contributed.

All of which may satisfy your curiosity as to what this world is coming to.

TEXAS GUINAN

Here's how Texas Guinan looked when she went into New York court to answer the suit for $1,450 brought against her by Wynn Holcomb, artist, who says she owes her that for doing sketches of "Tex" and her "litle girls" of the night club.

OHIO STEEL OFFICIAL, ILL FEW DAYS, DIES

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 4.—[illegible] Jurey, 59, for man yyears official of the Republic Iron & Steel Company, is dead following a brief illness. He was assistant to the second vice president of the company, with which he had been connected since a youth.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Mary F. Gregg.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Fugassi Gregg, wife of Frank B. Gregg, president of the McKinley-Gregg Automobile Company, will be held tomorrow morning. Services at the Gregg residence, 6582 Beacon street, at 8:30 o'clock, will be followed by services in St. Philomena's Church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be private.

Mrs. Gregg, aged 45, died late Friday night. Besides her husband, she leaves three sons, Frank, Jr., Lucian and Anthony Gregg; two daughters, Mary Frances and Rose Mary Gregg; her mother, Mrs. Mary Fugassi; three brothers, Lucian, James L. and John A. Fugassi, and two sisters, Mrs. Esther Rini, of Cleveland, and Lisa Camelle Fugassi.

Mrs. Frederick Hoover.

Mrs. Mollie V. Hoover, wife of Frederick Hoover, died Saturday at her home, 1316 Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg. She was a memeber of Orient Chapter No. 35, O. E. S.; Daughters of Liberty Council No. 34 and of the Ross Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church. Besides her husband, she leaves a son, Ralph E. Hoover, of Beverly Hills, Ca., and a daughter, Mrs. R. J. Bauman, of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. J. C. Trees.

Mrs. Claudine Virginia Willison Trees, 56, wife of J. C. Trees, of 1452 North Highland avenue, died Saturday night at the West Penn Hospital. Mrs. Trees was born in Pittsburgh and lived the greater part of her life here. She was a member of Highland Presbyterian Church. Besides her husband she leaves one brother, Curtis Willison, of Chicago, and one sister, Mrs. Anna Gordon, of Rochester, Pa.

STAGE AND SCREEN ACTIVITIES DETAILED IN PICTURES AND GOSSIP ABOUT PLAYERS

Here and There Along the Lanes That Lead to Amusement Houses and Motion Picture Production Lots

Many Broadway Stage Lights, Including Ethel Barrymore and Elsie Janis, Now in Hollywood

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1928, Premier Syndicate.)

LOS ANGELES, June 4.

MARIE PREVOST is the contented realtor these days. She has two houses in Beverly Hills. Last summer, Elsie Janis leased the one Marie vacated at the time she and Kenneth Harlan came to the end of the matrimonial path. It was there, by the way, that Mrs. Janis nearly drowned. Elsie and a few friends were lounging near the swimming pool—which glorifies the back yard. Mrs. Janis was enjoying a swim. Suddenly, Elsie heard a feeble shriek and turned to see her mother sink. Everybody plunged to the rescue and Mrs. Janis was caught as she sank for the third time.

At all events, this house has been leased by Marie to Basil Rathbun and his wife, Ouida Bergere, and Violet Kemble Cooper and her brother, all of whom are playing in Los Angeles in "The Command to Love." Her other house has been taken over by Ruth Chatterton, another Broadwayite.

Broadway, indeed, is well represented in these parts. Phoebe Foster is playing here in "The Trial of Mary Dugan." Bayard Veiller, author of the piece, has checked into the Ambassador Hotel. Ethel Barrymore is stopping with Brother Jack. Mary Nash is in "The Command to Live." Elsie Janis and her mother have arrived to stay the summer, at least. Elsie intends to do a little concentrated screen writing whilst here. She's no pen novice by a long shot, what with umpty ump sketches, short stories and lyrics to her credit.

Recently Bebe Daniels' mother celebrated another birthday. Bebe and Marion Davies are great friends, so Marion suggested the party be chucked at her beach home. It was. Eddie Sutherland was there with Anita Page. Anita is the very beautiful blonde brought West by Harry Thaw and signed to a M.-G.-M. contract. Eddie considers her a "wow." The Abe Lehrs, the Barney Glazers and others were among those at Mrs. Daniels' birthday party. Bebe had a beautiful yellow iced cake made for the occasion. In brown icing was inscribed: "To my darling mother, a happy birthday. I am lucky to have you and you are lucky, too. Olivia." The Olivia signature was a mutually understood gag.

The story had just appeared in print that Al Jolson was to direct a picture. Al strolled into a restaurant the same day. George Jessel happened to be there, too. George spotted Al and trailed over to him: "Say, Director Jolson," lapsing photographically technical, "tell me how you would shoot a lap dissolve." But Al doesn't give away all his secrets. He paused at my table to tell me the story of two Hebraic merchants. One of them arrived at the office in the late afternoon. "Vere have you been, Abe?" asked his partner. "To see 'Sorrel & Son,'" Abe enlightened. The partner seized his arm eagerly. "Did you sell them?"

Fannie Brice was lunching with her director-to-be, Archie Mayo, at the Montmartre. I asked her if she has ever made pictures before. "Ten reels of Test," she returned. Incidentally, she has taken an apartment in Wilshire boulevard. As soon as the telephone company installs a phone she'll settle down to becoming acclimated. But, after all, "the voice with the smile" uses the same sing-song from coast to coast—"Excuse it, please." Fannie likes Hollywood, though she checks her visits to three or four months in lieu of stage engagements. She's pepped up over her forthcoming talky flicker and intends to use her spring dance as part of the plot fun.

DETERMINED -:- INSTRUCTORS IN BURLESQUE -:- FOR SUMMER

Chester Conklin, intent on becoming a social success, has adopted the tuba as a means of being hailed as the life of the party.

Seeking to develop new talent the Mutual Burlesque Association has reopened its school for women in New York, with the above instructors, Bebe Almond, Eslsie Burgere, Gertrude Foreman, Belle Miller, iKtty Madison and Mae Dix.

Mary Brian shows us the soft straw turban decorated with embroidery and beads, with a small georgette veil extending from edge.

THURSDAY EXCURSION ON JAPANESE GARDEN

Dancing, it is pointed out, is proving popular with young and old alike on the new river boat, Japanese Garden, which makes excursions from the foot of Wood street Thursday and Saturday nights, and also Sunday afternoons and evenings. Music is furnished by a girls' orchestra. The floating "garden" is used for private affairs the other nights of each week.

PITTSBURGH BOY JOINS MOVIE STUDIO STAFF

William N. Robson, Jr., Pittsburgh boy, who is a member of this year's graduating class of Yale University, has been engaged by Walter Wanger, production executive of Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation, and will leave for Hollywood to join the studio staff upon graduation. He has been active in Yale theatricals and as leader of an orchestra. His parents reside at 3376 Perrysville avenue.

BERWICK AIR PILOT INJURED IN CRASH

BERWICK, Pa., June 4.—Hyman Wintersteen, pilot, was injured slightly and two passengers escaped injury yesterday when their airplane was wrecked in taking off from the local airport. Just after clearing the ground the plane lost its "balance" and crashed on one wing. The plane was badly damaged.

Mexican Actress to Make Films in Europe

Although Dolores Del Rio, Mexican actress, has not yet completed "Revenge," her next United Artists' picture, plans are already in progress for the production to follow. Finis Fox, who writes the stories which his brother, Edwin Carewe, makes into photoplays, has a yarn prepared. He showed it to Carewe the other evening, and both were enthusiastic.

"Why, this is another 'Woman of Paris,'" exclaimed Edwin.

"Not a bad title—'Another Woman of Paris,'" said Finis.

So they telephoned Joseph M. Schenck to see if the title would in any way affect the picture Chaplin made with Adolphe Menjou and Edna Purviance. It was all "Okeh" with Mr. Schenck. So the present title of the Del Rio picture to follow "Revenge" is "Another Woman of Paris."

Dolores' contract calls for two films to be made abroad. And the chances are that she will combine a European vacation with work on this new production which calls for scenes in the French capital and in Monte Carlo. Meantime, work is progressing on the present drama with everyone highly pleased at the results. Leroy Mason, who plays the leading male role, has proven that Carewe made no mistake in his selection.

FUN, MYSTERY ON STAGE

"Why Men Leave Home" will be the offering of the George Sharp Players in the Pitt, opening tonight. It is an Avery Hopwood comedy.

A mystery melodrama, "The Last Warning," is to be given in the Nixon tonight by The Nixon Players.

Lois Moran and Neil Hamilton are featured in "Don't Marry," the comedy film announced for the Davis the week of June 11. There also will be Keith-Albee vaudeville.

"Saturday's Children," a play based on a young couple's matrimonial problems, will be the offering of the George Sharp Players the week of June 11. The story has to do with making the family income do double duty.

Opening Monday evening, June 11, The Nixon Players will present "Little Old New York," which ran one year in the Plymouth Theater, New York City. The play was written by Rida Johnson Young. The action of the play takes place in New York about 1810.

"Star" Photoplays Best, States Director

The majority of motion-picture directors prefer directing pictures with all-star casts.

Alan Crosland, who has been a director of the silent drama for more than 10 years, is an exception.

"I would rather direct a story with a star," he says.

Practically all of Crosland's successes have been star stories. For instance, he directed a series with John Barrymore, which included "Don Juan" and "When a Man Loves."

He recently made "The Jazz Singer" with Al Jolson, and his latest is a Dolores Costello starring picture, "Glorious Betsy."

"There is something definite to focus upon," says Crosland, "where a story is built around a star. You know in the beginning that that particular part is to be the outstanding one.

"Without a star you flounder about and never do actually know until the picture is completed who is going to get the big 'break.'

"I think it is much more satisfying to guide a star picture," Crosland concludes.

DOVER BANKERS WIFE, ILL TWO DAYS, DIES

DOVER, O., June 4.—Mrs. Oliver Toomey, 67, wife of Oliver Toomey, Dover banker, died at her home here Saturday night. She was ill two days.

Eric Von Stroheim Miss Swanson's Director

Gloria Swanson has signed Eric Von Stroheim to direct her next picture, her third independently produced United Artists offering, according to an announcement by the producer-star.

Miss Swanson, in confirming the successful completion of negotiations which have been in progress for several weeks, said that the title of her new opus will be "The Swamp." The picture will be based on an original story by Von Stroheim, now being adapted for the screen.

The story, laid in German East Africa, is highly dramatic and gives Miss Swanson the role she has desired more than any other as a successor to "Sadie Thompson," which is regarded everywhere as her finest characterization.

Preparations for filming "The Swamp" will be put under way immediately and production will begin at an early date, the picture being scheduled for release by United Artists Corp., of which the producer-star is an owner member, on the current season's schedule.

Trees Bear Fruit In Half Hour In Movie

Transforming blossoming apple trees into a fruit-bearing orchard within a space of a half hour's time, Norma Talmadge and her director Henry King, have performed a horticultural feat that would have baffled even the late Luther Burbank.

"The "nature-faking" was neccessary for Miss Talmadge's new United Artists picture, "The Woman Disputed," which has just been completed.

In the story of "The Woman Disputed," Miss Talmadge and her leading man, Gilbert Roland, act a love scene in an apple orchard, when the trees are in full bloom, and a few months later, meet in the same spot, when the trees are bearing fruit. Wishing to film the two sequences the same day, Director King had his technical aides transplant blossoming apple trees at the United Artists studio. When that scene was completed, fruit bearing trees were substituted for the blossoming orchard and the second scene filmed.

DISCUSS BOND ISSUE TONIGHT

With plans under way for 100 meetings to be held variuos parts of the county in the interest of the county bond issue, two gatherings will be held tonight at which time the various items of improvements will be discused. Meetings will be held in Bridgeville and in Ross township. The $43,680,000 bond issue is to be voted on June 26. The meetings are held under the auspices of the People's Bond Issue Association of Allegheny County, an organization whose aim is to see that the proposed bond improvements are secured.

Always Thin: This Happy Woman Must Tell How She Quickly Gained 11 Pounds

Underweight Men and Women the World Over Ought to Profit by the Experience of This Well Known Tennessee Woman

Read It Twice

To McCoy's Laboratory:

This is from Mrs. W. E. Looney—I just must tell you that McCoy's Tablets are the finest things I have ever tried. I have always been thin and never found anything to do me so much good. I was disappointed in the beginning.

I weighed 104 when I began—now I weigh 115½. I praise them. I can't be without them. My limbs are picking up fine. I am singing their praises to everyone I see. I didn't have any faith in them to start.

Signed (Mrs. W. E. Looney), Tennessee.

Oct. 16th, 1927.

How can any woman or man either for that matter look superbly attractive with deep hollows in chest and neck and with limbs scantily covered with flesh?

In every drug store in America you can find McCoy's Tablets, sugar coated and as easy to take as candy. They are recommended not only to put on weight but to improve the general health.

One sickly man in New Jersey regained his health and energy and added 28 pounds of much needed flesh.

But read McCoy's generous offer—it tells the whole story to every fair minded person.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes, any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health, your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at May's Drug Stores or any drug store in America.

How To Be Beautiful

by Maria Jeritza

Summer Care of the Hair

Maria Jeritza

THE native woman who bobs her hair in China does so, it is said, at the risk of a fine by her government, as a penalty for her radical ideas. In the Western world, fortunately, there is not a penalty attached to bobbing, and women are clinging to the fashion because of its convenience and sanitary cleanliness, as well as hot weather comfort.

Whether you wear your hair long or short, its beauty depends on health, good grooming and becoming, suitable arrangement.

"How often shall I wash my hair?"

This question is often asked me, especially in hot weather, when the scalp perspires freely.

"Every second to fourth week," is the advice of George T. Jackson, M. D., and Charles W. McMurtry, M. D., in a recent treatise on the subject, "for those who are not exposed to more than the usual amount of dust. Those who are so exposed should shampoo the head every week or two."

"The scalp should be washed, as a rule, twice a week," writes Dr. Oscar L. Levin, of the Cornell University Medical College. "The hair of the scalp," he adds, "is a catch-all for dirt, since it not only retains the dust and soot of the atmosphere, but also conceals and holds secretions of the oil and sweat glands and the scales which are constantly being thrown off. The hair is probably dirtier than any other part of the skin surface."

So you see, you need not fear that frequent shampoos will hurt your hair or scalp. My own suggestion is, wash your hair as often as it gets dirty and oily, whether that means once in two weeks or twice each week. Wash it more frequently in summer, because in hot weather perspiration causes the hair to look oily and give forth an unpleasant odor unless it is kept scrupulously clean.

Half an hour before you shampoo, you might rub the following mixture into your scalp:

Hot olive oil, two parts; glycerine, one part.

Hot oil is nourishing to the hair roots and loosens dandruff.

Wring a turkish towel out of hot water and tie it about your head to help this mixture sink in. When you wash your hair, wet it thoroughly with warm water. Next lather both scalp and hair well with liquid green or melted castile soap. Wash out the lather and repeat both lathering and rinsing a second time. In fact, the hair should be rinsed over and over with warm water until every trace of soap and dirt is removed. Then rub it dry with a warmed turkish towel.

Use soft water for your shampoo whenever you can. It is wonderful for the hair, bringing out all its lustre. If your hair is naturally dry, as a last touch after your shampoo, rub just a little sweet almond oil into your scalp, not your hair.

There is no reason why every healthy woman should not have luxurious, beautiful hair, provided she gives sensible attention to its growth and daily care.

Shoots Self, Body Plunges Over Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 4.—(AP.)—Shooting himself in the temple, while standing on the Canadian side at the brink of Horseshoe Falls, with his back to the cataract, Pierre L. Bovard, 22, of Villette Vaud, Switzerland, fell 160 feet to the river's edge, Saturday night.

Several persons saw the man fall. Police recovered the body several hours later.

Bovard had left his overcoat on the iron railing near the falls. There is nothing to indicate a reason for the suicide. Bovard arrived here from Switzerland on May 14. He was unemployed.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.
U.S. Senator from New York

Organ of Hearing a Dainty Machine

THE modern teacher attempts to fill the mind of each of her pupils with accurate and common sense information. Of course, the child does not always get exactly the right idea of what the teacher intends to convey.

DR. COPELAND

For instance, a twelve-year-old friend of mine was discussing with me the other day what had been taught him about gall-stones. He told me the teacher said alcohol would dissolve them. But when I suggested that perhaps this is an argument against the Volstead Act, he hastened to say the treatment is useful for children only and would do harm to grown people. Then he added that he might be mistaken about the particular drug, possibly it was not alcohol the teacher mentioned.

Of course, it wasn't but it is just this way ideas get started. Somebody misunderstands or fails to remember exactly what was said about some ailment. He passes on to others his mistaken notion and pretty soon all the world may hold to a false notion.

Most people believe that a foreign body in the ear may "work its way into the brain." This is a silly idea, absolutely without foundation. What does happen, however, is that ignorant and awkward efforts to remove it are likely to drive the thing deeper and deeper into the ear canal.

At the bottom of the canal is the ear drum, a delicate membrane which guards the middle ear. If roughness and unskillful efforts are used to remove the foreign body, it may be pushed down against the drum and may even rupture the membrane. This causes pain and real harm.

Sometimes, in the mistaken idea that a foreign body had entered the ear, an overzealous friend, in his efforts to remove it, has actually destroyed the drum and scraped out the little bones. Damage which can never be repaired may be done in a few minutes.

There is a funny old saying attributed to a wise doctor, that "nothing should be put in the ear except the point of the elbow." That is good advice for the layman.

There are times, of course, when, for one reason or another, when the doctor cannot be reached, it is advisable to remove the foreign body. It that emergency arises, gentle syringing is all you should attempt. Warm water and a gentle flow of the fluid into and out of the ear, will probably accomplish the desired result. But no force should be used. Fainting and pain will follow undue force.

The best plan is to go to the doctor, and there is no particular hurry about that, because the foreign body will not stir if it is left alone.

Answer to Health Query

Q.—How many glasses of water should a 15-year-old girl take daily?

A.—Six to eight glasses of water should be taken daily.

X. Z. Q.—What should a man weigh who is thirty-two years old and 5 feet 8 inches tall?

2—How can I gain weight and build up my entire system?

A.—For his age and height he should weigh about 155 pounds.

2—Proper dieting and deep breathing is the secret. You should eat nourishing foods and have plenty of sleep and rest.

S. S. Q.—I have strained my back. What would you advise as treatment? Would walking hurt me, since I need exercise to keep up my general health?

A.—Massage and application of heat should be helpful; strapping the back is very beneficial in some instances. If you are able to walk without undue strain or further exertion it should not harm you to do so in moderation.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Tuesday, June 5

THERE are testimonies of conflict and some adverse positions in this day's planetary operations. Although there may be some sudden visitations, possibly of a whirlwind nature, causing change of environment, and business may assume precarious aspects, yet on the social or affectional side there may be pleasurable, if sensational, denouements. There is an element of secrecy in affairs, but all may result in substantial benefit.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of abrupt and important change or travel. While business may assume hazards, personal affairs may be spectacular or unconventional. With caution, substantial returns may be engineered.

A child born on this day may be disposed to "strategem and spoils" as well as intrigue and unorthodox adventures. It may have a spectacular career on its personal adventures.

The rise of man is endless. Be in hope; all stars are gathered in his horoscope.—MARKHAM.

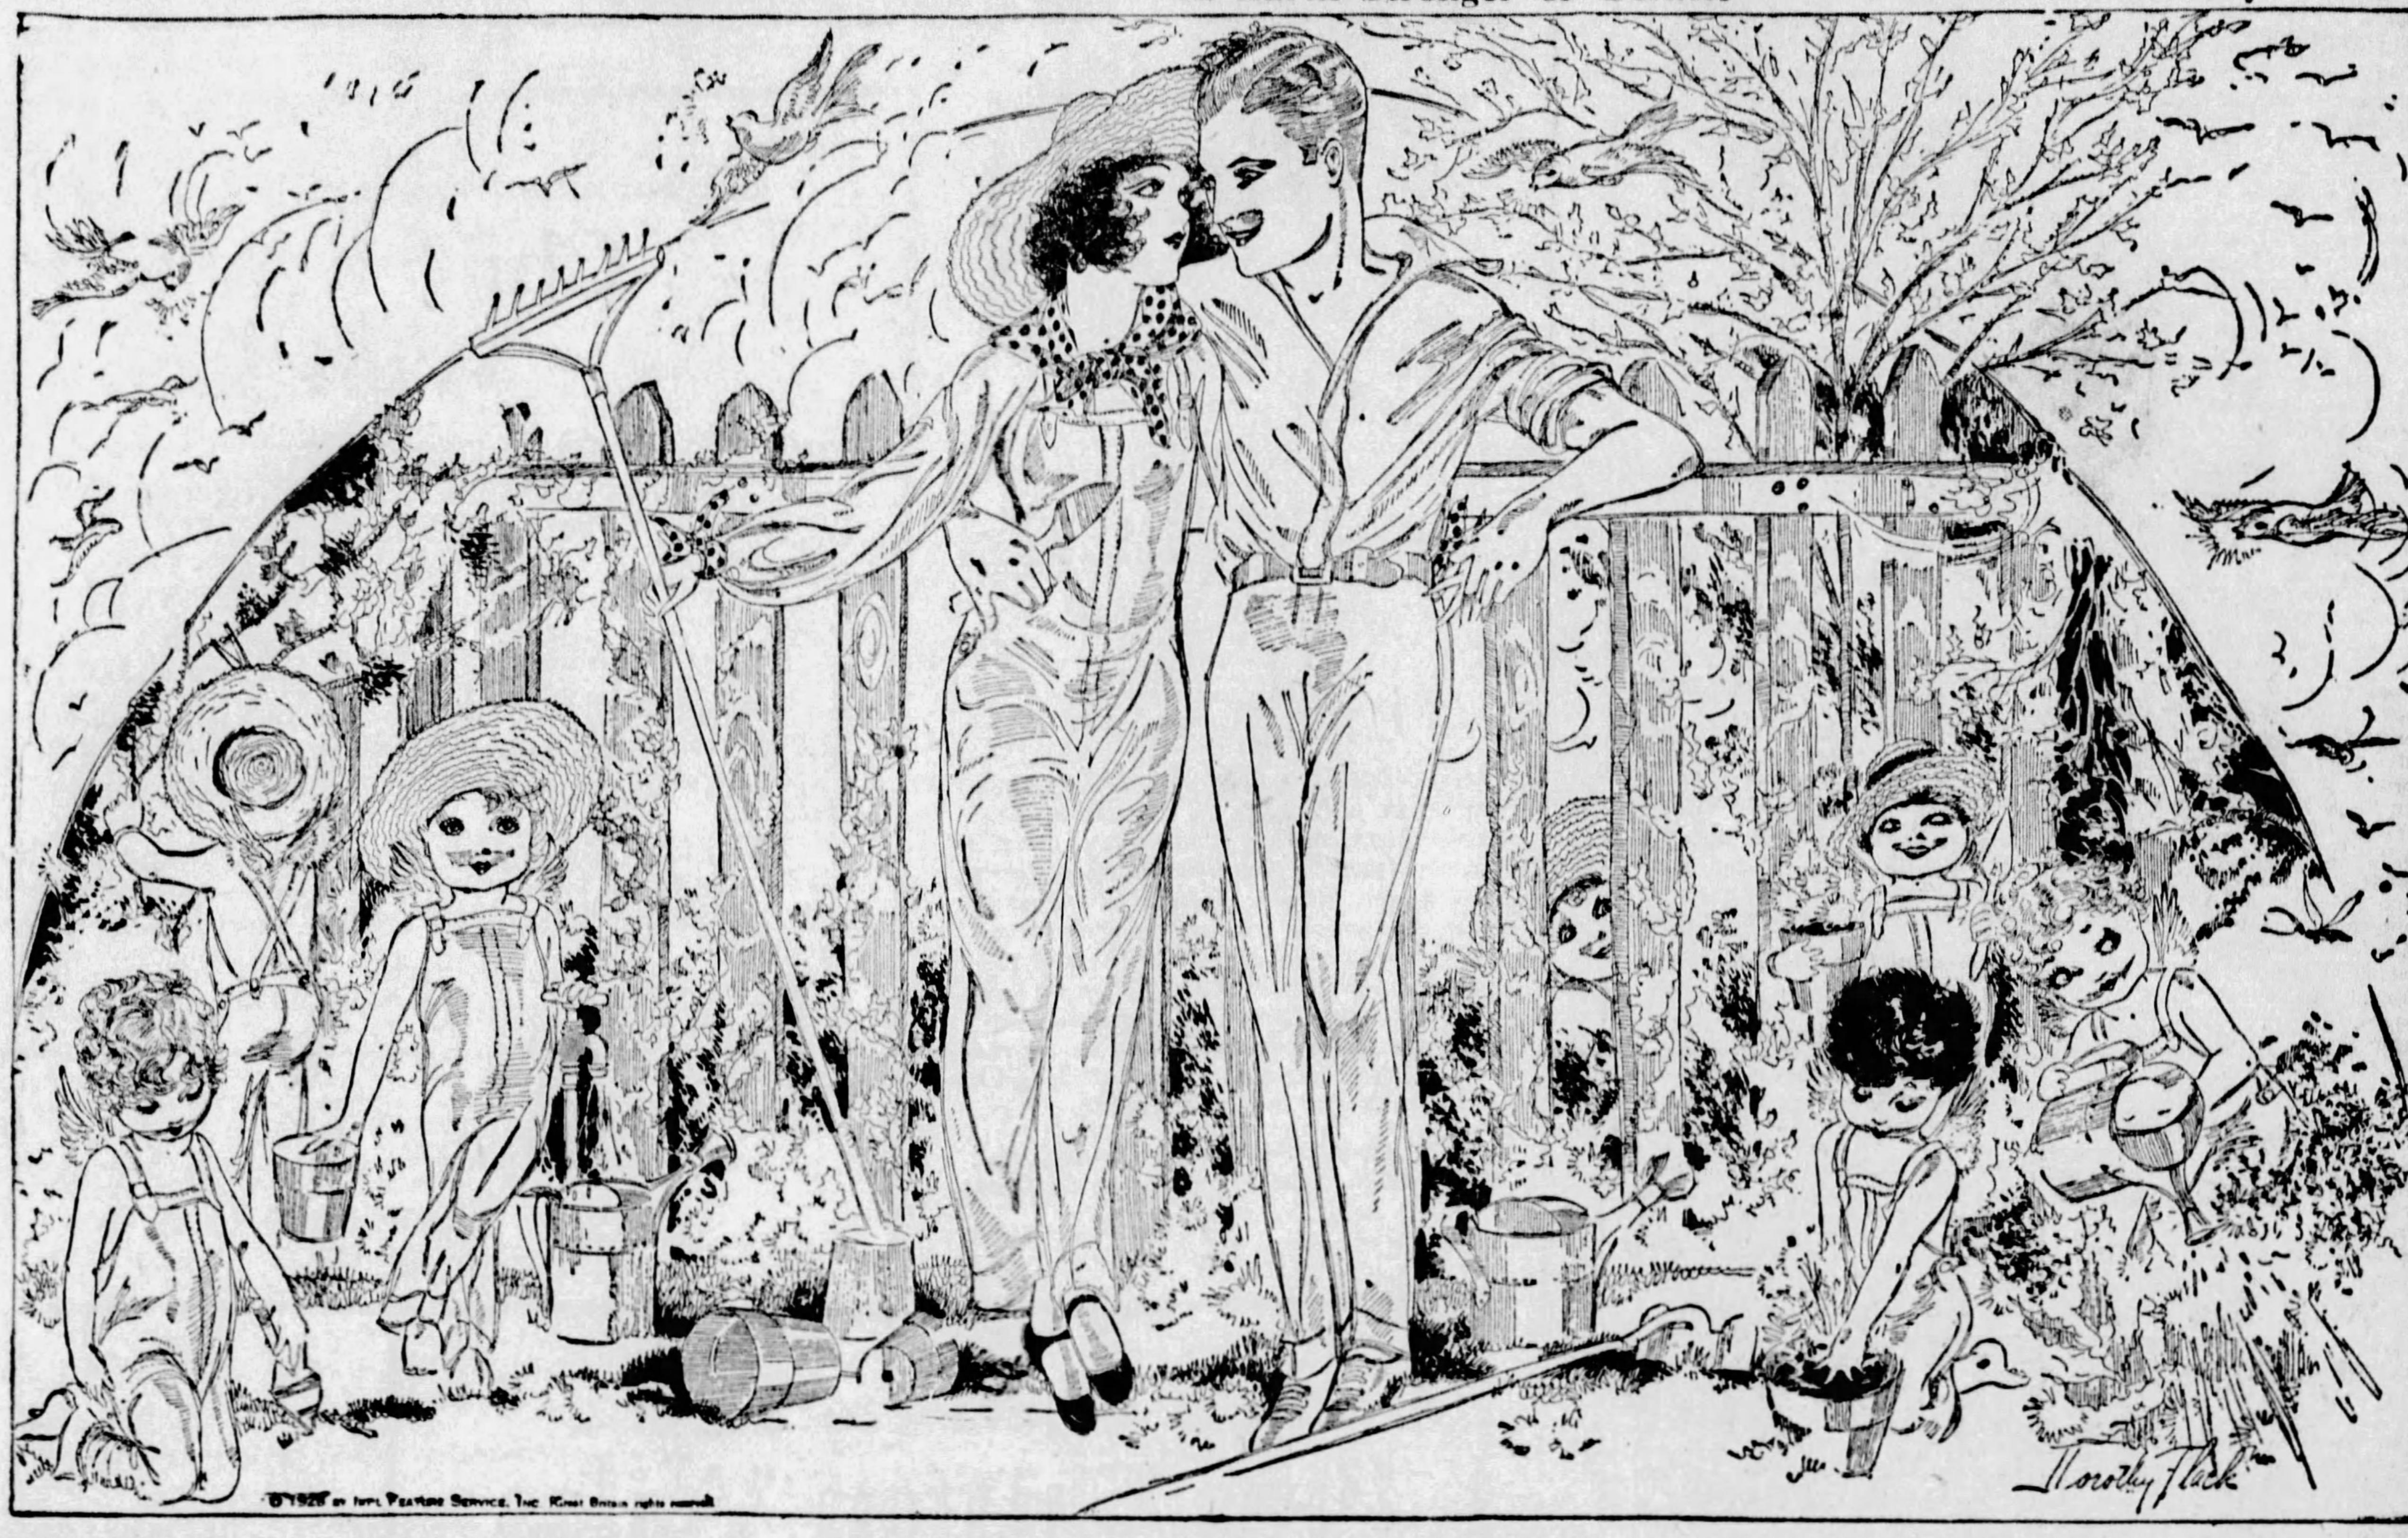
LOVE TENDS A GARDEN

Than Which There Is No Power on Earth Stronger or Gentler

Drawn by Dorothy Flack



© 1928 by Int'l Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.

WHEN Love tends a Garden all the growing things seem to feel the joyous happiness of its tender care and bloom in richest profusion to repay the care which is so generously given.

For love begets love and gives greater glory to life and living. And what greater glory can there be than a beautiful garden, full of the gay colorings and rich gifts which Mother Nature gives her children? And what sweeter task for two who are making their love nest than the tending and planting of a garden? For a garden tended by love is bound to be beautiful.

Getting close to the heart of Nature puts us in tune with life. And listening to that tune puts a song of happiness in the heart and makes the love that has come to us a dearer, richer thing.

A garden of living, growing things means a garden of beauty in your own heart that reflects and shines happily for all time. See that the garden of your heart is kept free from the weeds of jealousy and suspicion and distrust, for these choke and kill love, even as the unruly weeds thrive and strive to push aside the shy plants that peep from the rich earth. Pluck them out by the roots before they kill love, even as you pull the weeds that spoil your garden. For when Love tends a garden, everything should be perfect and lovely.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

ON LOVE IN MODERN DRESS

A MODERN man no longer regards wedding bells as a "happy ending" to a love affair; he banks on a graceful exit and a quick "curtain."

* * *

Marriage is a gamble, with this difference: If you gamble in stocks and lose, you've nothing left; but if you gamble in marriage and lose, you've still got your "punishment" on your hands.

* * *

From nine to five one-half the world doesn't know how its other half lives—but she has a lot of exciting guesses.

HELEN ROWLAND

Turning a violet ray on a blonde will tell you whether she's the real thing or only a beautiful fake—but alas, there is no kind of ray that will throw the same revealing light on a man's love-making!

* * *

A sick man would often get well far more quickly if he were not mothered to death by so many sympathetic women. But "feeling sorry for a man" is every normal woman's favorite way of enjoying herself!

* * *

There are two kinds of irritating husbands: Those who come home with a familiar fragrance on the breath—and those who come home with an UNfamiliar fragrance on the coat-lapel.

A man may value his wife above rubies, and even above his favorite automobile and his pet collar-button—but only a good stenographer is positively invaluable.

Funny—and yet sad! But it takes seven or eight dresses with hats and stockings to match for a woman to keep dolled up to match a man who owns one pair of white flannel trousers.

Apparently we Americans insist upon a happy ending to everything—except matrimony.

Take Years Off
An Aged Complexion

Women marvel at the result of daily using pure mercolized wax. How the soft, alluring beauty is uncovered and entire face looks many years younger. Applied to the face, neck and arms, nightly, like a cold cream, it gently absorbs the aged, faded skin in tiny particles, removing freckles, tan and other blemishes. The loveliness of the youthful skin hidden beneath is then revealed in its clear, smooth, natural beauty. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty. To remove wrinkles and restore the contour of youth, use as an astringent, 1 ounce powdered saxolite and 1 half pint witch hazel. At all drug stores.

For the Lovelorn

By ELEANOR GALE

Jerry

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have never written to you before, but have been reading your wonderful column every evening. My story goes like this: When I was a freshman in high school five years ago I met a wonderful boy. We became very friendly by going to the school's affairs. Time went on until we finished high school. Then our class went down to Washington, D. C., on a trip and we had a little quarrel. We did not make up until a few months went past. He ran around with other girls and I ran around with other boys. Then it happened that I was at a dance and he was there also. He came up and asked me if he could have a dance and I could not refuse. We danced and everything was O. K. again. Now he is going to an art school studying to be an artist and he is putting himself through school, and almost all the money he makes he had to spend at school for materials. So you see he does not have much to spend on himself for pleasure. I am deeply in love with him and I am willing to wait for him forever. If I do not get him, I don't want anybody else. He comes from a very good family, and I am sure he will make good as an artist because he is best suited for that vocation. He only sees me at my home twice a week. The rest of the time he is home studying or earning more money. Now, dear Miss Gale, this is where I want help. One Wednesday night when he was out to see me a knock came to the door. I went to answer it. There was a boy friend that I went with when I came back from Washington, D. C., while the "future artist" and I were mad. The boy is wild over me, but I don't like him. When he is around me he gets on my nrves. Well this boy gave me an Easter egg for Easter. I did not want to take it, but he put it in my hands and said good-night, and walked toward his car and drove away. Now the "future artist" sent me a beautiful Easter card which I think more of then all the Easter eggs in the world. Since the "future artist" is working his way through school and does not have a car, nor money to spend to have a good time, he wants me to forget him and find a fellow who can show me a good time. But I do not want to do that because I am in love with him and I know he is in love with me, because he said he loves me and he speaks very highly of me. When we meet each other on the street we always speak, but I am not satisfied. I want him back because there is nobody but him for me. I always tell him that I don't want good times. The only thing I want is the "future artist." Now, Miss Gale, which is the best way to get him back. I don't think I can do without him, and I know he cannot do without me.

This boy is right in not wanting to tie you down while his future is so hazy. Be content with your friendship until he is in a better financial state, and have a good time as he suggests. If your love is real, it will last during the years when he is preparing for his future.

Betty

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have read your column for a good many years and really am interested in it. Now, Miss Gale, here I am for some advice, too. I met a certain fellow at a dance, and I am a little interested in him and I believe he is, too. I have seen him at a good many dances when he'd dance with me through the whole evening, which I don't think is very nice, do you? He asked me to a dance out his way. I refused him saying that I was going with my brothers to a certain dance. He said he'd take me there. I said it was impossible to do so, for I was going with my brothers. He said he'd see me out there then. I said it was all right. This certain fellow was almost engaged to a girl, but the girl broke off by saying she was not going to get married. The fellow has bought the engagement ring and now I believe I'll get it soon if I don't watch out. Do you think it's all right to go with him? How could I get my mother's consent to it? She is very strict and harsh. I am 18 years old and he is 21. BETTY.

I see no reason why you shouldn't go with this boy, but you are too young to be thinking of marriage, my dear.

Undecided

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been reading your column for a long time and think you give wonderful advice so now I come for some for myself. I am 17 years old and go to high school. I have been writing to a boy who is 16 for nearly two years, but I do not know him. We correspond through a friend of mine. Now, Miss Gale, if this boy stops writing shall I write to him again? I was the first to start the correspondence. He writes very nice interesting letters. Mother advised me to stop writing to him. Shall I? UNDECIDED.

Your mother's advice is excellent, my dear. I would follow it if I were you.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

A SELECTION from Gounod's opera, "Faust," will be played by the Riverside Trail Blazers during the Riverside hour, which will be broadcast through KDKA and other stations associated with the Blue Network, at 9 o'clock tonight. Other numbers by the Trail Blazers, a band conducted by Harold Sanford, will include J. Oliver Riehl's "Spirit of Progress" march, "Mary Ann," "Missouri Waltz," Victor Herbert's "March of the Toys" and "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling," by Tate. A male quartet will be featured during this program. The singers will present "Mammy's Lullaby" and "You're the First Thing I Think of in the Morning."

Arcadie Birkenholz, concert violinist, will be featured in an all-Saint-Saens program which will be presented during the "Works of Great Composers" period to be broadcast through KDKA and other Blue Network stations at 10 o'clock. Mr. Birkenholz will play the second and third movements of Saint-Saens' "Concerto in B Minor," accompanied by the National Concert Orchestra, conducted by Cesare Sodero. Genia Fonariova, mezzo soprano, and a baritone soloist will sing a group of songs during this program.

The first of the summer series of General Motors family parties will be broadcast at 8:30 o'clock. The length of the concerts has been reduced from one hour to one half hour for the summer season. The number of stations on the network will remain the same—32. A distinctive program of French music will be given in commemoration of the exploits of Cadillac and La Salle, the French explorers, whose names are linked in the history of early Colonial days with the development of the great American-Canadian territory contiguous to Detroit, the home of the two cars named for them. Instrumental music will be provided by Joe Green's novelty band, with vocalists for presentation of French folk songs and classics.

Some bright and sparkling compositions by modern music makers will gradually give way to more somnolent selections in this week's program by the Fisk Time-to-Retire Boys and orchestra, another network feature to be broadcast over WCAE at 10:30 o'clock. Among the songs will be "Star of Me," by the American composer, James H. Rogers. "Humoreskimo," a fast-stepping foxtrot, will be played by the orchestra. The lilting strains of the new tongue-twister "Constantinople" will also be offered by the musical ensemble.

Hookless and sliceless drives, and how to make them, will be explained by Johnny Farrell, the golf champion, in the program of the Spur Tie Beaus to be broadcast by 17 associated stations of the Columbia Broadcasting System, including WJAS, at 9 o'clock. A musical program will precede and follow the talk.

No less than nine nations will be represented in festive music in the Come to the Fair program to be heard over WJAS at 9:30 o'clock. This program willbe presented by mixed and male quartets, vocal and instrumental soloists, supported by a large symphony orchestra. Spain, France, India, Bohemia, Ireland, Czecho-Slovakia, Germany, Holland and Russia will be among the nations whose ceremonial music will be heard.

THE CONSTANT FLAME

A Fair Maid Meets Love In Strange Surroundings

by WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Emily Lives in Memories With Clippings and Pictures of Kent

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Emily Day and her lively sister, Kitten, are daughters of a worker in the Rossiter factory. Both are prevented by poverty from mingling with the socially elect of the little town. Emily has made an ideal of Kent Rossiter. Marty Nolan, whose father keeps a "speakeasy," is devoted to her and she is astonished at his popularity with some of the rich girls who snub her. Mrs. Frances Haiden, a wealthy interior decorator, takes an interest in her and tells her the only aristocracy is that of work. At a party in the Rossiter home Emily grows jealous of Marilee Grainger, who is supposed to be engaged to Kent. She wanders into the moonlight. Kent follows her, kisses her and calls her beautiful. She gets a job with Mrs. Haiden. Her father dies and Rossiter offers help which her mother declines. Under Mrs. Haiden Emily has made a hit with the smart set.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

EMILY appeared often in the Great View salon. Sometimes she would sit behind the tea table, the dim light of which Mrs. Haiden was so fond, picking out her pale head, throwing into sharp relief her small sweet face.

Sitting like a flower, as delicate and as sweet, her hands busy with the massive silver tea service, saying in her shy way, "Lemon? Sugar? Oh, another cake—do."

Her mind busy with the things they talked of—turning in upon itself with a little sense of shock sometimes. A woman, wife of a famous architect, was giving a party to celebrate her divorce.

"Certainly, my dear; why not? Remember what a great man said? That there's nothing so wonderful as the first kiss and nothing such a relief as the last?"

She could say that, this aristocratic looking woman, and laugh! Strange things they told each other, over the tea cups. They talked so much of "expression." One was painting grubby little pictures to express herself; another wished to have a child for the same reason. Only she didn't want to marry . . .

That was the "Freudian theory?" Why did those who always were telling what they were going to do talk of it so much? Why did they quarrel about George Bernard Shaw?

Emily got one of his books and read it. But she couldn't figure it very well.

Once they took her to the Lyall Yacht Club and she sat at a big round table and drank lemonade while they talked intensely and got very red with talking.

She caught sight of Stella and Skeets Bradley half hiding in a corner, very close together.

It was not lemonade they were drinking.

CHAPTER XIII.

KENT was at law school, the society column told Lyall one day.

Emily clipped the item and put it away in a little Japanese box. The box was half full of such small newspaper clippings, all with the dates carefully noted in blue pencil. Put together, one after the other, they would pretty faithfully have recorded the history of young Mr. Rossiter from the time he left high school more than five years before.

There was a blurred and inky picture of him in cap and belted coat leaning upon the rail of an ocean liner.

This was crumbling about the edges, for it was the first of the collection; one she had cut from a New York newspaper shortly after he had kissed her in the moonlight at Highcliffe. And there was a yellowed spot in the center of it, almost over Kent's face, such as a tear sometimes makes.

Another picture, rather creased but holding its brightness was a rotogravure depiction of Kent in football togs. A third showed him playing polo some place with a long name outside of London.

And scattered between, like dust among drying leaves, were the little printed items from the Lyall paper.

There were other things in the box. Oh, quite impersonal things but touched with a rare intimacy for one who loved them.

Impersonal things like pictures postcards. One showing a street in Rome; another the cherry blossoms at Nagasaki. There were no more than a half dozen in all, each with some laughing message.

In no wise loverly, these messages, yet Emily read them over and over, thrilling because he had thought of her.

But the cards were dated far back; he had sent her none after the first year. And if ever it struck her as an unreasonable thing, this pensive treasuring of the memory of one who had forgotten her, she would go to the very bottom of the box and bring up a dried little old rose. She had broken it from the vines that luminous night so long ago and carried it home with her, hardly conscious of what she did.

Now she had only to hold it—close her eyes—hear him singing their song—saying, softly, "Prettiest girl in Lyall—prettiest and sweetest, Emily—"

A memory—yes. But a living thing, vibrant with beauty. More real life to her than many commonplaces; Marty looking at her with his brooding scowl; Kingdon Coles bending toward her, a curious light in his eyes.

Avis was seldom in Lyall. "A movie record of her life would be just a series of streaks," Mrs. Haiden declared.

The society column would say Avis was leaving for Bar Harbor, for Newport, Aiken or Palm Beach, according to the season. She had been "out" four years or more now and her engagement first was reported and then denied. But the rumor persisted.

About all the town saw of her was a flash of tilted red hat as she went slashing through the streets in her fast roadster, bright green like the less imposing one of other days.

Mrs. Briggs came one morning and graphically sketched for the Days a scene in the breakfast room at Highcliffe.

Mrs. Day listened with her mouth grim, over a drift of lace she was mending—sent her fingers thrusting into the filmy meshes with a queer disdain as if it stood for the Rossiters and all their works.

Kitten sat on the floor and teased Raggedy, grown heavy and somewhat supercilious, flashing impish looks at her sister who pretended no interest.

"There's a wild streak in that one," Mrs. Briggs began in the hollow tone with which the small town dispenses its gossip. "An' her folks that steady-like! Well, you'd never believe the goin's-on of her and the Grainger baggage. It ain't decent, I say!" And she rolled her eyes as if looking for someone to gainsay her, while Kitten giggled.

"You may laugh, Miss, but they's trouble brewin', you mark my words. Only this mornin' the Mister was eatin' his ham an' eggs—I cooked them myself and served them too, mind you, when he asked me to call Miss Avis. An' I could see he was mad what with the way his jaw was out.

"Well, me fine lady answered she'd not be bothered, but he sent me back. An' what next but she must come traipsin' in with her wrapper that thin would shame you to look an' a cigaret in a holder long as your arm.

"'Really, father,' says she," and Mrs. Briggs minced her words and shoved her eyebrows up as far as they would go. "'Really, father, ain't you a bit despotic?' Though what she meant by that I dunno.

"'Sit down,' says he and me fine lady sat, for anyone could see he meant business. "'An' how long' says he, 'is this dodgin' issue to continue?'

"'I dunno what you mean,' says she, blowin' smoke at him. An' didn't he snatch her cigaret an' chuck it out the window!

BUGS BAER Says

(Copyright, 1928.)

THE farmers' grievance committee continues to report progress. The clover kickers will be there for that husking bee in Kansas City this month.

ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

They intend to find out what's wrong with this administration's crop of new mown legislators.

The new rural weights and measures are two vetoes make a quart, and two squawks make a bushel.

The weed-jerkers of the outlying districts are through with their spring round-up of potato bugs and will concentrate their co-operative indignation on Kansas City.

They will be there 50,000 strong. Each one will pound to the protesting rendezvous in his Ford car.

It will be another Coxey's army on wheels. If each one brings a corncob with him and tosses it in the aisle it will stampede the convention.

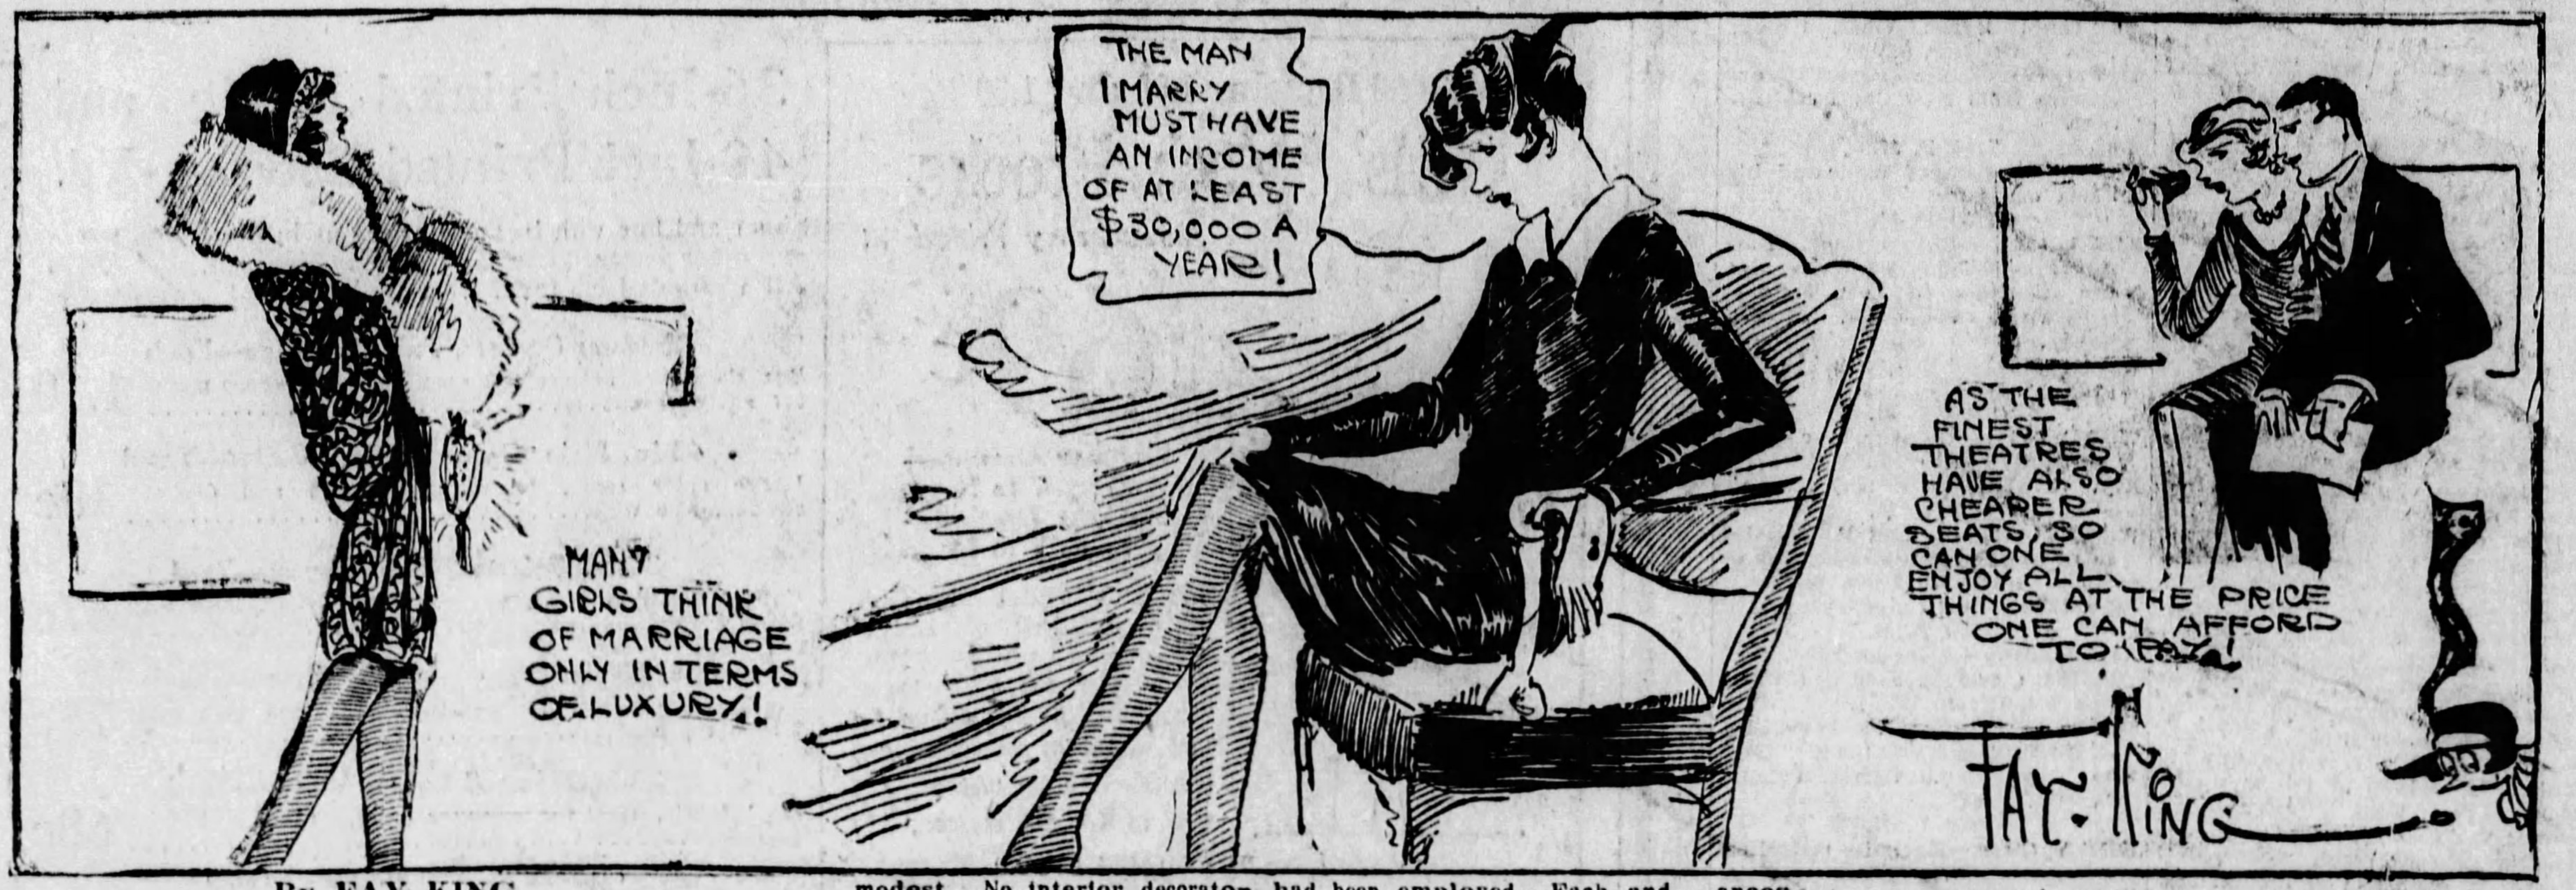
Fifty thousand Fords mean that the plague of tin locusts will descend on Egypt at 17 miles an hour.

Good roads enable the farmer to tour to a luxurious destination and holler his hat off at politicians who are the farmers' friends right up to that minute when a farmer needs a friend.

We hope the squash-twisters go through with this bouncing crusade. And when they park outside the convention hall we hope they keep their engines running.

They are sacrificing their fenders in a good cause.

Money Not Vital for Marrying, Says Fay King



MANY GIRLS THINK OF MARRIAGE ONLY IN TERMS OF LUXURY!
THE MAN I MARRY MUST HAVE AN INCOME OF AT LEAST $30,000 A YEAR!
AS THE FINEST THEATRES HAVE ALSO CHEAPER SEATS, SO CAN ONE ENJOY ALL THINGS AT THE PRICE ONE CAN AFFORD TO PAY!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

A GREAT many girls think favorably of marriage only if it means they can marry a man who can keep them in luxury.

The man they marry must have a fine income. They want a smart home; a good-looking car; fine clothes, and to travel.

Thinking only in terms of the best and not less than that is very foolish in their mind.

Some of the cosiest, happiest homes I have been in were most modest. No interior decorator had been employed. Each and everything in them was loved and worked for and planned. They radiated the personality of those who lived there.

One does not need a fortune to be happy. One may see things and travel and look pretty and get a lot out of life that money cannot buy!

When one has small means, she is not expected to do the many things that those with money must do to keep up appearances.

I'll wager many young couples have had finer trips around the country in their second-hand cars, going where they pleased and doing as they pleased, than those whose plans have been made and marred with efforts to outshine others and do more than they could really afford.

One even may go to Europe reasonably and see more of a foreign country by living simply among plain people.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

MAN HUNT By EVANGELINE WEIR

MRS. GLOVER laid down the letter she had been reading and looked at her brother, stretched at full length on the couch, to see how he would accept the startling announcement she was about to make.

"Pat Morgan is coming here to spend August."

John Morris sat upright and stared at his sister.

"Who asked her?" he demanded angrily.

"She asked herself—that is, she will be here in a few hours, so she tells me."

"I am going off—"

"Now, John, please," his sister begged.

"My whole vacation spoiled by that pampered, conceited little flirt! If I act half decent, she will think I am in love with her and put out a danger sign."

"Were you engaged to her at one time?" his sister ventured.

"I escaped; she warned me. It was nothing serious. I said a lot of foolish things to her and she encouraged them. I began to think I had gone too far and that she might be really serious when she told me suddenly that she was sorry that I cared for her for she could not marry me. Said I was rather a nice boy, but I had many things to learn before I would make a good husband. Of course I could not hit her back, but I wanted to strike hard."

Mrs. Glover left the room to make preparations for her uninvited guest. She wondered just why Pat Morgan was coming to her simple camp to spend a whole month. She did not like the idea of having the rich, pampered girl break in on the quiet of her vacation.

The toot of a horn and a big car stacked inside and out with luggage, announced Pat Morgan's arrival at the camp. Mrs. Glover, followed by her unwilling brother, went to meet her. Pat in an old sport suit was driving. She had come without maid or chauffeur, for which Mary Glover was thankful, but puzzled at their absence.

Pat, sure of a welcome, hugged Mrs. Glover and called her an old dear, then turned to her brother and held out her hand.

"So glad to find you here, John; I was afraid you might run off when you heard I was coming."

"Why should I run away from so much beauty and charm?" he asked lightly.

"I did not bring a chauffeur," she said.

"You thought I might fill the place?" John asked.

"I am capable of running a car myself, and I can hire a native to clean it. I mean to have a good time."

"You brought a lot of unnecessary luggage," John told her. "You do not need many things here where there is no one to see you."

She laughed merrily.

"Don't flatter yourself, John. If you look closely you will find boxes with things to eat in them. I know how to appeal to you."

John was furious at her tone rather than her words. Mary Glover sighed for war had started already. She hurried Pat into the camp, while John and a servant unloaded the car.

"I ought to apologize for coming like this, Mrs. Glover, but I had no time to wait for an invitation. Father is determined that I shall marry somebody's son because he likes to smoke and tell jokes to that old somebody; Mother has decided that I shall marry her dearest friend's nephew because that nephew has a house full of old silver and rare paintings, and a name as old as our own. I just walked out. I didn't even invite the maid or chauffeur to follow me.

Mary Glover was troubled.

"Your mother and I were girls together at school—"

"She knows you are safe. She did not object to my coming to you, except that it upset her plans. Don't be troubled if I flirt with your brother. I must have some outlet and he is so sure of himself that it will not hurt him to get a few bumps."

"John is capable of taking care of himself," Mary Glover told her.

"Exactly. He is mid-Victorian. He thinks every girl who plays around with him and acts half decent to him, is in love with him. I am going to break him in."

"You are honest," Mary Glover laughed.

"Or modern," Pat answered.

Pat and John quarreled so continuously that Mary Glover scolded them separately and collectively, without effect. She gave them up in despair after the advice of her cook.

"Let 'em alone, Miss Glover; they act like me own sister an' her beau. They'll get used to each other."

One morning Pat came in with a flushed face and angry eyes.

"I am going home, Mrs. Glover; I'll take a chance between Somebody's Son or My Dearest Friend's Nephew."

"Pat, what the matter?"

"Your brother is disagreeably honest."

"I thought you approved of that?"

"There's a limit. John and I quarreled as usual. He began speed and I thought to coax him into a good humor. I laid my head against his shoulder and looked up at him intelligently. He kissed me. Then his face grew stern and he told me that he never intended to marry a girl who encouraged petting. I told him that I would never marry a man who took advantage of a girl who was repentant for her sins. He said, 'I never asked you.' I'm off!"

One hour later, Pat Morgan's car was packed and she said goodbye to Mrs. Glover without leaving any message for her brother. When John came in to lunch, he took no notice of the absence of their guest until his sister informed him that she had gone.

"What in the world—" he began.

"She has gone home to Marry Somebody's Son, or a nephew of a dearest friend, I can't tell which. It will be in the papers tomorrow."

"The little fool!"

"A very wise fool," his sister corrected. "All the family desire it."

A few minutes later Mrs. Glover saw John and his car speeding toward the highway. The cook saw it too and sighed:

"Gist like me sister an' her fellow," she said.

"Do you really think he's fallen for her?" asked Mrs. Glover.

"Like a ton of brick!" said the cook earnestly.

And the servant proved to be a good judge of human nature for a few hours later a wire was delivered at the camp saying that Pat and John had been married in the nearest town.

JUDGE WARNS NEW JURY

Persons who loiter about the corridors of Common Pleas Caurt and make comment calculated to reach the ears of jurors trying cases, were condemned today by Judge Ambrose B. Reid in a talk from the bench.

The remarks were addressed to the new panel of 230 jurors who reported for duty in the assignment room. Judge Reid averred that persons who make remarks to influence jurors do not show ood sense. He requested jurors to rport all cases to the court wherein any attempt is made to influence them or discuss cases with them. Such a breach is contempt of court and deliberate violators would be dealt with accordingly, he said.

CORNS
Calluses are ended now—pain stops in 3 seconds
SCIENCE has perfected new methods in ending corns and callus spots.
You touch the most painful corn with this amazing liquid which acts like a local anaesthetic. The pain stops in less than 3 seconds.
Then soon the corn begins to shrivel up and loosen. You peel it off with your fingers. The whole corn is gone. Works on any kind of corn or callus. Ask your druggist for "Gets-It." Quick results are guaranteed.

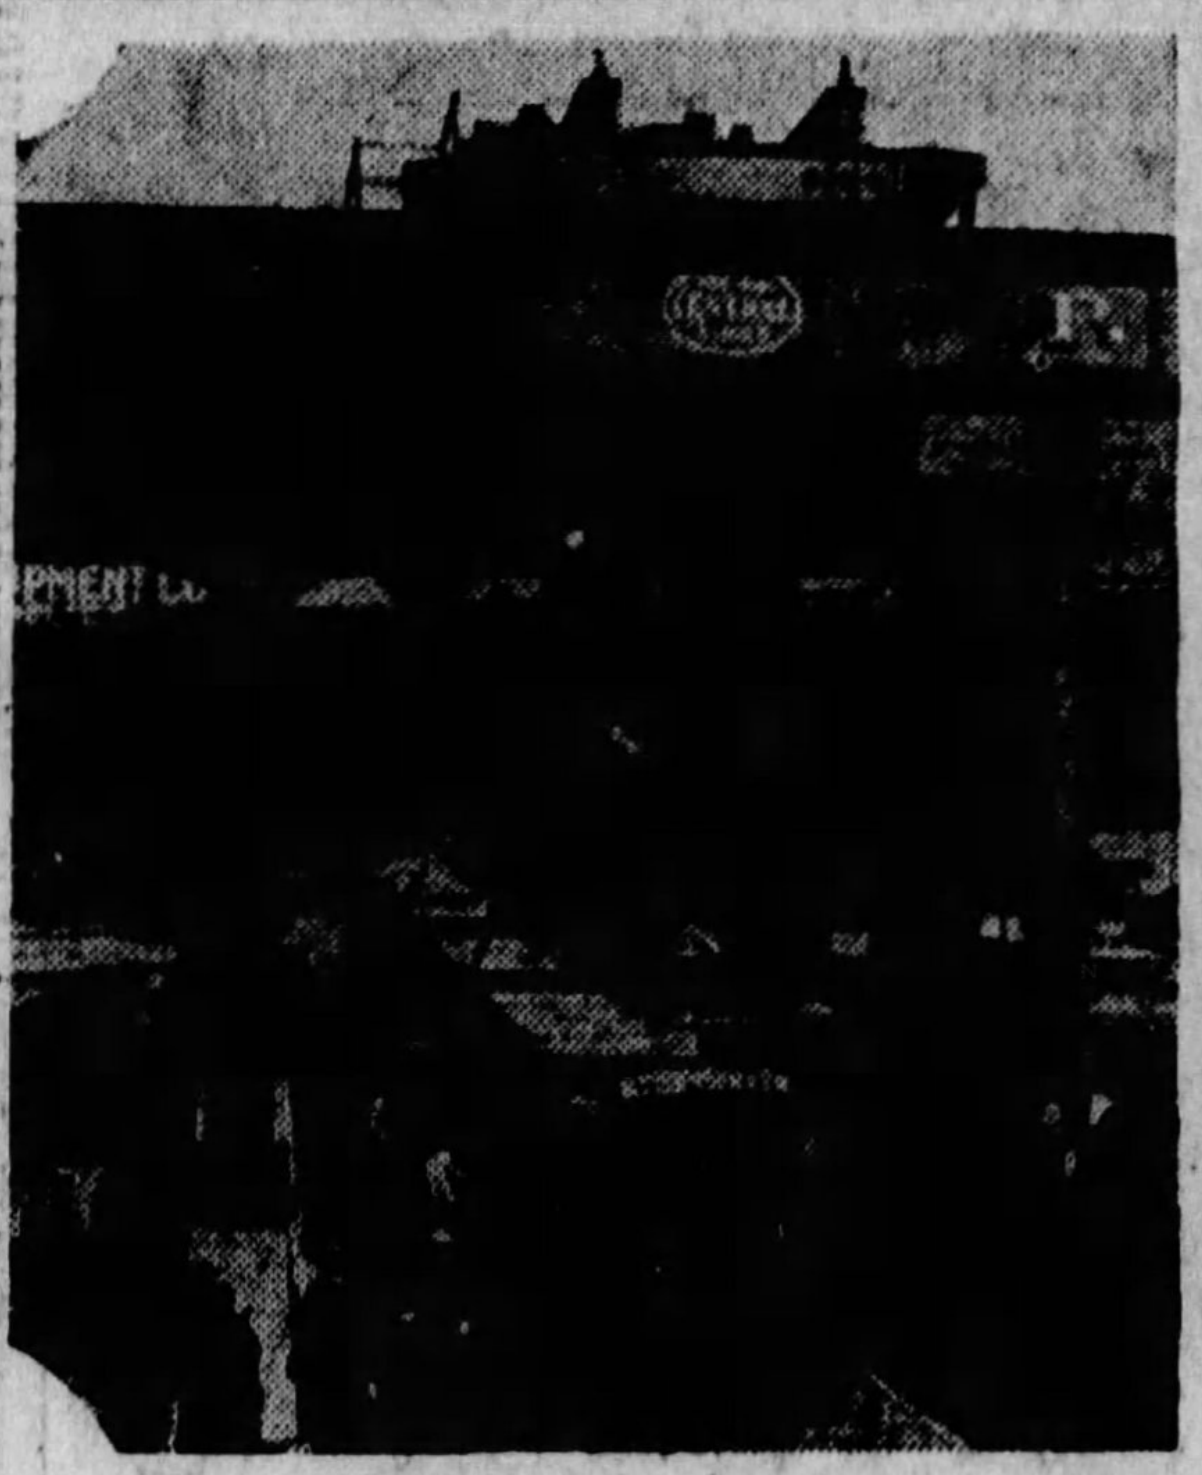
"DRAFT COOLIDGE" MOVE GAINS IMPETUS

HAULED IN STREETS -:- Largest Girders Lifted to New Allies Span -:- THREE CRANES

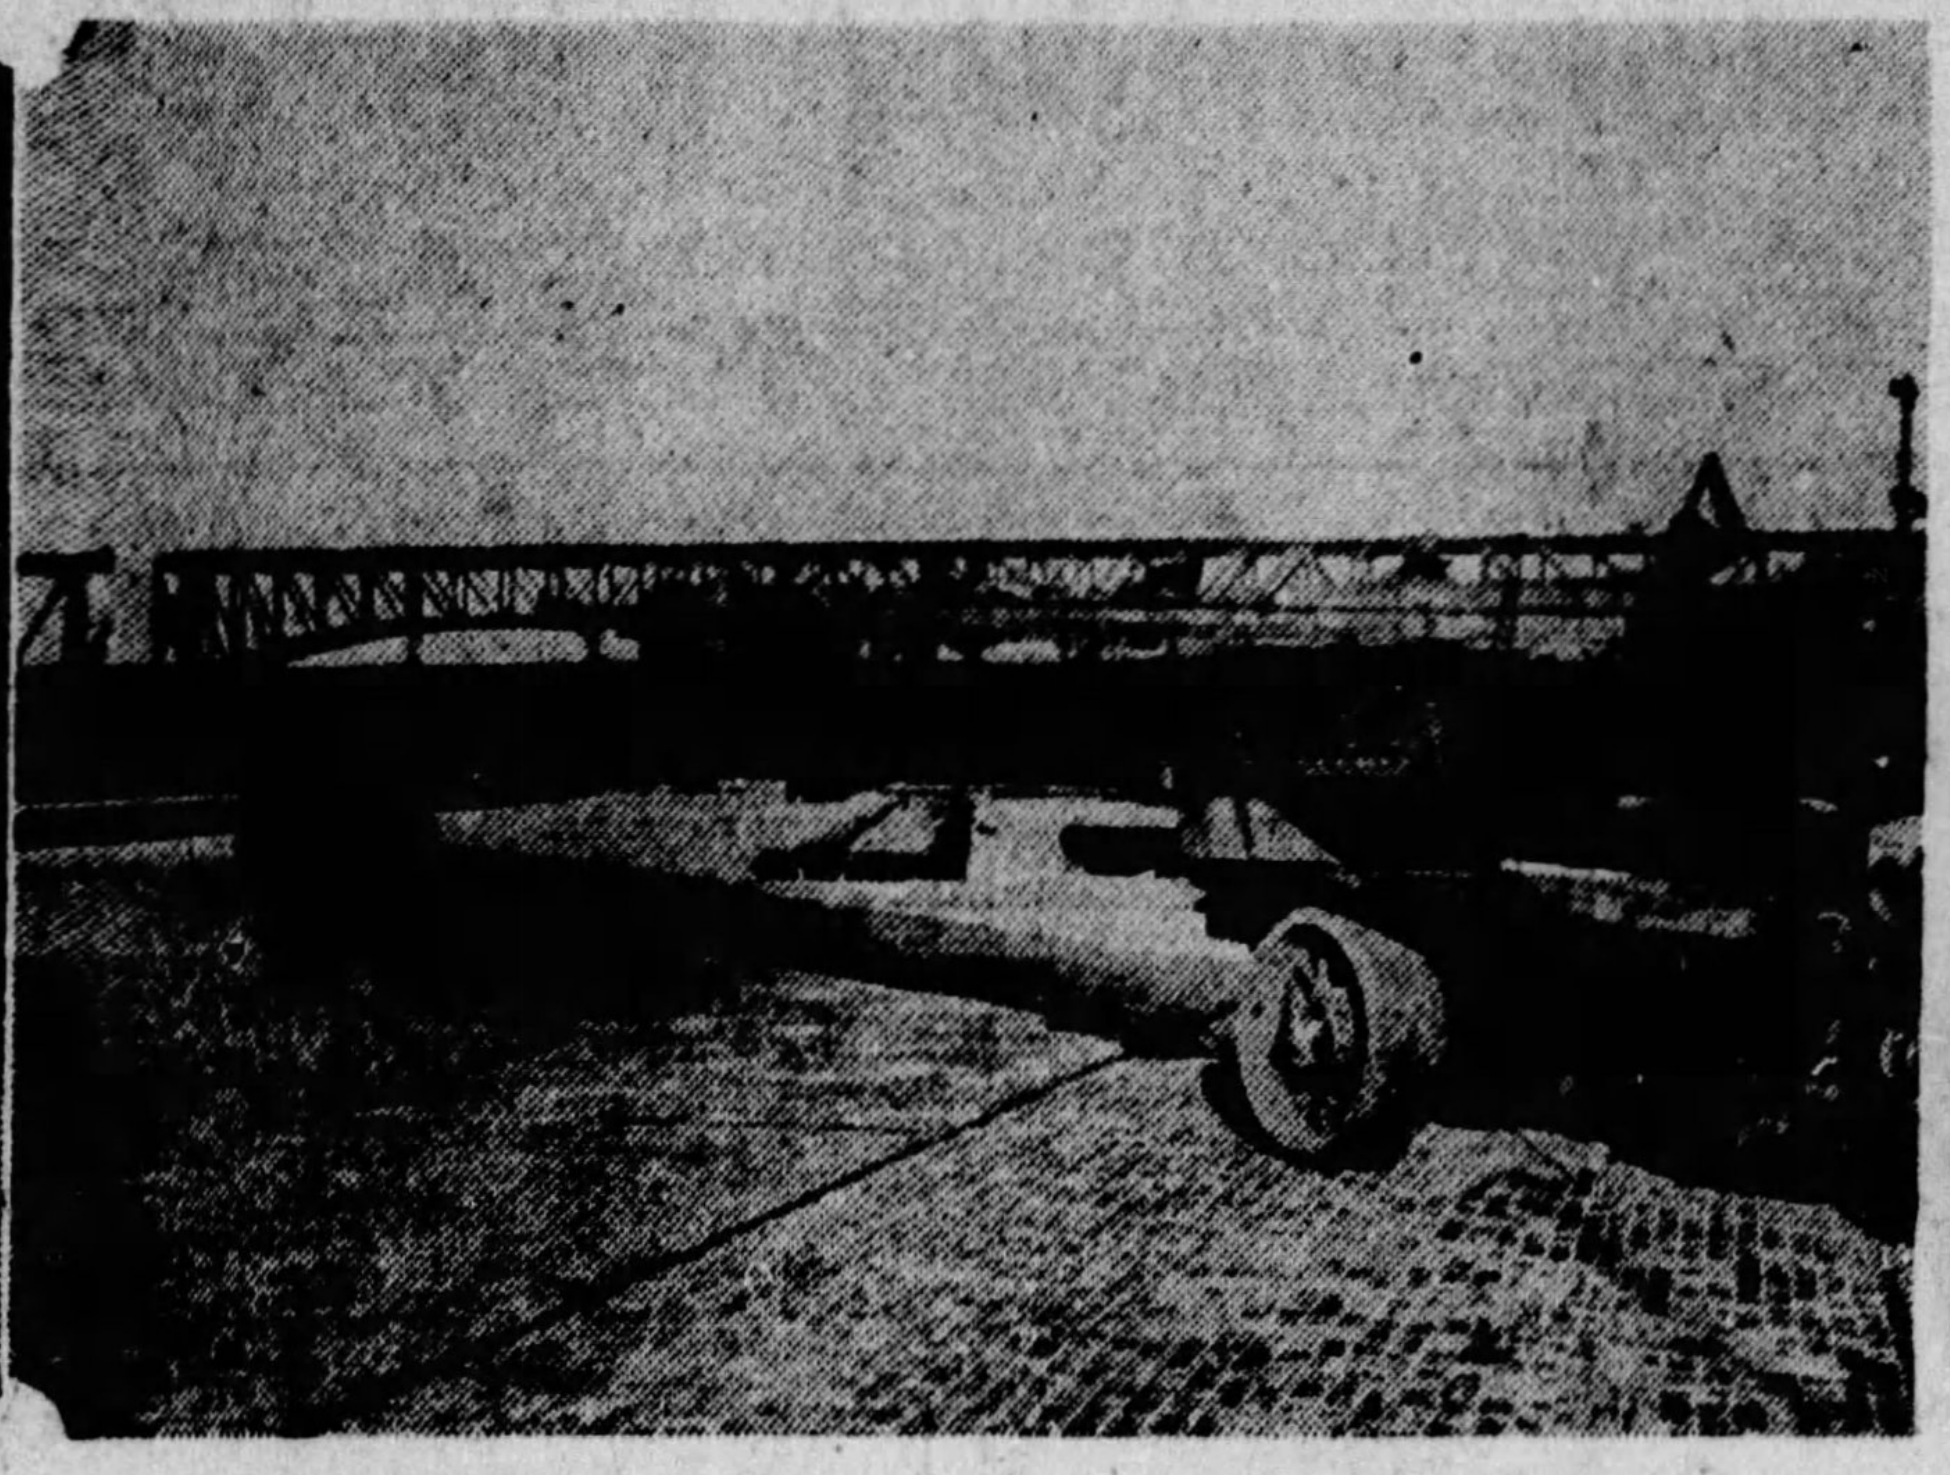


GREATEST

Three cranes, including that on the great superstructure shown above, P. & L. E. Railroad yards, and that on a wreck train were necessary to load on trucks the largest two girders ever moved in Pittsburgh.

DIRECTORS

Officials of the railroad directed the work. Here are Albert R. Raymer, assistant vice president and chief engineer; Samuel Lynn, superintendent of rolling stock; A. W. Thornton, resident engineer, and J. E. Hughes, superintendent. McClintic-Marshall made the girders.



BY NIGHT

The twin girders, two of four to carry the new Boulevard of the Allies over Forbes street at Lawn street, are 125 feet each in length. Here is one on a great truck and sturdy trailer. The girders were moved to the Forbes street location by night. City engineers aided in the movement by dissembling traffic signals to allow them to be moved around corners.

THEY REST HERE

At this point, engineers already have raised the great beams across the Forbes street roadway. They rest as indicated in the photograph above. Now, two others, weighing more but slightly shorter, are to be raised to carry part of the load that will constantly pass overhead when the new boulevard is extended into Schenley Park.

MUSSOLINI & THE LIFE STORY of THE MAN OF DESTINY

Mussolini's Newspaper Office in Tumble-Down House

Enthusiastic Young Editors Gathered From Every Part of Italy

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

From boyhood Mussolini was rebellious. School duties irked him. When he became a teacher the hard routine of the calling became so distasteful that he decided to travel abroad. In Switzerland the self-exiled youth became assistant to a bricklayer, but found the work too hard. Radical tendencies developing, he was expelled from Switzerland, after having mastered the French in debate. As an irredentist he continued to get into trouble. His combative spirit brings fresh energy into the depleted forces of his followers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Selects Cleverest Writers

By VITTORIO DE FIORI

CHAPTER XII.

HIS was an office of fantastic luxury, consisting of three large rooms in an old, tumble-down house in Paolo da Cannobio street, Milan. The wallpaper fell in tatters, the desks were lame, and most of the chairs had no bottoms.

BENITO MUSSOLINI

The editors were peculiar types, hailing from every part of Italy, but full of genius and enthusiasm, simplicity and generosity, and, above all, supreme faith in their ideal.

How they had first met Mussolini, no one knows. Even their names are now lost in obscurity. They were simply idealistic, hard working young men, intensely interested in their work and their cause.

Mussolini had a sacred horror of documents and credentials. He required no school or birth certificates, no letters of recommendation. "If intelligence exists," he used to say, "it does not need to be duly filed away in the archives of Royal High Schools and Colleges." All he said to his assistants was: "Do something!" if they could do it, he took them on; otherwise, he did the work himself and escorted them to the door, bidding them a gentle but firm goodby. In this way, he gathered about himself the most clever and pungent writers in Italy, as well as a chosen bodyguard of artists, musicians, orators, and organizers.

New Generation

It was the youthful, gypsy-like soul of the new Italian generation that nightly invaded the three huge rooms in Paolo da Cannobio street, shouting from desk to desk, scribbling, smoking one another's cigarets, arguing vociferously, and composing, in the midst of din and pandemonium, the most lively, wide-awake and interesting daily in Italy.

There were signs up everywhere, on doors, walls and desks. Their mission was to govern the behavior of the editorial staff, the general public and the importunate outsiders who occasionally dropped in.

"Members of the staff are requested not to leave before arriving—that is, not to go until they have come," was the playful inscription on one of them.

"Whoever uses five words to say what could be said in one is capable of the darkest crimes," said another.

A third one, posted above Mussolini's door, bore the following legend: "He who enters does me honor; he who stays out gives me pleasure."

A fourth one, hung over a doorway from which the door was missing: "Please close the door."

And still another one, nailed to a desk: "Whoever is unable to keep quiet while his colleague is working has no sense of pity for human misfortunes."

Such was the den of the enthusiastic, brilliant, child-like minds that were preparing Italy for Fascism and a new destiny.

His Den an Arsenal

Mussolini did not work extemporaneously. His cranial workshop was always active, but the work of preparation was invariably a mystery, even to those who knew him intimately.

When he got that far-away look in his eyes, when his strong-featured face acquired a scowl, and he went back to his private den and began ill-treating the papers on his desk in much the same fashion in which a nervous diner ill-treats his knife and fork, his co-workers knew that Mussolini was angrily hammering out his thoughts and imprinting his own indelible trademark upon them.

At such times his orders would snap out brusquely and irately, his gestures would become nervous and his glance ferocious.

"Boy, bring me some coffee. Don't let anybody come in here. I'll shoot the first man that enters."

"But I'll have to come in with the coffee, sir."

"Then I'll shoot you." The last with a reassuring laugh.

Then the door would close and complete silence would reign. Mussolini was at work.

On the bare wall behind him hung the great black flag of the "Arditi," Italy's war-time shock-troops, festively adorned with a white skull and a trench-knife. Upon his desk, between a barricade of books and a phalanx of manuscrips, lay a 20-shot automatic, like an inverted question mark. Further away, upon a volume of Carducci, rested a long, keen-edged hunting knife, and near the inkstand reposed another pistol, small and dainty like a lady's lap-dog. Stacked above manuscrips that will never see the light stood gleaming cartridge cases, resembling the diabolic pipes of a war-like faun. In a corner of the den a small fieldpiece served as a stove.

Inside that formidable arsenal, silhouetted like a white phantom against the black background of the flag, Mussolini worked furiously, puffing like a steam-engine over his thoughts and ideas, hammering out new, incandescent phrases, cooking up food for the voracious linotypes.

Occasionally his co-workers outside could hear the labored breathing of "Il Direttore" and the scratching of the pen upon paper, for all the world like the sound of a young tiger sharpening its claws. But his work was not impromptu, however much it might have seemed to be when he presented the finished product of his readers. His preparation was profound. Day after day, minute after minute, he prowled and sweated and cursed over his new creations, examining idea after idea, thought after thought, conversing fiercely with himself, discarding what he could not use, salvaging what could be of interest, never resting until his labor was done and he was satisfied with the result.

He had no reference library or books of any kind in his den. Whatever he read became forever impressed upon the reference library of his brain. He never made notes or consulted a historical or political guide-book. No obstacle could ever stand in his way. So far as he was concerned, to think was to act. And he did his thinking everywhere, in railway coaches, in theaters during intermissions, even while conversing. He wrote at his desk, in his silent arsenal; he wrote in the midst of noisy friends, or while lying in a field hospital cot with a bleeding leg, or in a trench, during the intervals between bombardments, or at the table of a cafe. His home, his studio, his office were wherever he happened to be. He had no preferences. Like a soldier, he bivouacked wherever he happened to find himself, and resumed his march whenever he felt so inclined. He liked everybody but became attached to no one. He did not recognize his own photographs, much less those of others.

He used to read his paper from cover to cover each day, scrutinizing it with the pleasure and eagerness with which an orchestra director listens to his musicians.

Great Personal Magnetism

He loved his paper. He had an almost frantic affection for that insolent, bold child of his, and for the lively, restless, impetuous traits that it had inherited from him. At times, when he looked at the sheet which overflowed with life and aggressiveness, his mind would nearly succumb to an artist's temptation. "I'd almost like to destroy it!" he mysteriously confessed one day. When he was asked the reason why, he shrugged his shoulders, thought it over for a while, and finally remained silent.

He disliked professional newspapermen and journalists who failed to dramatize. His paper in consequence, was anything but academic. "Journalism," he said, "must be electric, alive, explosive!"

His own style was incisive and clear, in writing as well as in speaking. And he was, and is, a marvelous orator. His speeches have always had, to a superlative degree, the power of inflaming the masses. He usually speaks slowly, enunciating with care. His gesturing, sober for an Italian, is more than made up for by the mutual expression on his face. His usual gesture is simply a rhythmic, slow movement of his right hand, with thumb and forefinger held close together. But his face is a kaliedoscope of expression. When threatening, he lowers his head and clenches his massive jaws. When angry, he bends his head slightly backward, half closing his eyes. When promising, he leans forward toward his audience, softening his voice. He avoids empty phrases and invariably gives his words a vital content. He speaks extemporaneously, but with a precise, cutting logic. His speeches hold occasional outbursts and flights of fancy, but they can in no wise be construed as rhetorical or pompous. His personal magnetism in enormous, especially in the face of a crowd. He stands before his audience like a block of granite, filled with assurance, courage and energy. Around him all things seem fragile and transient, and men creatures of an inferior race.

Misjudged by Enemies

His enemies and opponents have made the error of picturing to themselves a Mussolini, and consequently a Fascism, of their own creation. They have repeatedly stated that he has been bribed. Acording to the sum total of these accusations, he must have been bribed by everybody. He has been described as an adventurer, hungry for honors and wealth, and fortified by a cynical, cruel ambition. Yet Mussolini has never loved wealth or feared poverty. It is indifferent to him whether he is clad in evening clothes or in an old threadbare suit, whether he dines in state in a luxurious restaurant or on a slice of

CONCLAVE TO GET COOLIDGE NAME

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service.

KANSAS CITY, June 4.—The name of Calvin Coolidge quite probably will be presented to the Republican national convention here next week and voted upon—unless and until the President, by some positive definite action, forbids it.

This much seemed assured today at the G. O. P. elders gathered in Kansas City and got down to the actual work of the convention, the first of which is the settlement of perennial quarrels among the lily-whites and the black-and-tans of the always Democratic South.

The "draft Coolidge whether or no" movement reached Kansas City in the person of Charles D. Hilles, the New York national committeeman, who has been the chief rallying post for the anti-Hoover forces of the East. Like a sentinel pine, Hilles has stood out against the gale-like winds that have blown many of the other leaders into the Hoover camp. He may have swayed at times, but he has never fallen.

Who will present the magic name of Coolidge, if it is to be formally presented to the convention; who will lead the fight in the open and behind the scenes, Mr. Hilles did not say. But he appeared quite confident that when the balloting begins 10 days hence there will be a lot of votes to be added in the column that carries at its masthead the name of Calvin Coolidge.

SIDE-WALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

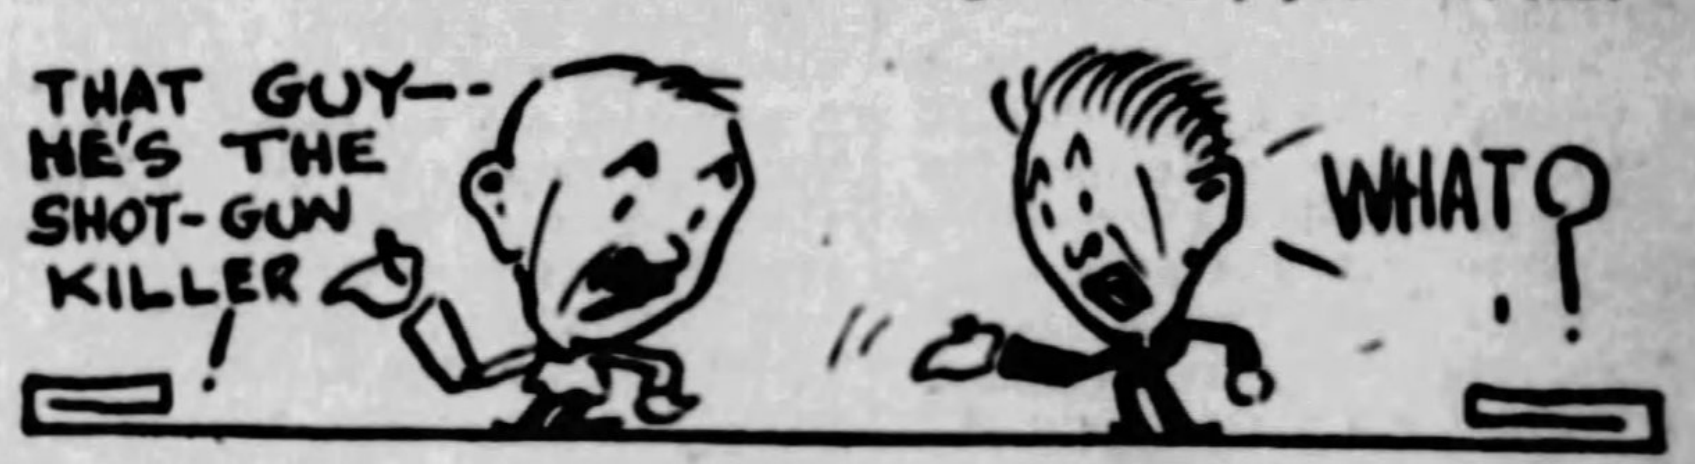
MY DEAR SIR: I was much interested in your famous criminal comments. Why not give our own kind-hearted killer some mention? Pittsburgh has been harboring for a year a kindly spirit who carries a sawed-off shot-gun and uses it with such good effect that he has greatly increased the number of murders marked "unapprehended" on the police records.

There is a nasty but persistent rumor that some of the officers of the law have no desire or intention to make the acquaintance of one so ready with his trigger finger, fearing he might shoot in defense of his life as he has so frequently done for hire.

This gentle soul is surely possessed of the greed which you rank first in the causes of crime, but his desire for gain is tempered by a touching humanity one would not expect to find in such a bloody calling; in that he has been known to follow a man he had been engaged to kill for three months because he wanted to be sure that when he finally fired his fatal two-barrelled blast no other person would be injured.

I was entertained by an affable, neatly-dressed stranger in a Wylie avenue thirst emporium one evening. The affable one had the strained, white face of the "cry baby" type of killer I have met in New York and in Toledo—at its toughest. He ordered many rounds of the best spirits fermenti available, and in a mild way specified that neither he nor I should pay for the refreshments. After discussing various phases of crime, with some emphasis on jail-breaking, he bade me a courteous adieu.

When I asked the proprietor of the palace in question if the gentleman who had just left and who had been so meticulous in the matter of not paying anything was a silent partner of the firm the proprietor said: "He is no partner of mine, but he can have anything he asks for and never will I insist that he lay on the line for his groceries. Didn't you hear me asking him if his rod was hot? I meant to ask if his gun was smoking. That boy you were chatting with is R—. We can't prove it, but everyone on the hill knows he is the shot-gun killer who always gets his man. He is easily riled and I, for one, am not going to rile him. They say he is a kind-hearted killer and only harms the one he is hired to kill. But I am taking no chances."



THAT GUY—HE'S THE SHOT-GUN KILLER!
WHAT?!

By the way, I showed the last paragraph of your chapter on criminals to Chief County Detective George Murren and he agrees your French judge said a mouthful in his diagnosis of the causes of crime.

Your Fellow Criminologist.
PAT.

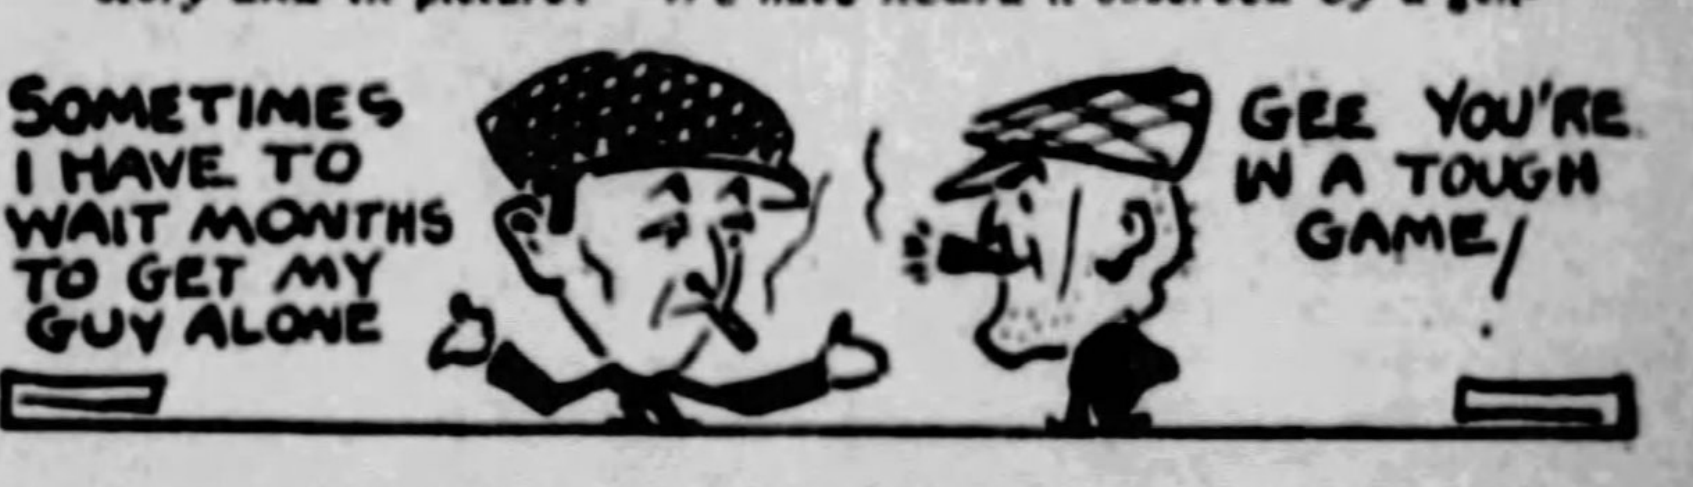
Criminals, if you will pardon one more observation on this meaty theme, are bad people and very expensive to society, to say nothing of their unnatural propensity for producing a puncture or two on the highway of life, yet in all fairness we must hand them now and then a boquet.

Where, for instance, would be fiction and the drama without the criminal to pose for the artist who limns him in story and in picture? We have heard it observed by a gentleman who rarely speaks through his Stetson that fully half of the world's literature is concerned with crime.



SOMETIMES I HAVE TO WAIT MONTHS TO GET MY GUY ALONE
GEE YOU'RE IN A TOUGH GAME!

We don't mean to say that for this reason alone we should nurture and fondle our criminal class, but there is no gainsaying the fact that they do furnish some little entertainment to those of us who live a prosaic existence.

PAT'S murderer, by the way, is more thoughtful than one of the famed killers of Shakespeare. We always thought it was overscrupulousness on the part of Hamlet to pass up the opportunity to kill his uncle, the king, while the king was piously saying his prayers. Hamlet sought a better time for he feared that in killing the king while he was praying he might dispatch his soul to Heaven when Hamlet's purpose was to express it to you-know. And on the same subject, we always have thought that King Claudius, who committed close to the perfect murder, often must have complained that, after he had been very careful with his poison, who should step up and upset his safety but a ghost, of all things.

The Chinaman Recognizes Bob and Threatens His Life

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The body of Tom Kingsley, once a dashing sea-faring adventurer, is picked up in a fragile craft by Capt. "Scarface" Sweeney and his mate, Marlow, off Singapore. Mute evidence on the body testifies to the fact that the man died in a struggle. Tom's brother, Robert, also an old "sea dog," is notified of the death and receives the various articles found on the corpse. Among these are two small but handsomely carved Ivory Idols. Robert Kingsley has good reason to believe that Hsi Yan, an ancient enemy, has returned after thirty years to seek vengeance. The Idols are stolen and Young Bob starts out to recover them. Hidden in the hold of the ship he overhears five Chinamen plotting. There is great danger of the boat going on the reefs and Bob is afraid. The East Indian "Holy Man" is stabbed to death by one of the Chinamen. The Holy Man turns out to be Erna's brother, and she accuses Bob of the murder. The boat goes down and many are drowned.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

WITH an involuntary cry and with a sudden jerk, Bob Kingsley attempted to gain his feet—and was almost immediately flung violently on his back again. He was fully conscious now. The Chinamen! Queer, that he should have forgotten about the Chinamen!

Perhaps he hadn't actually forgotten—perhaps he had merely dismissed them temporarily from his mind because of a subconscious belief that they had got off in one of the boats that had been swamped. But there were two of them here now. They looked strangely unfamiliar. What was it? What was the matter with them? Ah, yes! He had it now. They were indescribably dirty. Their clothing and faces were covered with grime. They were the same Chinamen, though. The one that held the candle was the one who had acted as master of ceremonies in the storeroom and had broken the stick in five pieces. The man had a bent nose. Unconsciously that fact must have impressed itself on his mind back there in the storeroom—he remembered the bent nose now.

Bob Kingsley's eyes shifted from the Chinaman's face, and circled the cabin. It must be Capt. Karler's cabin because there was no other cabin on this deck that he knew of, and he was quite sure that he had been dragged only along the boat deck. The cabin was in some disorder—due no doubt to the shock of impact when the ship had struck. A cup of coffee or tea, which perhaps Capt. Karler had ordered left in his room, intending to return from the bridge and dress, but which he had never had an opportunity of drinking, was spilled upon the desk; some biscuits together with a plate were scattered on the floor, the plate itself broken into several pieces. Inconsequent details! Perhaps it was because he was still not fully in possession of his mental faculties that he had noticed them at all. A cup of coffee, biscuits and a broken plate! Yes, he must be a bit mad! His lips were dry—he moistened them with his tongue. Why a cabin at all? They knew him, of course, to be the one who had tried to save the pretended "holy man"—the murderer would have recognized him all too readily. Those damned glasses! But why not have finished the job out there on the deck? Why drag him in here to put the finishing touches to their revenge? Didn't the fools know that the Monotah was going down? Where had they been all the time, anyhow? He would have picked them out as the first to see to it that they were not left behind!

His brain was racing. It seemed as though he had been lying here for a great length of time; in reality he knew it could not have been more than the scant fraction of a minute.

The candle was thrust closer to his face, the hot drip of it fell again upon his cheek—and then the man with the bent nose, the man who held the candle, laughed unpleasantly.

"It is the son of the sick man of Patua!" he said menacingly, in almost unaccented English.

Bob Kingsley shrugged his shoulders. Of course! Under the circumstances he was bound to be recognized. No earthly good denying it!

"That's rather a confession of guilt on your part, isn't it?" he returned coolly. "Fairly good proof that you were one of the thieving swine that broke into the house that night!"

The Chinaman smiled complacently.

"Can a dead man bear testimony?" he answered. "Presently the ship will sink. You also will sink. You know too many things. And I, Chen-shu, know that which I did not know before—why a man with sore eyes, who gave himself a name that was not his own name, came on the ship at Tahola. It was to follow us. But was it also to follow the fool who likewise pretended to be what he was not, and who is now dead?"

Bob Kingsley stared. He did not quite get he gist of that. The "holy man," or, to be exact, Col. Lyle, had certainly had one of the Ivory idols in his possession when he was murdered. But that he, Bob Kingsley, should have come aboard the Monotah to follow Col. Lyle was a suggestion that confused him. Follow Col. Lyle from where?

"I don't know what you mean by following the man who is now dead," he said curtly.

"My men are good sailors," said Chen-shu with apparent irrelevancy. "There are three of them out there. They will turn the babble of the frightened Malay fools into work, and they will see to the launching of the boat. Then we will go—and you will stay. But we will not waste time—even while we converse pleasantly together." He gestured sharply, abruptly to his companion, but there was something ominously unhurried, ominously bland in the man's voice as he addressed the second Chinaman. "Won Fu," he ordered, "search his High-Born Excellence, who is so miserably afflicted by the gods with sore eyes!"

Bob Kingsley laughed out shortly. It wasn't merely a question of revenge then for his interference! They thought he had the idol that had been in Col. Lyle's possession. Well, there was some satisfaction in that. Since he had not got it, they would not find it—nor, so far as he was concerned, ever get an inkling of what had become of it.

Again Bob Kingsley laughed. The second Chinaman was searching him now, going through his clothing thoroughly and systematically—in fact, tearing open his shirt at that precise moment.

CHAPTER XXI.

"WHAT are you looking for?" he demanded tauntingly.

Chen-shu still held the candle.

"I think you are a liar when you pretend you do not know what I meant about the dead man," he said softly; "I know you are a liar when you pretend you do not know what we are looking for. And yet it may also be, because there was no light in the house of your father, that you did not know the truth about the pig who died in your arms. He was in that room which you know of in Patua before you came from your bed, and he was fighting on the floor with one of us while you also were fighting—for in the darkness he had snatched from the hands of the ill-begotten Won Fu, who now searches you, one of the two idols that we had journeyed many days to possess. He made his escape from the room even before we did. From the shore, we saw him go out to the ship in a canoe. But it was black, since for a space in the windstorm the moon was hidden, and we did not know who he was, and there was no one on the ship who saw him climb the side. But in the fight a small piece of cloth from the man's raiment remained in the hands of Won Fu. Therefore we made search on the ship for one who either wore or had in his possession a garment torn in such a way that we would know it was the one we sought. Tonight we found the unforgivable thief. It was fitting that he should return to us that which he had stolen, and, also that he should die, for, like you, he knew more than it was well for him to know."

The second Chinaman was continuing his search—unceremoniously, indelicately. But for the moment a strange interest and curiosity seemed to dominate Bob Kingsley to the exclusion of the rough handling to which he was being subjected and even to the peril of the situation in which he was placed. Chen-shu had explained a great deal! He remembered that scuffling on the floor—when he had thought it was all part of an effort to trip him up and fling him to the ground. So Colonel Lyle had also been in that room at Patua—had also been after those damnable little idols that seemed to lay a trail of murder and blood behind them wherever they went! What were they? It was not the first time he had asked himself that question. It would be rather worth while knowing what was at the bottom of it all, even if he were going to die rather nastily according to this yellow rat's promise.

"Look here!" he said coolly. "You said you were going to leave me here to go down with the ship—and I quite believe you. You also said that a dead man bears no testimony—which is quite true. Under the circumstances then, since it will do you no harm to tell me, I'd like to know before I snuff out what there is about those two idols that makes you so ready to commit murder or do anything else to get them?"

Again the candle light was thrust into Bob Kingley's face—but suddenly, quickly this time. And for a moment the Chinaman's eyes bored into his.

"Ah!" exclaimed Chen-shu after an instant. "It is true! I see you do not know the secret of their inestimable worth. That is regrettable! But as you have so justly said that you are about to die and cannot repeat the tale"—the bland, oily smile spread over the Chinaman's countenance again—"I will tell you. It is recounted that very many years ago they were presented by the gods to the priests of a temple in Naiyn'ou. How else could they be of such exquisite perfection! A century ago they were stolen from this temple by an unmentionable outcast; and, alas, because of the gods' anger at the unpardonable carelessness of the priests, the temple was destroyed and no more remains. How we discovered the sublime gifts is too long a story with which to tire your illustrious ears. It is merely therefore the desire of our unworthy hearts to adorn the shrine of our ancestors with the heaven-made images, where we may worship them in devout peace, and where our children may worship them after us."

"Thanks!" said Bob Kingsley, with a grim smile. "I suppose I got what I asked for. I was a fool, of course, to expect an answer. But I'll do a little better by you. I'll tell you the truth. I never had either of what you call those 'heaven-made images' in my possession except at Patua on the night they arrived. I haven't got the one that is still obviously missing. You said that the man you murdered had it. Why do you search me instead of him?"

"Won Fu has not yet finished his search," said Chen-shu with inimical pleasantry; "and to lie well is one of the great arts. It may be that you have achieved that enviable distinction! When Won Fu is satisfied that you do not possess what we seek, then I, too, shall be satisfied that you knew nothing of the doings of the man who is dead, for otherwise he would either have given you the image if he had strength enough to do so before he died, or else you would have taken it from him."

"Then you must already have searched him and found nothing!" Bob Kingsley flung back quickly. "You seem to be out of luck!"

"While Won Fu continues his labors, I will recount the story," said Chen-shu, with ugly affability. "To distract the mind of a man who is about to die is beneficent and charitable. It was only tonight that we found the man whose garment was torn. We held counsel together and when we decided that he was to die, and by whose hand, we went to look for him, but he was no longer to be found. There are many strange places below the decks of all ships that are propelled by steam. We believed that in some way he had taken alarm, and that he had hidden himself from us. Four of us descended into the bowels of the ship. Won Fu alone remained to search above in the places forbidden to all but foreign devils. Won Fu was blessed with the high favor of the gods, and struck true and deep, but at the moment when he struck you came upon him and took his knife away so that he was defenseless and he ran. He saw you fall with the knife-stuck pig in your arms through a cabin door, and then, having attained the far end of the deck, he saw you running after him. But Won Fu is of nimble mind and feet. You did not catch him and he came to us in the bowels of the ship. Again we took counsel—and then the ship struck with a great blow and we knew that disaster had come upon her. But we could not get out, for in some manner the way by which we had entered was shut against us."

"That's damned good news!" said Bob Kingsley, with a savage chuckle. "Watertight bulkhead-door closed! That's what Carter had been doing, of course. Got through the coal bunkers then—did you? Nice place! That accounts for the priceless mess you're in!"

Lillian Attempts to Learn What Jackson Wanted

"COME here!" Lillian said in the tone one might use to a sulky, refractory child, "and tell us what you have been up to."

She was seated on the veranda in full view of the gate where I had instructed young Mr. Jackson to leave me when he uneasily had said that he was late for an appointment. Through the window I caught sight of Mary in the living room ostensibly absorbed in study. But I knew that she was seated thus out of sight so that young Jackson could take away no notion that she had known of his strange call. But I was sure that she had missed nothing of his arrival, or of my departure with him, as well as I knew that Lillian's burlesqued catechism would be staged for the girl's benefit.

"Show me your authority for the question first," I returned airily, "and then perhaps I'll consider your request."

"Card from the catechizer's union right in my pocket," she said with an impish grin. "But come on now, no stalling. Where did you go with young Mr. Jackson and what did he say to you? It isn't on the free list for a staid Puritan matron like you to go madly careering down the road with strange young men."

"Stick to the truth, please," I said solemnly. "There was only one strange man, and I absolutely deny the careering. The car was never off all four wheels."

"But why did he carry you off in that impetuous fashion?" Lillian persisted. "Young Lochinvar had nothing on him."

I pretended to simper in the fashion of 1830. "That's just it," I said demurely. "He really wanted to carry me off, and have me fly to Reno with him."

Mary's book fell to the floor, and I saw her rush noiselessly to the staircase. When she had disappeared I sank wearily into a chair opposite Lillian.

"I can tell you nothing," I said in a low voice, "that is, not now. What the young man said was told me in confidence."

"Of course," Lillian nodded her head sagely. "I guessed as much from the manner of the youth's entrance and his leave-taking at the gate. My stunt was to give you a chance to anger Mary with some ridiculous answer, and you took your cue, nobly. But, oh! that gal is sure on tenderhooks to know what the lad wanted."

"Well! it's something she won't know for some time," I returned with decision. "And now, if you don't mind, I'm going to shut myself up in the library for awhile. I have to plan a course of lessons in the history of the drama for Miss Eleanor Lincoln, you know."

"If you could see your face!" Lillian said laughing. "You look as if you'd swallowed a persimmon. But I don't blame you. That's some stunt Phil has mapped out with its hidden joker of sickening the young woman of a stage career."

I wondered what she would say if I should tell her that young Mr. Jackson had just made the same request of me.

"I'd give two liverwurst sandwiches to know what was in the back of Phil's noodle when he planned this stunt," she went on, "but that's something we won't find out in a hurry. But may I make a suggestion about the work you plan for your new pupil?"

"May you?" I repeated with fervor.

"I don't think that young damsel has been particularly used to hard work or study," she said. "Why don't you make her lessons so long and so hard that if she gets them she won't have any time to go kiting around the country with Noel or anybody else?"

GEORGE FOX

Small indeed is the city that has not had George Fox in its lockup. George is 76 and he has spent 43 years and 29 days of his life in jails—not jail. His latest experience was arrest while robbing St. Augustine Church's poor box, Milwaukee. A home-made burglar alarm trapped poor George.

Mussolini

bread and a cup of milk in the solitude of his room. In the office of "Il Popolo d' Italia," he would live for days on bread and salami, and he was known occasionally to sleep on the editorial desks. In the midst of duels and street encounters, he was always ready to face a new hostile attack, and hostile attacks were frequent in those days.

His reason for existence and his joy of living are in action. He is endowed with a volcanic brain and a will as keen and steely as a rapier. He never subscribes wholeheartedly to a formula or a doctrine, but stares ever-changing reality continually in the face in order to know and overcome it. He does not fear death, having faced it repeatedly without a quiver. Every day, when he was editor of "Il Popolo d'Italia," he received threatening letters from cowardly anonymous writers. He threw them into the waste-basket with supreme indifference, often not even deigning to glance at them. In spite of these daily death threats, the attempts upon his life and the plottings of his opponents, he always appeared alone before the crowd that worshipped him because of his courage and ability.

Fond of Sports

An earnest advocate of speed, motion and man's triumph over the elements, he has an almost frantic love for all kinds of sports. He is particularly fond of horseback riding and motoring. His driving is exceedingly rash. More than once he has broken through the barrier of a grade-crossing or the gate of a villa. He ventures on the brink of chasms and overcomes risky obstacles, almost as though he felt an urgent need of defying death.

One night the powerful motor cars of the Milan police hotly pursued a speeding automobile on the Milan-Bologna road. People thought, on seeing the pursuit, that it was a criminal. But the criminal was only impatient Mussolini, bent on outdistancing his pursuers because he had an early morning appointment in a Bologna park for a duel with one of his political opponents. He was tired and nervous when he arrived, but in spite of that he managed to inflict a serious wound on his opponent at the twelfth encounter.

His predominant passion, however, is aviation. While training to gain a pilot's license he showed himself overbold. In one of his flights he fell and was hurt rather seriously, while his companions were killed, but this did not in the least dampen his enthusiasm for flying.

He is physically strong and morally courageous, self-confident, and conscious of his own superiority. Sometimes it seems that he is trying to test the courage of his followers by indulging in mad deeds of daring. When he undertakes a battle, he sacrifices everything, even his most sacred affections, in order to win it. Yet under the bronze mask of his Roman face a gentle courtesy and the ingenuousness of a child are often found lurking.

One may disagree with him, or even hate him, at a distance, but those who are near him cannot escape his subtle fascination. Even his enemies are forced to admire him and bow their heads under his lashing tongue and pen.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Social World Will Take on English Airs as American Girls Become Brides of Britons

THE social world seems to be getting a bit English lately, haven't you noticed? Of course at this time of the year the social leaders of this country do watch the presentations at court during London's "little season" quite closely.

And just this spring American girls seem to be choosing English husbands. No longer ago than Saturday one of Pittsburgh's charming young girls married an Englishman. I'm sure you are all thinking of Ruth Phillips, daughter of Mrs. Herbert Clyde Phillips, of the Alder Court apartments, whose marriage to Ernest James Bisiker, son of the Ernest Bisikers, of Ashstead, Surrey, England, was one of the outstanding events of the spring season.

Another American girl, I've just heard, is to marry one of the sons of Britain very soon. This time she is not a Pittsburgh girl, but she has asked one of the members of the younger set of this city to be one of her maids of honor. Janet Hardie, daughter of the Walter L. Hardies, will be maid of honor at the wedding of Jean Browne Scott, daughter of the John R. K. Scotts of Glenhardie Farms, Strafford, Philadelphia, and Nigel Claudian Colman, son of Mrs. Frederick Edward Colman and the late Mr. Colman, of Broadleas, Reigate, England, and Grosvenor street, London. And the wedding will take place in Christ Church, London, on July 25.

Janet is a cousin of Jean, you know.

She will sail for England July 7 with Elizabeth Gillespie Alcorn, daughter of the Samuel Stewart Alcorns, of Bryn Mawr. Elizabeth, who will also be a maid of honor, and Janet will be the bride's only attendants.

Janet was graduated from Briar Cliff Friday, but she is not home yet. She decided to stop over in Philadelphia on her way back to visit her cousin.

Just a small wedding was that of Mrs. Howard Weddie Douglass, of the Schenley Apartments, and Wyndham Eugene Gary, of New York and Henderson, N. C., which took place Saturday in Old St. David's Church, St. Davids, Pa. After the wedding the Garys left for White Sulphur Springs. They will be at home in the Schenley Apartments, I hear, after October 1.

Two society girls, who, following a rapidly growing custom of the "400," have gone to college, will soon be ready to enter the social world, unburdened with student cares, but burdened with a degree. Elizabeth Jenkins, daughter of the T. Clifton Jenkins, of Morewood avenue, and Jane McEldowney, daughter of the Allen Wilson McEldowneys, of Westminster place, will be graduated June 18 from Smith.

Jane, you'll remember, was one of the juniors chosen at Smith to carry the legendary Ivy Chain. Both girls have been prominent at school, I hear, both in the activities of the school and in their academic work, and travel in the future for the girls will be very full of interest, for they'll know the story behind every ruin in Europe. Both did their major work in history.

The marriage of Elizabeth Cook McMillen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick John McMillen, of Sewickley, and John Hurford Eyster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan G. Eyster, of Bellevue, was solemnized Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock in the McMillen home by the Rev. Dr. Alleyne C. Howell, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Sewickley. Elizabeth wore a gown of white chiffon beaded with pearls and crystals, and her tulle veil was held with a cap of old rose point lace and orange blossoms. She carried a shower of white roses, larkspur and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Daniel Orin Head, Jr., of Kenosha, Wis., was matron of honor, appearing in white chiffon and carrying a dresden bouquet. Frederick Humphrey, of Greensburg, was best man.

A dinner and reception followed the cerremony, with covers laid for 22 at the bridal table. Mrs. McMillen was gowned in flesh-tinted chiffon embroidered with crystals, while Mrs. Eyster wore pale blue chiffon and lace.

After an extensive eastern trip Mr. and Mrs. Eyster will make their home in Bellevue.

Miss Elsie von Hof, of the North Side, left Friday night for West Point, where she is the guest of Cadet C. J. Mansfield, of Atlantic City, for the June Week activities. Cadet Mansfield will be graduated this year.

Miss Margaret Irene Hixon, of Monongahela, has chosen Wednesday as the date for her marriage to Charles Simpson Warne, also of Monongahela. The date was announced at a luncheon given Friday by Mrs. W. W. Hixon and her daughter, Mrs. Frank Osterhour, Jr., of Monongahela.

* * *

Mrs. Eric Herbert Edstrom entertained in her home in Melvin street Saturday with a bridge and shower in honor of her sister, Mrs. Richard Wagner Sheets, who was Miss Dorothy Foller before her marriage in March. Four tables were in play, and the appointments were in yellow and white.

At a bridge luncheon given Saturday in the Congress clubhouse by Mrs. William A. Davidson and Miss Dorothy A. Hill, announcement was made of the date chosen for the wedding of Miss Marion Elizabeth Carson, of this city, and James L. Hill, of Jamaica, N. Y., formerly of Pittsburgh. The ceremony will be performed June 16. Covers were laid for 16, and the favors were small corsages of rosebuds.

Only the families and a few friends were in attendance at the wedding of Miss Helen Wohlleb, daughter of Christ Wohlleb, of Edgewood avenue, Swissvale, and Arthur Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Baker, of Blairsville, which was solemnized Friday night at 6:30 o'clock in the Wohlleb home by the Rev. J. Lloyd, of the Blairsville Methodist Church. The bride wore a gown of tulle with a bodice of crepe georgette, and her veil was caught with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried white roses. Miss Hilda Wohlleb was her sister's maid of honor, wearing a bouffant frock of pale blue taffeta and carrying Columbia roses. Mrs. Alice Sheats sang. After a dinner and reception, Mr. and Mrs. Baker left for a motor trip through Northern Canada and will come home by way of the Susquehanna Trail. They will be at home after June 20 in Edgewood avenue.

C. M. Shuart, who has been traveling abroad, and Mrs. Shuart, who visited friends in New York while her husband was in Europe, have returned to their home in the King Edward apartments.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Rodgers, of Riverview avenue, Bellevue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ruth Rodgers, to Edward McCrady, Jr., son of Mrs. Edward McCrady, of Edgewood.

* * *

Mrs. Lulu C. Barr, of Perrysville avenue, has announced the marriage of her daughter, Miss Helen Barr, and Edward C. Kidd, of the East End, which was solemnized Saturday by the Rev. Dr. W. I. Wishart, pastor of the Eighth United Presbyterian Church. Mr. and Mrs. Kidd will be at home after July 15 in Witherspoon street, East End.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Welte, of the North Side, have returned from a week's visit to Detroit and Canada.

* * *

Miss Gertrude Datz, of Highland avenue, is home from the Castle School and has as her house guest Miss Virginia Dansert, of Munroe, Mich.

LINDY SHY FOR SAFETY'S SAKE

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 4.—(AP.)—It is not a desire to shun the public nor to appear up-stage which keeps Col. Lindbergh from landing in the center of cheering crowds—it is a genuine apprehension for the safety of the crowds themselves, it was learned from the lone eagle at Mahoney Field here Saturday.

The famous flyer deliberately avoids crowded fields unless he knows they are heavily guarded, he said. And while he is glad to help in any way to increase America's knowledge of flying, he is taking no chances on being the helpless cause of a tragedy which would do much to break the public confidence in aviation.

"I don't think that anyone not connected with aviation can realize the danger of a propeller on the ground," he said. "An aviator is not afraid of a plane in the air—but we are all afraid of a propeller on the ground. The crowds unless they are heavily guarded will not keep back—and putting a big guard on a flying field is quite a problem."

There have been three narrow escapes in the past year, it is said, due to thoughtless persons who have almost gotten in line with the whirling blades of the propeller of Lindbergh's plane, or who have been stopped just as they were about to walk under the propeller. The colonel declares that he has seen men struck by the propellers of planes, and he has no desire to see it again.

Auto 'Rains' Paint, Owner Buys Girl New Outfit

Samuel Meyers, of 236 Spencer avenue, is out the price of a new outfit, dress, shoes and all, which he agreed to purchase yesterday for Miss Nellie Jamerleric, of 2269 Spokane avenue. Meyers drove his machine into a garage at 2216 West Carson street and ran over a can of paint, spattering Miss Jamerleric, who was passing. He agreed to replace the clothes, ruined by the paint.

FAILS TO DIE IN LEAP OFF BRIDGE; ARRESTED

Saved from death in the Monongahela River, where he is said to have leaped late yesterday from the Tenth Street Bridge, Edward Wittman, 25, of Brownsville road, Carrick, will be arraigned in Police Court today. He is charged with disorderly conduct. George E. Holmes, of Tenth street, dragged Wittman from the river and took him to the South Side Hospital for treatment.

Continuing Our Special Offer!

Fur Coats Cleaned & Relined for Only $24.95

Because our recent offer to completely reline and thoroughly clean your fur coat for such a surprisingly low sum met with such instant and tremendous response, we are repeating it for the benefit of those who have not yet put their furs away for the Summer.

BEAUTIFUL linings of silk crepe, intricately decorated, are offered for your selection, and the workmanship is of the highest type, as our reason for giving this phenomenal special price is to keep our expert furriers busy during the dull season.

The cleaning is a thorough process, which removes all dust and moths and includes combing and glazing to restore the lustre of the fur.

Protect Your Furs in Our Cold Storage

YOUR furs are fairly safe when you wear them . . but they are not safe when you leave them at home. Not only do our Cold Air Storage Vaults protect your furs from fire and theft, but from moths; and your furs come out in the Fall refreshed and invigorated, and ready for a full winter's work. The charge is small.

tomorrow's papers will tell a record-breaking story of values for setting new buying records at Boggs & Buhl's wednesday

Pittsburgh Records

More department store business in Pittsburgh per person than in any other city in the world. Boggs & Buhl's business increases for the past 59 years have helped materially to maintain this record.

The only Annual International Art Exhibition of Paintings is held in Pittsburgh. There have been 25 such exhibitions. The Boggs & Buhl store in all its departments is a permanent exhibition of modern art.

Pittsburgh's electric railways carry over 360,000,000 passengers annually with 161,214 persons per day coming to the shopping districts and a great portion of these direct to Boggs & Buhl.

Pittsburgh has more bridges than any other city in the world, and many lead quickly to Boggs & Buhl's.

Pittsburgh has a population of 3,000,000 within a fifty-mile radius. Boggs & Buhl's delivery system goes quickly to the homes of anyone within this area.

Pittsburgh's people have on deposit in banks over $1,064,199,458. The money people will save on all they buy in Boggs & Buhl's 59th Anniversary Sale will help swell this total.

Pittsburgh has 3145 industrial plants representing 259 different industries. To supply your needs Boggs & Buhl must carry articles from many thousands of industrial plants from every corner of the globe.

From the Pittsburgh district may be had the materials to build any sort of house or dwelling from the ground up, be it of concrete, brick, steel or corrugated iron. From Boggs & Buhl's may be had furnishings for every room of any house that quickly turns it into a comfortable home.

Pittsburgh is responsible for the Daylight Saving Plan which originated here in September 1916. Which means you can shop all day in Boggs & Buhl during the Anniversary Sale and get home after store closing long before dark.

Pittsburgh's purchasing power is estimated at one billion dollars a month. Thrifty people of Pittsburgh will give an outstanding example of how they use this purchasing power during Boggs & Buhl's 59th Anniversary Sale when they set new buying records here.

Starting Wednesday, June 6th, the people of Pittsburgh and vicinity will set new buying records at Boggs & Buhl's, for Wednesday sees the start of our

59th Anniversary Sale

And what a sale it will be! Months of planning and preparation, months of going out into the merchandising markets for the best they contain for Pittsburgh people.

Now Everything is Ready!

Yes, everything is ready for Wednesday—the opening day.

Every section of every department of this Pittsburgh store is filled with the best values Pittsburgh shoppers have had an opportunity to buy in years—values that will set new buying records.

Everything is Fashion-Right!

No matter whether it's a hat you need, a new chair, a new rug, a new pair of shoes, a new dress or new double-boiler, you'll find everything in this great buying event new and fashion-right. And at prices that will set new buying records.

Everything is Quality-Right!

Before being chosen every article to be offered in this 59th Anniversary Sale was subjected to merchandise scrutiny to insure its passing Boggs & Buhl's rigid standard of quality. You can be sure that everything offered is quality-right despite the fact that prices are so low new buying records will be set.

Everything is Price-Right!

For this 59th Anniversary Sale even Boggs & Buhl's usual modest prices are much lower.

For it will be Pittsburgh's outstanding buying event of the year—and savings must, therefore, be outstanding on every article displayed.

You will save considerably on everything you buy—which means, of course, that new buying records will be set.

Every Service Facility Increased

Knowing the response thrifty Pittsburgh shoppers will make on opening day, and succeeding days, extra preparations have been made.

Every customer will be our guest and we are all ready to receive you hospitably—Wednesday.

Extra floormen, extra cashiers, extra parcel wrappers, extra delivery facilities and extra salespeople are ready to help you in setting new buying records for Pittsburgh.

Boggs & Buhl Records

Starting in 1869 in a small building twenty feet wide Boggs & Buhl today occupies a large store and annex covering practically two city blocks.

The first store in America to inaugurate a store wide Remnant Day Sale—famous the country over.

Noted the country over as pioneers in a large mail order business—based originally on yardage samples which were forwarded to customers all over the eastern United States.

The first store in Pittsburgh to install modern systems and equipment in the Accounting Department for handling customers' bills—a big step in accuracy and dispatch.

The first Department Store in Pittsburgh to install a Women's Shoe Department.

The first store to put into operation a special Auto Coach Service for customers—discarded only when we were successful in getting the present, highly efficient Crosstown Car Service inaugurated.

The first Pittsburgh Department Store to dispense with the Time Clock system for employees—leaving promptness as a matter of personal honor.

The only large store in Pittsburgh operating its own Light, Heat and Power plant—an effective saving in overhead that reflects itself in an important factor—prices.

The first store to have a street car Safety Zone installed for its patrons at the store.

A record as a daylight store—an open park side which permits daylight to flood every one of the four spacious floors.

60% of all selling departments on First Floor—a convenience record appreciated by customers—everything on four open spacious floors.

A record for unlimited automobile parking facilities—uncongested streets and parks near the store—a unique situation for a department store today.

Greatest list of honor roll employees to our knowledge—15% of all employees having been with us twenty years or more.

An outstanding record universally recognized—under the Will of Henry Buhl, Jr. the earnings of the store perpetually go to charity—a portion of every dollar you spend here goes to charitable purposes.

BUCS MAKE FINE START IN EAST

HELEN WILLS WINS TITLE

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

Bucs Show Courage in Winning 14-Inning Battle After Series of Disheartening Incidents—Scott Shines Again—Grimes Pitches Equivalent of Two Full Games in Three Days.

THOUGH Burleigh Grimes and Pete Scott must be hailed as the individual heroes of the Pirates' triumph in the stubbornly-fought 14-inning battle in Brooklyn yesterday, the first game of the Eastern trip, the victory says considerable for the fighting quailties of the whole crew in view of what preceded it.

Pete Scott

On Saturday the Bucs had a game seemingly safe in their locker with a four-run lead as late as the end of the seventh frame, only to be humiliated and beaten before a home crowd when the Cubs piled up eight runs in one inning. That would ordinarily be enough to shake the morale of any club just climbing out of a slump.

AND yesterday there were two more depressing occurrences—the first when Remy Kremer blew up again and the Dodgers pulled ahead by grabbing a four-run lead in the fifth reel, and the second when, after Pittsburgh had apparently cinched the game by first tying the score and then gaining an edge of two tallies in the first half.

After all those disappointments and "confidence shakers" it required real courage on the part of the Rovers to keep battling through five extra innings until they finally won out, for their third victory in the last four games.

PETE SCOTT may not be the cleverest first baseman in the world, but for the present he is proving himself a whole lot more valuable to the Bucs than many fans thought he would ever be when the Cuyler deal was made.

It was Pete's big bat that landed the knockout blow on the Robins yesterday in the fourteenth round, his fifth hit of the day driving in two runs that won for the Bushmen.

With two doubles and a triple included among his five hits, the former Cub had one of the biggest days recorded this season in the majors.

He has made eight hits in the last three games and thus far has more than supplied the punch that it was feared would be lost when Joe Harris had to quit the lineup.

THE Grimes-Aldridge trade looks like the joke of a decade in the big baseball leagues when Pittsburgh fans consider the remarkable work that Burleigh has done for the Pirates whereas Aldridge has been practically worthless to the Giants.

Burleigh Grimes.

Grimes is not only pitching his own games in highly satisfactory style, but he is doing a goodly part of the work of the remainder of the staff. Friday he was ill, but insisted on pitching, and succeeded in beating the Cubs.

That would have been considered enough work for four or five days by many hurlers while ailing, but only two days later we find Burleigh stepping in to relieve Kremer and pitching nine innings from that stage to the finish and victory.

In short, Grimes pitched two full games in the last three days and won them both.

IN SORRY contrast to the brilliant pitching of Grimes is the continued poor work of Remy Kremer. Grimes has started 12 games this year and has gone the full distance in nine of them. Kremer has started 10 games and has lasted the route in only three of them, being taken out seven times.

Just what ails the Frenchman is a mystery. In previous years he was more effective against Brooklyn than against any other club in the league, but this year he has not beaten the Dodgers once. It is beginning to look as if the Pirates would fare better if Kremer were given a rest for a time and Walter Tauscher or one of the younger hurlers were given a chance.

THE swap pulled suddenly by the Pittsburgh club Saturday night whereby Outfielder Comorosky was transferred to Indianapolis under option and Pitcher Ervin Brame was released to the same club outright in exchange for Pitcher Bill Burwell, a veteran of 33 years, was rather surprising. It was clear that Comorosky would have to be given another tryout in the minors to develop hitting power, but Brame had looked like a real pitcher for a time—so much so, in fact, that an American League club offered Pittsburgh $60,000 for him during the training season.

THE Buc bosses evidently figured that Burwell's work this spring indicated a big come-back. The best he could do last year was to win 14 games and lose 20, though it must be admitted that he was with a sixth-place club.

Burwell pitched for the St. Louis Americans in 1920 and 1921, chiefly in relief roles. He was in 33 games each season, working 113 innings in 1920 and 84 frames in 1921. He won six games and lost four in 1920, and won two and lost four in 1921.

The deal leaves Pittsburgh with 26 players, or only one above the limit to which every big league club must reduce by June 15.

Dent J. Moon.

WHEN Steve Hamas, Penn State athlete, recently accomplished the rare feat of winning letters in four different sports within a single college year, a search of the records at Pitt and Carnegie Tech failed to show that the achievement had ever been equaled in Pittsburgh.

It was found that at Pitt Jimmy DeHart had made his four letters through 1914-15-16-19 and that John J. (Speedo) Loughran, the only other Panther four-letter man, had done the trick through 1919-20-21-22.

At Carnegie Tech the keepers of the athletic archives were unable to find that any wearer of the Tartan with the solitary exception of Jimmy Robertson had ever won four letters.

AS ROBERTSON had earned his honors through 1921-22-23-24, the evidence appeared complete that Pittsburgh had never had an athlete to match Hamas as the winner of letters in four major college sports within one college year.

Further research, however, has brought to light the fact that not only did Carnegie Tech have another four-letter man besides Robertson, but that he equaled Hamas' record of winning the quadruple honors in one year. Dent J. Moon was the Plaid hero.

CLARENCE (BUDDY) OVEREND, graduate manager of athletics at Carnegie Tech, makes known the discovery in the following letter: "Referring to Kauffmann plays his penalty shots out of the sandpits in a deliberate and sure manner. In the picture above, the ball is seen on its way to the green amid a real upheaval of dirt after a perfect explosion shot.

CARL GIVES BALL RIDE

One of the strongest departments of the game of Carl F. Kauffmann, national public links golf champion, is his driving. Despite the fact that he gets little chance to use a brassie or a spoon on his home course, Schenley Park, he can match any of them with the wooden clubs on a long, championship layout.

GRIMES BIG STAR OF LONG FIGHT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

BROOKLYN, June 4.—Their nerves back to normal after the terrifying experiences with flying pop bottles and irate Brooklyn fans as they got off on the right foot on their Eastern invasion yesterday with a 14-inning victory here, the Pirates today were able to get down to the pleasant task of decorating the members of the club who rose to great heights in the 9-7 victory of yesterday.

The whole thing was informal, pats on the back and all that sort of stuff being in order. The honored ones were Burleigh Grimes, the famous horseman of Minerva; Pete Scott, the substitute of dime novel appeal, and Pooch Barnhart, the celebrated Pennsylvania Dutchman.

The Four Horsemen that Mr. Ibanez wrote about in a figurative manner were not much more harrowing than the Flatbush riders who came close to causing serious injuries as they hurled their ugly ammunition at the defenseless athletes and umpires in yesterday's diamond struggle. With the glass missiles thrown from upper and lower decks and coming within a few feet of the heads of athletes and officials it is singular that somebody was not hurt. One bottle reached Umpire Frank Wilson, but the official was not injured.

POP BOTTLES FLY

Another flying bottle narrowly missed Arnold Statz, Johnny Gooch and Umpire Beans Reardon as it came hurtling from one of the upper sections. Even the appearance of a large squad of policemen failed to quell the riotous scene and the umpires were on the point of forfeiting the game to the Pirates when there was a cessation on the part of the culprits.

The outreageous delevopment, which is good grounds for discon-

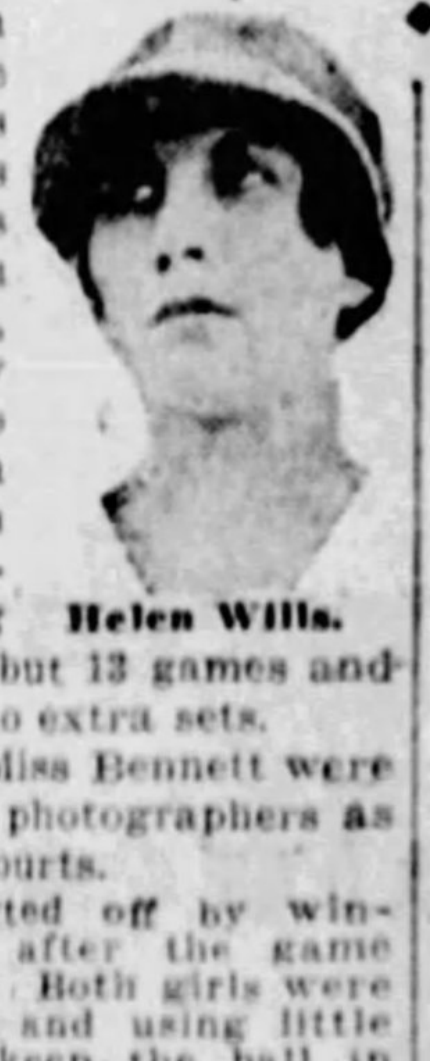
U. S. CHAMPION BEATS MISS BENNETT

AUTEUIL, France, June 4.—(AP.)—Helen Wills today won her first big tournament of 1928, defeating Eileen Bennett, of England, 6-1, 6-2, in the final for the international hard courts tennis championship.



Helen Wills.

The American champion won the deciding match as she has previous matches in this tournament, with consummate ease, dropping only three games, two of which were on her service. In the entire tournament, including the final, she lost but 13 games and never was forced to extra sets.

Miss Wills and Miss Bennett were nearly mobbed by photographers as they entered the courts.

Miss Wills started off by winning her service after the game had gone to deuce. Both girls were stroking carefully and using little pace, content to keep the ball in play. The Californian made it 2-0 in games by capturing Miss Bennett's service with ease. On her next service, Miss Wills speeded up her game adding more power to her strokes,, neither girl had come up to the net as yet. Stroking hard and deep, Miss Wills won her service again and broke through Miss Bennett's, making the score 4-0.

What Manager Robinson Said After Yesterday's Game: "Great Scott!"

★ SUN-TELEGRAPH ★ SPORTS ★

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SPORTS EDITOR

WHY not something new in the way of marathon events?

Milt Crandall pulled his two dance marathons here and set the country talking and other promoters imitating him. Now he's going to put it over in Madison Square Garden, New York, as a partner of the celebrated Tex Rickard, who isn't too old to learn a new wrinkle or two.

New York, always on the lookout for something novel, probably will fall hard for the stunt.

But why not something new around here, if we must have marathons? The mob already is tiring of the repetitions of dance marathons with their joke 15-minute rest periods at the end of each hour to make the grind last throughout the week and enrich the box office and it is only a question of time before somebody will promote a big bloomer and go for a bankroll.

WHY not, I ask, something new?

Why not a real contest, with the sporting touch, and a real winner at the finish instead of a flock of "survivors" to split up first prize when the blue laws shut down the show on Saturday night?

How about a six-day roller skating race for mixed pairs with competition going on all the time and members of the teams skating in relays, as they take turns in six-day bike races? Say, have first the male member skate two or three hours and then rest while his feminine partner takes up the chase and have the pair alternate until the end of the grind.

THERE are several good roller-skating arenas in Western Pennsylvania that might try out some such plan with profit, and I pass the idea along to them for what it is worth. At least it possesses the virtue of being something new and not merely a carbon copy of Milt Crandall's big idea. And it would produce a winner on a basis of laps of the track covered.

DOWN East, now that the Pirates are there, the scribes and fans suddenly have become Pittsburgh-conscious and there is a lot of speculation about what is the matter with the Pirates. The hoi polloi seemingly cannot understand how come that a club good enough to win the National League pennant last year and possessed of as many stars as the Corsairs can be so far down in the race.

Out here we know about the casualties the club has suffered in the way of sickness and injuries and are expecting a sudden and complete brace. We have ceased to wonder what the trouble is, for it has become patent to us, with as many as three regular infielders out of the lineup at one time and virtually all of the pitchers suffering from attacks of too many basehits by the opposition.

WHO SAYS IT'S THE WOMAN THAT PAYS AND PAYS AND PAYS? C. C. PYLE CONTENDS HE'S THE GENT WHO HAS TO FORK OVER THE DOUGH.

The tottering Yankees are combing the minors and the college campuses for new talent.

Their latest acquisition is Lefty Manfredi, the New York University pitching star, who has another year of college, but will travel with the Yanks during the summer months to get some experience for later on, when he will sign a contract. His experience will consist mainly of pitching to Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig in practice. These poor fellows and the others on the Ruppert payroll don't get any practice hitting lefthanders because Herb Pennock is too busy pitching games and there are no other wrongsiders around, and, as a result, the Babe and Lou and their mates can hit only so many homers off southpaws because they lack the trained eyes for hitting that sort of stuff. 'Stoo bad!

Tommy Loughran thought Pete Latzo was only a freshman as a challenger for his light-heavyweight title, but he learned to his sorrow he was at least a sophomore.

SPEAKING OF FRESHMEN AND SUCH, DICKIE BARTELL HAS MADE THE PIRATE VARSITY NINE.

RANGERS EXTENDED

TIVERTON, R. I., June 4.—(AP.)—The Glasgow Rangers, champions of Scotland, were extended to the limit here yesterday in a scoreless tie with the Fall River club of the American Soccer League.

THE interscholastic and intercollegiate track and field season for this district and for this year, which was brought to a close with the staging of the Pitt Interscholastics and the Big Four Championships brought to the fore some stunning performances, really stunning and promising ones, on the part of the school boys, but developed few collegiate lights who might be classed in the "new" category. The honors of the season belong to the high school kids.

No less than a score of boy athletes stand out today as promising track and field men—men who will some day win additional laurels as members of college and university teams—and we hope, win these new honors on district varsities.

Some of the high school stars who have performed this spring have exhibited remarkable consistency. There have been few athletes of the "flash in the pan" variety, and generally, the class of competition these stars have set has been uniformly high.

MILLER CHAMPION

Bill Miller, of Washington, the district 100, 220 and 440-yard champion; Brooks of Beaver Falls and Williams, Peaody, sprinters; Nulton, Rechester's fine 880-yard runner; Ramsey, Washington's miler; Thomas, Monongahela's quarter-mile star, and Vance, Greensburg's champion hurdler, and Simms, of Monongahela, another timber topper of no mean ability, have been the stars of the running events.

Miller has turned in sensational performances in his races. He is good for 10 1-5 in the 100, 22 3-5 in the furlong and 52 in the quarter-mile all in one day. He has run the quarter in 51 flat—much faster than any other high school star has negotiated the distance this year.

Nulton's half-mile stepping has been a feature of the big meets hereabouts this year, and he met defeat only once, when Anderton, a Beaver Valley rival, beat him in the W. P. I. A. L. meet.

Vance, the hurdler, with a little more speed between the hurdles, would rate as one of the best ever developed hereabouts. His form in getting over the timbers is considered very good—though he has a tendency to drag his left leg a little in the high hurdles.

In the field events, Cesarone of South Brownsville gives promise of becoming a college discus champion. He is tossing the platter over 130 feet consistently—a mark that would win a college meet.

DYSON REAL STAR

In the shot, Dyson of New Brighton, one of the best all-around field men of the year, stands out as being about the best of the year, though McMurdo of Elwood City is close behind him. Craft of New Castle is a fine javelin tosser, in addition to being a point man in both the shot and the discus.

Striblin, South Brownsville, is another fine all-around star, being a capable performer in the broad jump, shot and discus. Cooper of Westinghouse and Skelton of South Brownsville are the best and most constant high jumpers. Both have done six feet.

King of Connellsville gives indication of becoming a fine pole vaulter, as does little Bobby Pusch of Beaver. A lame back has handicapped the latter in all of his efforts this spring, but he has been vaulting over 10 feet 10 inches. Both have cleared 12 feet in practice vaults.

Generally speaking, the performances that have been given by these athletes named and a host of others has been of select order, has been good enough to set the college scouts hot on their trails. There isn't a school in the land that could afford to pass up chaps like Miller, Striblin, Ceasrone, Vance, Dyson, Craft and King.

SPORT COMMENT

our recent conversation with reference to four-letter men, I wish to advise you that we have overlooked one man, Mr. Dent J. Moon, now coach of Jamestown (N. Y.) High School. In the college year from September, 1919, to June, 1920, Mr. Moon earned letters in the following major sports: Football, basketball, baseball and track. In fact, Mr. Moon is the only man that we have ever had that earned four letters in one year. As we stated befor, Jimmy Robertson earned four letters, but they were not all in one year."

RECORDS fell in the National League Saturday while the Heydler clubs were piling up what looked like a lot of basketball scores.

The oldest fans are racking their memories in vain, trying to recall another occasion on which as many as 83 runs were scored in four games in one afternoon. That was Saturday's product with scores of 20 to 12, 13 to 10, 10 to 6 and 6 to 4.

Andy Cohen.

AND the league record for runs in four games in one day was not the only mark smashed. During the afternoon in the senior circuit no fewer than 15 home runs were made. Even Andy Cohen added evidence that he can hit as well as field by slamming out one of the afternoon's four-basers.

A total of 15 homers in one league in one day establishes another record. Fifteen were made in the National on July 4, 1925, but that was done in a holiday program of eight games, whereas only four were played last Saturday.

THE largest number of home runs ever made in the American League in one day was 13, established on April 14, 1925, in four games.

The highest mark for homers in one day in the two leagues combined was reached on July 4, 1925, when 15 were made in the National and 8 in the American, a total of 23.

Riot Marks Bucs' Win

tinuance of Sunday baseball, broke out in the ninth inning a minute after the Pirates had made two runs to break a deadlock in a game that was loaded with thrills through the 14 intense rounds.

A questionable circus catch by Arnold Statz produced the riotous scene. With two Pirate runners on the sacks, two out and the game tied at five all, Traynor hit a dinky little fly to center. The clever Statz rushed in with the speed of a greyhound and reaching out with his gloved hand on the grass tops, grabbed the fly.

Umpire Wilson, at third base, and Umpire Moran at first, ruled that Statz trapped the all. As the officials made known the decision a howl went up. The lull that followed was akin to the calm that precedes a storm. Somebody heaved a bottle onto the diamond, this act being the signal for a general outbreak. Police rushed to the battlefield and tried to quell the salvo of glass, but the bottles continued to come from faraway places, endangering everybody as they fell heavily on the playing field.

In the course of time the umpires were able to get order and the last half of the ninth was resumed. A little loose play on the part of the nervous Pirates and the battle was deadlocked. And then, with the winning run on third and only one out, one of the most courageous pitchers in the game performed a heroic slab feat with more than 20,000 seething and half-angered fans shouting and kicking up an awful fuss in the interest of the important run.

Burleigh Grimes has been the central figure in more than a score of diamond dramas, but he certainly did give a great rendition to heckle thousands who have cheered him times without number as he worked for the honor and glory of Brooklyn.

Rushed from the bull pen after working a full nine inning game on Friday, the willing toiler came hustling to the scene in the sixth, little thinking he would be on the mound for nine more rounds with only one day of rest. But Grimes not only reeled off nine frames, he actually pitched the best nine innings shown by any Pirate pitcher since the season started.

The angry spectators didn't seem to bother Burleigh as he went to the mound in the last half of the inning—and to the credit of Catcher Johnny Gooch, who was almost struck with one of the thrown bottles—let it be said he was "in there" fighting like a champion.

Statz, first up, grounded to Wright, who threw to Scott, but Pete, who shared the honors of the big afternoon with Grimes and Barnhart, muffed the ball. Hendrick followed with a tap just out of Grimes' reach that went for a single. The mad spectators, realizing the home team was back in the game, forgot their sullen selves to cheer. Scoops Carey sacrificed, putting both runners in the scoring zone.

Up came Rube Bressler to smite the ball to left-center for three sacks. The sphere came within inches of bounding over the parapet into the bleachers for a homer that would have settled everything. With two runs in and the winning tally on third, Grimes, Gooch and the remainder of the Pirates faced the terrific ordeal, and as they did, it is not getting away from the facts to state that the boys in the Pittsburgh dugout and their few friends behind their bench, figured the ship was as good as sunk for the afternoon.

CHILLY SAUCE

BY CHILLY DOYLE
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

BROOKLYN, June 4.—There was something admirable in the actions of Burleigh Grimes yesterday as he rescued the Pirates from what seemed to be an impending defeat. The veteran gave a truly remarkable exhibition on the mound after enjoying only one day of rest, and he was sick when he went to the slab on Friday.

SOME of the other Pirate pitchers should take a page from Burleigh's book. He is an athlete who is in shape 12 months of the year. He doesn't rush to a sunny clime as soon as the first frost comes; he believes that hardship is conducive to stamina and his record for this year proves it.

GRIMES gave the game a rather beautiful touch in the feverish, nervous ninth, the same inning that saw the fusillade of pop bottles. The park was still smouldering from the overt acts in the stands when play was resumed in the last half of the ninth. Pete Scott, a big hero of the long fight, put the first Dodger on by making his first misplay since he went to his present position.

GRIMES had to work harder than a stevedore to keep the winning run on third in the ninth. Scott made the final out of the round. As he caught Henline's fly, he took off his glove and threw it down in disgust, the impatient act reflecting what Scott thought of himself for making the error in the beginning of the inning.

THE error might have cost the Pirates the game with a resultant defeat for Grimes. Burleigh, however, camped almost under Scott as he caught the fly. He was ready to grab it if it fell away from Pete, and then, when the new first-sacker threw down his glove in anger, Grimes patted him on the back and encouraged him. That's teamwork under trying circumstances.

THE victory was a tonic for the Pirates. It was by far the best game of the season in the league so far as the Buccos are concerned. In more than one way the triumph is important. In the first place it gives the Buccos a fine jumpoff on their first eastern trip. Then again, the morale of the club was not so good after the bitter defeat of Saturday. The pitiable exhibition of relief pitching at Forbes Field was enough to discourage any player for a day or so.

Stocks Still Ignore High Money. Good Dividend News.

By B. C. FORBES

THRILLS continue to be manufactured almost daily on the New York Stock Exchange. "Manufacture" is the right word, because when stocks jump up $5 or $10 or $15 a share one hour and drop even more the next hour, professional manipulation obviously is responsible. The artificial nature of such violent fluctuations is emphasized by the sudden swings from one manipulated group to another manipulated group of stocks. In Wall Street parlance, when one set of stocks become "tired," another is trotted out.

The impressive fact remains, however, that, although boomed stocks have had several very sharp relapses, public selling in heavy volume has not once been induced. That the vast majority of the many millions of stockholders scattered throughout the country still have faith in the stability of the market is thus convincingly demonstrated.

MONEY market developments apparently make no impression whatsoever on bull speculators. Yet these developments are not to be regarded as insignificant.

Once again brokers' loans have increased to $4,479,466,000, the Federal Reserve Board reports, which is the highest ever recorded with the exception of two weeks ago. These loans now stand $1,407,575,000 above a year ago. Rediscounts expanded no less than $96,319,000 last week, to $943,791,000, representing a $447,284,000 increase in 12 months. The reserve system's ratio is now a shade below 69 per cent, the lowest since 1921, except during the year-end pressure for funds. A year ago the ratio was 8 per cent higher. Since September our net gold loss has exceeded $450,000,000. It is entirely logical, therefore, that call money lately should have ruled at 6 per cent and touched 6½ per cent, and that time money should be hard to borrow at 5½ per cent.

It is less logical, however, that, while money has advanced 1 per cent or more, stocks should have advanced so spectacularly as compared with a year ago. It remains to be seen whether the old rule will again operate, that rule being that, whenever in the past the return on stocks fell below the cost of money, a drastic decline is near.

THERE has been no improvement in business conditions as compared with a year ago, to offset this substantial stiffening in the cost of money. Railway traffic, week by week, runs below last year and is now below two years ago. Employment compares equally unsatisfactorily.

Business results for the half year, however, promise to hold their own with the first half of 1927, with some industries showing gains, others losses.

All that can be said about prospects for the second half year is that they are reasonably good. The improvement in agricultural prices and conditions is a factor of far reaching moment.

So far the possibility of business unsettlement caused by the presidential campaign has been ignored.

Directors of corporations apparently view the outlook rather cheerfully judging from the number of improved dividend announcements. May brought 78 such announcements, against 68 one year ago, 54 two years ago and 42 three years ago.

For the five months just ended, the better dividend payments have totalled 456 compared with 391 last year and 315 two years ago.

THE form taken by the cheerful dividend announcements made last month by industrial, public utility and railway companies is shown by the following table:

	Ind.	P. U.	R.R.
Extra	31	0	3
Initial	19	2	1
Stock	8	3	0
Increased	6	1	0
Totals	68	6	4

There were 10 unfavorable declarations, the same as in April. But unfavorable announcements for the five months have totalled only 64, compared with 71 a year ago.

THE following table summarizes the cheering dividend announcements made since the end of 1923:

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, June 4.—Aggressive buying on the part of commission houses lifted wheat prices rapidly at times today after early downturns. Sensationally bullish crop advices from a leading expert furnished the chief incentive to buyers. He said spring wheat over a wide territory is deteriorating fast now, that in his opinion the greater part of the acreage he has seen could not make more than four or five bushels if rain came at once, and that a few more days without rain would bring about total failure.

Wheat closed unsettled ½@1c net higher; corn, ⅛@½c off; oats varying from ⅝c decline to 1c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10c.

The following grain quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

MOVE TO WIDEN BROAD STREET

The widening of Broad street 20 feet between Highland Negley avenues is proposed in a resolution introduced by James F. Malone and approved by Council today. The resolution calls for an estimate of the cost and probable damages.

A large number of property owners today sent Council a petition urging the extension of Reynold street, Fourteenth Ward, to Braddock avenue.

ELLWOOD CITY AIRPLANE COMPANY NEARLY READY

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., June 4.—The Ellwood City Aircraft Company is almost ready to do business. A charter has been obtained, officers elected, a hangar erected on the landing field, which has been purchased, and a plane has been ordered.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Money at 7 Per Cent.

Despite the bullish attitude toward many of the speculative favorites, there was considerable nervousness evident in the market today. During the early trading some wide gains were established, but most of these were forefeited later when the more cautious traders took profits in anticipation of a further tension in the money market. Call money opened at 6 per cent as against the 6½ per cent rate for late loans Friday, but calling in of funds forced the figure up to 7 per cent this afternoon.

Chain Store Survey.

Merrill, Lynch & Co. are distributing a comprehensive statistical chart containing detailed information regarding 42 representative chain store companies. These statistics include the number of stores, sales, profits, earnings per share, capitalization and other figures of interest to investors. It is interesting to note that gross sales of these 42 companies in 1927 amounted to $2,502,993,491, as against $2,194,456,542 in 1926, while net profits amounted to $152,601,641 against $130,132,008. Stores in 1927 were 50,970 against 46,267 in 1926.

California Dairies.

A syndicate headed by Spencer Trask & Co. has sold 44,000 shares of California Dairies, Inc., preference stocks, series A, which will provide funds for redemption on June 7 of 15,000 shares of $7 dividend preference stock, and the acquisition of Pure Milk Dairy Company of San Diego.

Business Conditions Steady.

Reviewing general business conditions, the National City Bank of New York finds there has been no great change the past month, but fundamental conditions have continued generally favorable and confidence has become stronger. Manufacturing and distribution, though apparently not up to the highest levels of some times past, are nevertheless in large volume. While all lines are not participating equally this is a normal condition which does not imply that anything is fundamentally wrong with business.

Big Block of Armour Sold.

Chicago reports said negotiations were completed Sunday whereby a large block of Armour A stock was purchased privately by a prominent Chicago interest. The price paid for the stock is understood to have been slightly higher than Saturday's closing price. Armour A opened this morning with 10,000 shares at 19⅝, up 1⅝ points. The Cutten interests, which recently took over a big block of Armour B stock, were mentioned as the probable buyers in the latest deal also.

Missouri Pacific at New High.

One of the most important features of the stock market in the early trading was the advance in Missouri Pacific to a new high record. This movement was in line of recent statements regarding the adjustment program of the company by which the accrued dividends on the preferred stocks will be provided. It is expected that action on the first payment on the preferred stock will be taken within a short time.

Postum Confirms Purchase.

The Postum Company, Inc., today confirmed acquisition of the Cheek-Neal Coffee Company of Nashville, producers of Maxwell House coffee. The consideration is $21,250,000 cash and equivalent of 175,000 shares of present Postum Company stock, or 350,000 shares of the new Postum stock after the proposed 100 per cent stock dividend. The Cheek-Neal Company produces Maxwell House coffee.

Market Demonstrates Trend.

J. S. Bache & Co. say: "On several occasions last week the market was subject to tests of its technical strength. In each instance, by showing tremendous support at or above previous resistance levels, subsequently inviting renewed constructive activities of a vigorous character, it demonstrated rather clearly that for the near future at least its trend remained upward, subject only to brief essential pauses for the consolidation of its gains. Just how long the present stage of the major bull movement will continue without serious interruption is problematic, depending on the course of money, the rapidity with which brokerage loans continue their expansion, political developments, etc.

Coolidge Has Street on Edge.

One of the keenest observers in Wall Street notes that there is growing belief in the Street that unless President Coolidge is resigned to being "drafted" he will make a definite statement prior to the convention, June 12. Such statement would be the most important market influence of the year. A new "indication" of Republican chieftains' plans is pointed to daily. Holding of the budget or "Coolidge economy" report until the night before the convention is one—choice of Wisconsin as the site for the Summer White House is another—then there is the date of his trip, which puts the President on the train, out of touch with the convention, when delegates start voting as another straw that is stressed. Political brokers begin to fear it is "too obvious" and would not be surprised if the market were tested with a definite statement from the White House at any time.

Big Land Deal Offering.

Public offering is being made today of a new issue of $26,000,000 10-30 year Federal Land Bank 4 per cent bonds at a price of 100¼ per cent and interest to yield 3.98 per cent to the redeemable date (1928) and 4 per cent thereafter to redemption or maturity. The bonds are being offered to the public by a country-wide group, composed of the 12 Federal Land Banks, investment houses, institutions and upwards of 1,000 dealers. The banking group is headed by Alex Brown & Sons of Baltimore, Harris, Forbes & Co., Brower Bros. & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co., the National City Company and the Guaranty Company of New York.

Edison Enters Radio Industry.

Thomas A. Edison, Inc., of which Charles Edison, son of the inventor, is president, will enter the radio field in connection with the Splitdorf Bethlehem Electrical Company. The two companies will pool their patents and manufacture radio sets, electrical phonographs, speakers and other radio equipment, according to the announcement. Thomas A. Edison, nearly half a century ago, discovered the "Edison effect," which is the basis of the radio tube, but he has not been commercially engaged heretofore in the radio field.

Durant Motors Spurts.

Heavy buying of Durant Motors on the New York Curb forced that issue up to the highest level of the year with traders rushing in to get the stock on the assumption that the move was sponsored by William C. Durant, who recently returned from Europe and issued a bullish statement in regard to the future of business generally and the automobile industry in particular. While the actual development in connection with Durant Motors is not known in the Street, it was recalled that Mr. Durant told reporters the other day that he was quite satisfied with things as they are and that he is not going into any merger. Incidentally, today's rise in Durant adds color to a tip which was circulated quietly a month or so ago that much higher prices would be seen for the stock by midsummer.

The Durant Motor Company broke its record for the last five years during May, when 18,125 cars were put in the hands of distributors. This figure exceeds April by 15 per cent and surpasses the best previous record since 1923 by more than 29 per cent.

Poor Weather Bulls Cotton.

General light to heavy rains over the cotton belt on Sunday and forecast of more rains over the eastern belt, brought a rush of buying into the cotton market early in the day, which sent prices up about $1.50 per bale from the close of last week. The advance attracted a good deal of profit taking, but the demand was broader than for some time and the offers were well taken.

Byers Holds Gain.

A. M. Byers was one of the strongest of the industrial specialties in today's market and displayed marked resistance to pressure at times when other stocks were forced to yield under the weight of the profit taking which made its appearance intermittently. Byers' strength was attributed to the company's present high operating rate and also to George H. Snyder's analysis of the company's success with the Aston mechanical puddling process in a recent issue of the Sun-Telegraph.

Public in Good Stocks.

A partial explanation of the great expansion of brokers' loans and the deluging of the stock exchanges with orders lies in the fact that this is the first bull market in which the untutored public has done its speculating through legitimate channels, instead of bucket shops. The excesses of the present period are at least being directed toward good stocks, rather than toward "blue sky" securities. Even so, the marginal speculator can be wiped out, but the outright buyer at worst can suffer only a shrinkage of principal as long as he sticks to the shares of strong and well-managed companies. The lay trader, though still a victim of his own gullibility, is becoming increasingly sophisticated. Public whims change, frequently moving in cycles. At present, the financially venturesome public would rather ally themselves with the ventures of Morgan, the Du Ponts, Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and other eminent groups than with the blue sky promotors, who flourished in the wave of public initiation into the ways of the money markets shortly after the war.

Loan Rates and Carrying Costs.

At various times during the past few weeks, the prediction has been ventured that outside speculators would receive something of a chill when they receive their bills for May with the carrying charges marked up because of the higher money rate, from 4½ to 6 per cent. In some quarters it had been suggested that discovery of these larger incidental expenses would exercise a check on outside speculation. A canvass of opinion among commission houses last week did not elicit much confirmation of that view. The general judgment appeared to be that in its present mood the outside public was not likely to attach much importance to a higher cost of conducting what appeared to be a successful speculation. Several commission houses, questioned on this point, gave out the opinion that nothing but an unexpected shock of some sort was likely to shake the enthusiasm of outside speculators.

HOME AGAIN RAIDED AS HE PAYS FINE

MARTINS FERRY, O., June 4.—While John Kadar was at St. Clairsville paying a fine of $100 assessed following his arrest two weeks ago on a charge of possessing booze, Belmont county prohibition raiders searched his home again and found a quantity of liquor.

STREET CAR KILLS 3-YEAR-OLD CHILD

Hit by a street car near his home late yesterday, Frank Gondi, 3, 1415 Arch street, suffered injuries which caused his death early today in the Presbyterian Hospital. The child ran from the curb directly in the path of the car, according to Motorman Albert R. Sargest, 36, in charge of the car.

GREENSBURG HONORS FLIER WITH AIRPORT

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 4.—In memory of J. D. Hill, formerly of Scottdale, Pa., who went down with the airplane Old Glory in the Atlantic Ocean last summer while attempting a New York to Rome flight, the Longview Flying Field, near here, was re-dedicated Saturday as Hill Airport.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, June 4.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (000 omitted in sales column in bond list):

STOCKS.

STOCKS BREAK AFTER EARLY ADVANCE

NEW YORK, June 4.—(AP.)—Tightening credit conditions cast their shadow over the market again today and prices broke sharply after an early period of strength. Call money renewed unchanged at 6 per cent, but banks called about $15,000,000 in loans and the large institutions reported a growing scarcity in the volume of funds available for brokers' borrowings.

The day's business news was mixed in character. Official denial that negotiations were pending for the sale of the Radio Corporation's communications business to the International Telephone Company were followed by a drop from 223¼ to 213½ in that stock, but scale buying orders were supplied on persistent rumors of an inauguration of cash dividends and an early split-up of the stock. American Linseed ran up 6 points to 109 on reports that the company would be absorbed by Gold Dust, but the latter ran into heavy profit-taking.

Prices ran up 1 to 7 points in the early trading with more than a score of issues moving into new high ground. American Express ran up 9 points to a new record high at 204 and American Railways Express 6½ on denial of recent reports concerning negotiations for the taking over of the American Railway Express Company stock by the railroads at a price substantially below its current market value. Gimbel Bros. moved into new high ground on reports of further accumulation by Sears Roebuck interests.

Case Threshing broke from an early high of 334 to 325 and General Motors from 202 to 196½. International Telephone sold down 6 points and Western Union sagged 5 points to 145, the lowest price this year, and within a fraction of last year's low. Despite the widespread interest in current trans-oceanic flights, Wright and Curtiss airplane stocks each sold down about 5 points. Substantial recessions also were recorded in such recent leaders as American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse Electric, Montgomery Ward and Packard.

PRODUCE MARKET

Dealings at the local wholesale produce district for practically all lines of fruit and vegetables were rather slow today. The quotations on fruit and vegetables were about unchanged.

The butter, egg and cheese markets were steady and the quotations were unchanged.

Poultry supplies were liberal and the market was easy. The demand was rather dull and the quotations were about unchanged.

Car lot supplies were heavy, a total of 801 cars being on track. Arrivals included 16 cars of apples, 3 beans, 13 cabbage, 25 cantaloupes, 3 celery, 11 cucumbers, 2 lemons, 10 lettuce, 1 onions, 13 oranges, 4 peppers, 1 peas, 24 potatoes, 29 strawberries, 1 sweet potatoes, 1 plums and 11 pineapples.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, June 4.—The cotton market opened firm today at an advance of 20 to 30 points on reports of rains in the belt over Sunday and relatively firm Liverpool cables.

There was active covering or rebuying by recent sellers, October selling up to 21.10c after the call, or about 30 to 34 points net higher on active months. This advance attracted realizing and prices showed reactions of a few points by the end of the first hour, but buying promoted by the unfavorable weather reports continued, and trading was active.

Private cables said there had been continental and American buying in Liverpool on the southern rain news and that contracts were comparatively scarce.

The buying movement inspired by the unfavorable weather news seemed to broaden toward noon. October sold up to 21.21c and active months generally showed net advances of 38 to 45 points. Prices at midday were a few points off under realizing, but private reports continued to reach here from the South regarding the rains and their probable effect as a check to cultivation.

3 WOMEN INJURED IN CRASH NEAR BELMONT

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 4.—Three persons were injured when a hit-run motorist crashed into another machine west of Belmont on the Lincoln highway yesterday. The injured were Miss Josephine Hammer, Olive Bender and Mrs. Ella Hammer, all of Greensburg. Charles Hammer, son of Mrs. Hammer, driver of the car, was not hurt.

GENERAL LIST IS QUIET

Stocks were quiet but prices held firm in the early session on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. Volume of business showed no noticeable change from last week.

Dealings in the Arkansas Gas issues was in somewhat reduced volume during the forenoon, but the preferred stock managed to get into new high ground, a small fraction above the best level of last week's movement. Lone Star came into the market at 54, a slight recession from the previous close, but there were supporting orders in the market around the opening level and it reflected the support in a subsequent advance.

Nothing of importance developed in the miscellaneous manufacturing division. A few trades in Central Ohio Steel Products were recorded at a fractional decline from the previous close, but there appeared to be very little of the stock available around the prevailing prices. Blaw Knox was firm as was Standard Sanitary and Carnegie Metals was handled early at a narrow fractional advance over Saturday's last price.

Scarcity of Blaw Knox Steel around current levels was reflected in the later market when a few small buying orders forced the price up two points from the opening. The company paid a stock dividend of 10 per cent a few months ago. The annual report covering 1927 has not yet been issued, but is expected to make a favorable showing against the previous year when net profit was $1,612,450. The company has outstanding 248,705 shares of common stock which is the only capital liability, the preferred having been redeemed last November.

ROUNDTABLE of BUSINESS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

NEW ways of doing old and common place things have made fortunes and revolutionized many industries. An ordinary door hinge is a simple device. It is so simple that few people have ever thought of changing it or even thought about it at all. Hinges are much the same today as they were 50 or 100 years ago.

BUT there is a company on the North Side whose officials have thought about the lowly hinge. They have developed something distinctly new in hinges. It is not likely that the idea will revolutionize the hardware business or make millions over night but it is starting to contribute materially to the earnings of McKinney Manufacturing Company. It is only one of several new types of hardware which the company is placing on the market.

IN HANGING a door it is necessary for the carpenter to make a mortise in the frame and a mortise in the door for each hinge. It is an operation which takes considerable care and a substantial amount of a carpenter's time. The new McKinney hinge makes mortising unnecessary. It merely has to be screwed on the door and the frame. The leaves of the hinge are so designed that they fit into each other. A small amount of space is left between the door and the frame but this is no greater than the room which must be left at the other side of the door.

NO ANNOUNCEMENT has been made but it is known that McKinney shortly will place a new type of lock on the market which will have great labor saving advantages when it is installed.

THE stock of the McKinney Manufacturing Company will be listed on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange within the next few months. A block of the no par stock recently was offered to the public. A total of 309,874 shares is outstanding. There is no preferred stock. Only $600,000 in bonds are outstanding. Improvement in earnings makes the declaration of a dividend in the latter part of this year probable.

THE hardware industry has just passed through a period of price cutting which adversely affected earnings in 1927. The industry appears to have seen the folly of this policy and competition this year has been on a much saner basis. The results of the disorganized trade conditions of last year are seen in the fact that net income in 1927 was only $27,636 while in the period of three months and a half from January 1 to April 18 of this year net income was $73,102. Average income for the past 10 years has been $181,594 annually. On the present capitalization this would be equivalent to 58 cents a share.

PLANT facilities are being expanded to permit production of new products added to the company's line. In 1926 the company started production of forged iron hardware. At present McKinney has the only complete line of this type on the market. Production of forged iron hardware is far more profitable than the standard run of products. Changing styles in the building of residences have resulted in an enormous growth in the demand for forged iron fittings due to their artistic appearance.

McKINNEY MANUFACTURING COMPANY today has a firm footing in the older and more established types of building hardware and in addition it will benefit from the novel additions to its products. The company is in strong financial shape. Adequate funds for expansion purposes recently were secured through refinancing. In connection with the offering of stock to the public J. H. Hillman, Jr., is understood to have secured an interest.

IF THE proposed county bond issues are approved at the election on June 26, the employment situation in Pittsburgh will be vastly improved. The effects of spending $43,680,000 over a period of a few years are obvious. But the actual improvements to be financed by the bonds are only part of the activity which will help Pittsburgh business.

ALL great municipal improvements stimulate private building. Better streets new bridges, new public buildings enhance the value of property around them. The improvements bring people into localities which they did not frequent before. New buildings are necessary to earn incomes in proportion to the higher property values.

THE Michigan Boulevard Bridge in Chicago is an example of an improvement which started such a ball rolling. The bridge opened a new travel artery. It was finished years ago but new office buildings, new apartments, new stores are still being built to take advantage of it. The bridge cost a few millions of dollars but the buildings put up as a result of that bridge being there cost dozens of times that much. Without the bridge the sites of the Wrigley Tower and other Chicago skyscrapers would still be vacant lots or occupied by three-story buildings.

A FACTOR which has been a depressing influence on some of Pittsburgh's industries has been the lack of buying of railroad equipment during the last three years. The railroads have speeded up the movement of cars to such an extent that less rolling stock is needed to carry on their business. Another factor has been the improved financial condition of the carriers. The roads can afford to keep their cars in better condition and their life is prolonged.

THE dullness of the past few years in equipment buying has been necessary for the carriers to consume the surplus of cars created by increased transportation efficiency. Many in the various industries supplying railroad equipment now believe that the time when the railroads will again have to start buying is not far off.

THE SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 4.—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today, with nearby duty free sugars quoted at 4.36 delivered and no additional sales reported. Cuban holders, however, were asking fractionally above this level. It was reported in the trade today that the 50,000 tons of the reserve supply of Cuban sugar for export to countries outside of the United States was disposed of late last week at prices ranging from 2.52 to 2.56 for Cuba.

Raw sugar futures opened unchanged to 1 point lower under liquidation and some selling by houses with European connections, prompted by the disappointing London market and the continued inactivity in the spot market. Offerings were absorbed by trade and Cuban interests. After the call a steadier tone developed, with prices rallying 2 to 3 points, and at midday showing net advances of 1 to 2 points.

The refined market was unchanged at 6.05 to 6.10 for fine granulated, with a fair withdrawal demand reported.

In Memoriam 1-B

IN loving memory of our dear daughter, Elsie Elizabeth Russell, who died one year ago today, June 4th, 1927.

One year has passed since that sad day
The one we loved was called away;
God took her home, it was His will—
But in our hearts she liveth still.

Sadly missed by her father, mother, grandmother and brothers.

NO. 303.

AN ORDINANCE — Regulating cosmetic, physical culture, therapeutic parlors and schools, providing for inspection and licensing thereof and licensing of operators and owners therein, and providing for violations thereof.

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation owning, controlling, leasing, acting as agent for, conducting, operating or managing any cosmetic, physical culture, therapeutic parlor or school in the City of Pittsburgh, to conduct or operate the same or cause or permit the same to be conducted or operated without first applying to and receiving from the Department of Public Health a license as herein provided.

Section 2. For the purpose of this Ordinance, a cosmetic, physical culture, therapeutic establishment or school is herewith defined to mean any building, room, place, establishment where any hairdressing, beauty culture, manicuring and facial massage are carried on or taught, or where physical culture, electric, hermic or other physical, therapeutic or cosmetic treatments are given by employes outside of a regularly licensed hospital or dispensary. No provision of this Ordinance shall be applicable to barbers or barber shop owners.

Section 3. Every applicant for such license shall file with the Department of Public Health a written application, which shall state the name and residence of the applicant, the street and number where such business or school shall be conducted, the character of business to be conducted and such other information as the Department of Health may require.

Section 4. The Department of Public Health shall thereupon cause the matters set forth in such application to be investigated, including the sanitary conditions of the place proposed to be operated.

Section 5. If such application be approved, a license shall be granted by the Director of the Department of Public Health provided the applicant shall first exhibit to him a receipt from the City Treasurer of the inspection fee hereinafter fixed, and, provided further that such license may be suspended or revoked upon the conviction of the holder thereof or his employe or agent of a violation of this Ordinance or any law of the State of Pennsylvania.

Section 6. The annual owner's license fee shall be Five (5.00) Dollars for each establishment employing not more than two persons, and One ($1.00) Dollar for each additional person employed in such establishments.

The number of employes shall be computed on the average daily number of persons employed during the preceding calendar year and shall be inclusive of the manager or proprietor and exclusive of the cashier and office employes.

All licenses shall expire on the Thirty-first day of December of the year in which they were granted.

Section 7. Every operator engaged in the business or school referred to in Section 1 hereof shall first, before being permitted to do so, file with the Department of Public Health a written application stating the applicant's name and residence and such other information as the Department of Public Health may require.

Every operator, before being granted a license, shall file with the Director of the Department of Public Health a Certificate signed by a qualified physician, licensed in the State of Pennsylvania, and also a receipt from the City Treasurer showing the payment of a fee of Two ($2.00) Dollars for the current year or part thereof. Such license shall be granted only after investigation by the Department of Public Health of the matters set forth in such application and also only for such parlor or school as shall comply with the terms of this Ordinance, and which shall be licensed as herein provided for.

Such operator's license shall expire on the Thirty-first day of December of the year in which same is granted.

Section 8. All licenses herein provided for shall be renewed on or before the Fifteenth day of December of each year, provided the same be approved by the Director of the Department of Public Health and upon payment of the fees herein provided for.

Section 9. No person shall work as an apprentice in such beauty parlor or school without first making application therefore to the Department of Public Health, stating the name and residence of the applicant and location of the parlor or school, and any other information required by the Department of Public Health. Such apprentice must pass the physical examination required in Section 6, and shall be not less than sixteen years of age. No fee shall be paid by such apprentice, but the permit shall be subject to suspension or revocation as provided for in Section 4.

Every apprentice must work under the direct supervision of the licensed operator and will not be eligible for an operator's license until after six months' training and experience in a licensed cosmetic, physical culture, therapeutic establishment or school.

Section 10. (a) No operator or apprentice shall give a general body massage to a person of the opposite sex.

(b) All cosmetic, physical culture, therapeutic parlors and schools shall keep their tools, appliances and equipment in a sanitary condition including proper sterilization.

(c) The use of styptic pencils, alum blocks or other solid styptics is prohibited for stopping the flow of blood.

(d) No person affected with any disease of the skin or scalp shall have his or her hair cut or face treated in any such parlor or school.

(e) No person shall work in any such parlor or school who is physically unfit.

Section 11. All rooms used for such business or school shall be separate and apart from any residence therein, used as a dormitory or place wherein meals are cooked and served.

Section 12. Separate plumbing shall be installed so that such parlor or school shall be sanitary.

Section 13. Every parlor and school conducted and operated under this Ordinance shall keep a printed copy of the Ordinance posted in a conspicuous place therein. There shall also be posted in a conspicuous place therein the license and permit provided for herein.

Section 14. Any person violating the provisions of this Ordinance shall, upon conviction thereof before any Alderman or Police Magistrate of the City of Pittsburgh, be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than Ten ($10.00) Dollars and not more than Fifty ($50.00) Dollars, and in default of the payment thereof shall be sentenced to the Allegheny County Jail for a term not to exceed Thirty (30) days.

Section 15. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

AN ORDINANCE—Amending Section 20 of an Ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance regulating the construction, arrangement, alteration, repair, equipment and operation of elevators, in the City of Pittsburgh; providing for the remedying of dangerous and unsafe conditions in and about elevators; providing for the issuance, refusal and revocal of permits for the construction, arrangement, maintenance, alteration, repair, equipment and operation of elevators; providing for the inspection of all elevators in the City of Pittsburgh and defining for the purposes hereof all elevators and elevator machinery by classification according to use and power provided; and providing penalties for the violation of the provisions hereof," approved June 9, 1917, recorded in Ordinance Book Volume 28, Page 531.

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That Section 20 of an Ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance regulating the construction, arrangement, alteration, repair, equipment and operation of elevators in the City of Pittsburgh; providing for the remedying of dangerous and unsafe conditions in and about elevators; providing for the issuance, refusal and revocal of permits for the construction, arrangement, maintenance, alteration, repair, equipment and operation of elevators; providing for the inspection of all elevators in the City of Pittsburgh and defining for the purpose hereof all elevators and elevator machinery by classification according to use and power provided, and providing penalties for the violation of the provisions hereof," approved June 9, 1917, be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 20. Thoroughfares shall not be allowed at all through shaftways of Class A elevators, provided, however, space for machinery and storage of all kinds may be provided below said shaftways; and provided further in such cases the pit construction shall be of ample strength and adequately supported to withstand, without injury, the impact of the car with rated load or the impact of the counterweight when either is descending at maximum speed or at governor tripping speed. The under clearance and pit depths of such elevators shall be as required for other elevator pits. Counterweights of such elevators shall be provided with safeties. There shall be installed a secondary or auxiliary device designed to stop the car, which device shall have been approved by the Bureau of Building Inspection of the Department of Public Safety of the City of Pittsburgh. The thoroughfares through the shaftways of freight elevators shall be protected by gates or doors not less than five feet six inches high which shall automatically close when the elevator leaves the thoroughfare landing and remain closed at all times when the elevator is away from the landing. Such elevator shaftway shall not be used as a thoroughfare except when the elevator is at the landing.

Section 2. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

NO. 305.

AN ORDINACE—Granting unto S. Strunz and Sons, Inc., its successors and assigns, the right to construct, maintain and use a manhole and conduits under and across South Eighth street for the purpose of transmitting sodium silicate, caustic soda and vegetable oils from existing railroad siding on South Eighth street to the property of S. Strung and Sons, Inc., Seventeenth Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That S. Strunz and Sons, Inc., its successors and assigns be and are hereby given the right and authority at its own cost and expense to construct, maintain and use a manhole and two conduits, one 2" and one 3", under and across South Eighth street for a distance of 32.2'; manhole to be constructed under present side track, said manhole and conduits located 39' north of Cabot way, for the purpose of transmitting sodium silicate, caustic soda and vegetable oils from tank cars to the property of S. Strunz and Sons, Inc.

SAID MANHOLE and conduits shall be constructed in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance and in accordance with the plan hereto attached and identified as Accession No. B-329, Folder "B," in the files of the Division of Public Utilities, Bureau of Highways and Sewers, Department of Public Works, entitled, "Proposed manhole and conduits under and across South Eighth street for the S. Strunz and Sons, Inc., Seventeenth Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Section 2. The said Company prior to beginning the construction of said manhole and conduits, shall submit to the Director of the Department of Public Works of the said City a complete set of plans showing the location and all details for the construction of said manhole and conduits, and said plans and the construction of said manhole and conduits shall be subject to the approval and supervision of said Director.

Section 3. The rights and privileges herein granted shall be subject and subordinate to the rights of the City of Pittsburgh and its powers over City of Pittsburgh relating thereto, and to the provisions of any general Ordinance which may hereafter be passed, relating to the construction, maintenance and use of manhole and conduits in city streets and compensation for same.

Section 4. The said grantee shall bear the full cost and expense of the repaving and repair of the street pavement damaged, repair of sewers, water lines and other surface and sub-surface structures which may in any way be damaged or disturbed by reason of the construction maintenance and use of said manhole and conduits. All of the said work, including the repaving of the street damaged, shall be done in the manner and at such times as the Director may order, and shall be subject to his approval and supervision.

Section 5. The rights and privileges granted by this Ordinance are granted upon the express condition that the City of Pittsburgh, without liability, reserves the right to cause the removal of the said manhole and conduits, upon giving thirty (30) days notice through the proper officers pursuant to Resolution or Ordinance of Council to the said S. Strun and Sons, Inc., its successors and assigns, to that effect; and that the said grantee when so notified, shall at the expiration of the said thirty days, forthwith, remove the said manhole and conduits and replace the street to its original condition, at its own cost and expense.

Section 6. The said grantee shall assume any liability of the City of Pittsburgh for damages to persons or property, including the street and sub-surface structures therein, by reason of the construction, maintenance and use of the said manhole and conduits, and it is a condition of this grant that the City of Pittsburgh assumes no liability to either persons or property on account of this grant.

Section 7. The foregoing rights and privileges are granted subject to the following condition, to-wit: This Ordinance shall become null and void unless within thirty (30) days after its passage and approval, S. Strunz and Sons, Inc., shall file with the City Controller its Certificate of Acceptance of the provisions thereof, said Certificate to be executed by the said S. Strunz and Sons, Inc., with its corporate seal attached.

Section 8. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

Sometimes a song strikes deep into the human heart. For example, "Welcome to Our City," written by Percy Wenrich and Harry Clarke for the dedication of Los Angeles' new City Hall—

Land-marks come and land-marks go,
And so to our Los Angeles we bring
A build-ing to give to you,
Ma-jestic straight and tall,
And with the ci-ty fathers sing—
(Chorus)
Welcome to our ci-ty, oh!
Boy, you are pret-ty,
Sev-en mil-lion dol-lar ci-ty hall
Four square blocks it takes to hold you.
To our hearts we all en-fold you,
Standing there to guard the in-t'rests of us all—
Mon-u-ment of beauty,
You in-spire with du-ty,
That each son and daught-er long to give—
Ci-ty hall we're proud to meet you,
With un-cov-ered heads we greet you,
Wel-come to Los An-ge-les,
Long may she live.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Sir—

I am a musician of some note. Last Thursday I stopped at a stand to buy a hot dog. With great gusto I bit through the sandwich. Imagine my embarrassment when I found I had bitten off one of my fingers.

Questions Neatly Answered—Widows Our Specialty.

This little woman, shown consulting our Mr. Zook, first noticed that tired and listless feeling in the morning, after she had been up all night. Then she found that after eating, food did not appeal to her.

"What shall I do?" she asked, in a simple, straightforward manner.

"Invest in the Associated Kerosene Hanging Lamp Corporation," advised Mr. Zook.

And then he explained why. This concern manufactures a hand-tinted hanging lamp, brass frame, glass bowl with double burner extinguisher and one row of prisms. It is raised and lowered the same as No. 13514, and is the same as No. 13516, but with a size "B" spring extension drop.

Golden Jubilee Marks Duquesne Commencement

Duquesne University combines its commencement season with an observance of a golden jubilee, marking the fiftieth anniversary of this worthy institution of learning, opened in 1878 with five teachers and 44 students. Its present staff, under the able guidance of the Rev. M. A. Hehir, C. S. Sp., numbers 130, the faculty of eight schools quartered in 15 buildings, in which 3,180 students pursue various branches of learning. It ranks fifth in size among Catholic universities of the United States.

Conducted by the Holy Ghost Fathers (Congregation Sanctus Spiritus), Duquesne University is a development of Holy Ghost College which, through the efforts of President Hehir, added new schools, expanding it to university status in 1911. President Hehir, connected with the institution for 44 years, has been its head 29 years.

Father Hehir is known to thousands outside his own faith, and to them the importance of his work is realized as fully as to those of his denomination. Hence congratulations will be extended to him and his faculty by the community at large, deserved felicitation upon the completion of 50 years of good work in making Pittsburgh a center of culture and learning.

Vallier, inventor of the rocket automobile, is working on a plane that will carry no engine, and use explosives instead of fuel. The first rocket airplane Grasmucke is being built now and will be tried soon.

The inventor believes that his rocket plane at an altitude sufficiently great will have "practically no limit to its speed." You may live to be "shot" across the Atlantic.

It is certain that within one hundred years flying and flying machines will be completely changed. Today's planes or biplanes, imitating the outstretched wings of a bird, will not be necessary when POWER takes the place of wing spread.

A bullet needs no wings. Air machines will need no wings when they go fast enough, with sufficient stored power.

Wings folded away may be released, on landing, to diminish speed. You may have seen a bird of prey drop like a bullet, with wings folded, and open them just before reaching the ground.

Men will find even better ways to "slow down." Man always eclipses nature when he starts. The locomotive beats the running deer. The airplane already outflies the fastest bird.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 4.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Out in a slashing pour to the docks to await a barque, and breakfasted on fried eels at a lunch counter with Harry Acton, the ship scribbler, and a red-haired, gum-chewing lady served us sullenly.

The sun shining again, for a walk uptown through the Rialto, and saw Carol McComas, the play actress; Karl Kitchen, who was shaking with an ague; Fred C. Kelly and Fontaine Fox. And to call on Nellie Revell, who was out gadding. So back to my quarters to labor.

In the evening to a banquet and how queasy they have become, nor will I attend another to hear windy talkers and eat tasteless food, albeit there was compensation in watching a tipsy waiter. Walked up the avenue with Sol Flaum, and to bed.

The patrons of cheap lodging houses along the Bowery must be out of their bunks at 5 a. m. to make way for night workers who sleep there during the day. Most of them shake themselves in the manner of a wet dog and move sluggishly to lunch rooms.

At daylight they go to barber colleges for free shaves, and then to labor agencies, the newspaper want ad. bulletin boards, or to lounge in public parks. They are a great city's economic question marks who seek work generally with the hope of not finding it.

Bowery lodging house prices range from 15 cents to 35 cents, paid in advance. Hospitality is scant in this world of chrome yellow. Hard-faced clerks regard them as "a lotta bums," and know them only by numbers. Conversation is a lost art. When they are not sleeping they sit at upstairs office windows as immobile as statues.

Fifth avenue has a shop dealing exclusively in aviation products and accessories. Everything is for sale, from airplane goggles to a commercial ship. The shop maintains hangars on Long Island with a corps of instructors to teach those who make purchases.

As one who often imagines himself the bright boy of the music-by-mail ads, headed: "They laughed when he sat down at the piano, but when he started to play——," there is something just too cute in an episode near the N. V. A. Club the other noon. A group at the curb was approached by a cop who shouted: "Move on, boys. And make it snappy." An acrobat gravely detached himself from the crowd and moved toward the clubhouse in a series of swooping back handsprings.

Joe Cook, the agile comique, is said to have never visited a New York night club. His home is at Lake Hoptacong, N. J., and in the years he has been playing on Broadway he has never remained from the family fireside over night. His home is a two-hour drive from Times Square.

Mr. Cook has hung up a domestic record. In contrast is the story of a juvenile actor. A friend called up his home to inquire for him. His wife answered and said her husband was not in.

"When do you expect him?" she was asked.

"Oh, most any time," she replied, and added: "He's generally here around the Christmas holidays."

I don't know the connection—and don't tell me—but it is heralded in a page magazine ad that "the glamorous darling of musical comedy—the adorable and unforgettable — is dancing more enchantingly than ever." It is further printed right out loud she uses a certain toilet soap. Maybe the little dear soaps her toes.

And, as though life isn't hard enough, an advertising agency has a woman with a mile wide A and a Lady Audley manner calling on "a selected group of writers" to learn their favorite bath salts for indorsement advertisements. It is quite a trade-last for many long regarded as the gret unwashed.

About All There Is in Life

For Kings, Bricklayers or Savages

THE KING AND SOME OF HIS FAMILY

Here you see King George and Queen Mary of England, with one of their sons, the Duke of York, his wife, and their baby, Princess Elizabeth, royal granddaughter.

They are standing on the balcony of Buckingham Palace, that the applauding crowd may see them. And the happiness on their faces is not put on for effect.

This picture isn't interesting merely because it shows a king and queen happy in the possession of a pretty grandchild. It is interesting because it shows that among great and small family happiness is what counts.

The King and Queen in Buckingham Palace, the humble man in his cottage, our savage ancestor of 100,000 years ago beside his fire in his cave, all have been made happy by THE FAMILY SPIRIT.

First came the FAMILY—father, mother and child—the original "trinity," long before any religious trinity was known. Then came the TRIBE, families united for protection. Bigger tribes, then the NATION. Later will come BROTHERHOOD of all men on earth, and it will be based on the FAMILY SPIRIT.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Rome

ON THIS little earth—a speck in the solar system and an infinitesimal in the universe—there is a dot which bears the most memorable name in human history—Rome. This year Rome celebrates its 2,631st birthday. That would mark hardly a single second as ticked by the pendulum of universal time; but the period included in that second covers all that is greatest in the story of man. Rome laid the foundations for the modern world, though Greece prepared many of the materials. The result is stupendous—measured by human standards—but how has it affected the universe, or even the solar system?

We only need to put the idle question to appreciate our isolation and insignificance amidst the illimitable cosmos. Yet, there is something within us which refuses to be content with this situation, and insists upon measuring itself with the greatest!

It is better for us, in the end, rather to cultivate self-respect by contemplating human greatness upon the earth, than self-abasement by considering human littleness in the universe. Rome's celebration, Rome, rousing herself in her third millenium, summons up the most imposing figures for such a reassuring view of human worth.

At the news that the old Tarpeian Rock and the hill of the Capitol are now to be disencumbered of the excrescences that centuries have heaped around them, whose mind is not carried back to his school days? One hears again the discordant shouts of the invading Gauls gathered around the rock of the Capitol; one sees again the white-bearded Senator rise from his curule chair and strike down the insulting barbarian; one sees the hushed crowd receiving the news that Hannibal has come over the Alps and is marching upon Rome; one hears the ululations after the terrible news of the Ticino, the Trebbia Trasimene, Cannae, as the resistless Carthaginian overthrows one Roman army after another.

And yet one sees the dauntless city of Romulus rise again, with bloody head, after every fall, until at last the name of Scipio Africanus blazes Rome's triumph to the dazzled eyes of the whole world.

And who can read without a thrill that at last the Palatine Hill, with its palaces of the Caesars, is to be thoroughly explored and uncovered, and that the Circus Maximus is to be excavated? In the long procession of mighty figures that march before the memory at the mention of these things, stride Marius, the general of the Plebs; Sulla the aristocratic dictator, who sent Marius to sit desolate on the ruins of Carthage; Pompey, who put down the pirates and crushed the great Mithradates; Julius Caesar, who did "bestride the narrow world like a Colossus;" Brutus, who slew Caesar for "peace, freedom and liberty;" Mark Antony, who "came to speak in Caesar's funeral," and, "put a tongue in every wound of Caesar" till they moved "the stones of Rome to rise and mutiny."

There in the great review pass Cato, Cicero, Cataline, Lucullus the luxurious, Crassus the rich, with molten gold poured down his throat by yelling barbarians; Augustus the world master; Tiberius, blind in his debauchery to what was brooding in Palestine; Nero, the circus monster; Julia, Livia, the Agrippinas; Germanicus; Caligula, "Little Boots" (they are going now to hunt for his sunken ships in Lake Nemi); Trajan, Hedrian, the great Antonines, Diocletian, and at length Constantine and the beginning of Christianity as a world power over the nations.

Out of these splendors of the past, for which history has no match, Rome today steps forth to take her share in the greater conquests which humanity now sets in its eye. And about her, like a toga, she wears the majesty of her long past.

Genius Is Quirky

A PRIZE of $25,000 has been offered for the best symphony to be composed by an American.

This is probably the largest prize ever offered for a single piece of music. It attests the growing interest in music in this country. But it does not necessarily insure the creation of a masterpiece.

Many years ago a prize, big for its day, was offered for an appropriate new national hymn. Thousands competed. The award was made. But you never hear the hymn.

Genius likes to take its time in blossoming. It rarely creates well to order.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Make the Best of It

WHY rob yourself of the joy of life by always wishing for something better than what you have?

Get full pleasure out of what you can afford.

If you have a cheap car, don't bemoan the fact and cuss the thing because it will not do what a better and more expensive car will do.

You take away the joy of the family during your trips because you are continually complaining about your car.

What if the other fellow with a higher powered car can make the grade on high while you must shift to second?

It is not much of a job to change gears, is it?

You may not have the same comfort and general peace of mind, but, if your car is the best that you can afford, why grumble about it.

Be happy in the thought that you can drive as good a car as you have.

Isn't it better to ride in a car, the payments on which you can meet, than to possess a better one that is robbing you of all other kinds of pleasures in order to meet payments on it?

Freedom from disturbing thoughts is worth a lot.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

A Miracle

THE years have borne him far away
Beyond our longing gaze,
Though eagerly our fancies play
About him, witty, wise and gay,
No more he walks Earth's ways.

Not all the hunger we may feel
To know his voice, his glance,
Will to our questioning reveal
One glory mocking years conceal
Behind time's dark expanse.

Yet in this little book I hold
A miracle is wrought,
This slender volume, worn and old,
His inmost spirit can unfold,
Gives us his deathless thought

Words of the Wise

That destructive siren, sloth, is ever to be avoided.—Horace.

Not with whom you are born, but with whom you're bred.—Cervantes.

Example is a dangerous lure; where the wasp got through the gnat sticks fast.—La Fontaine.

A good saying often runs the risk of being thrown away when quoted as the speaker's own.—La Bruyere.

Our grand business, undoubtedly, is, not to see what lies dimly at a distance, but to do what lies clearly at hand.—Carlyle.

How comes it to pass, then, that we appear such cowards in reasoning, and are so afraid to stand the test of ridicule?—Shaftesbury.

Tales that are Told

Worth While

A SHY young man had been calling on a certain young maiden for some months, but as he was bashful, his suit progressed slowly. He was earnest and eligible; all he wanted was a start.

Finally the girl decided to help things along a bit, and pointing to a gorgeous bunch of violets in the young man's hand, she said:

"Oh, Oliver, I'd give any man a kiss for those."

The exchange was made, and suddenly Oliver seized his hat and made a wild dash towards the door.

"Where are you going?" asked the astonished girl.

"The florist's," came the delighted response, as the young man disappeared.

Dead Shots

TWO business men were enjoying a spring holiday with a farmer friend. They expressed a desire to go shooting, and the farmer, although he was unable to accompany them, was kind enough to lend them guns and two dogs.

The two sportsmen, who had never fired a shot, set off and were heard blazing away. Within a short time one of them returned.

"Hullo!" cried the farmer. "Run out of ammunition, eh?"

"No," was the sad reply. "We want some more dogs."

He Knew All

"WHAT is wrong with this picture?" were the words in heavy type beneath the sketch showing a man and woman walking down the street arm-in-arm.

Robert, aged 6, read the words and studied the picture in silence for some minutes. Then he turned to his father.

"Dad," he said, with a wicked grin, "I bet I know what's wrong with this."

"H'm!" His father looked at the sketch. "What is it?"

"Well," returned the boy, "I'll bet it ain't his wife."

His Little Difficulty

THE well-tailored youth tapped smartly on the desk-top with his umbrella and a clerk came quickly to his side.

"Do you wish to make a claim, sir?" he inquired.

"I do," returned the immaculate one.

"Very well, sir, would you please fill up this form?" And the insurance clerk handed over a paper.

The young man studied it in silence.

"But, I say," he exclaimed suddenly. "I'm bally well puzzled about how I stand with your people. I've got fire, life, accident and burglary policies, but my immediate trouble is that while I was away the moths got into my spats."—London Answers.

Very Disconcerting

THROUGH the busy streets a stalwart policeman led a little child by the hand.

A motherly looking woman paused in front of them for a moment. Then in a sudden burst of sympathy she bent over the child and gave her a hearty kiss.

"Poor little lamb!" she began sadly. "She looks so cold and starved-like, and hasn't been washed for a week. Some people never ought to 'ave children. Where did you find the poor mite, constable?"

"Find her?" echoed the policeman indignantly. "What d'yer mean 'find her'? She's me own kiddie!"

Subtle Knot

A MOTORIST who owns one of those small cars which everybody makes jokes about was recounting an experience to a friend.

"I had a bit of bad luck coming up from Brighton the other day," he said. "I ran into a trap."

"Is that so," said his so-called friend, gravely. "Was there any cheese in it?"—London Tit-Bits.

THOUGHTS OF THE GREAT—

The wisdom of the wise and the experience of the ages may be preserved by the quotation.—Isaac Disraeli.

Great is the force of habit; it teaches us to bear labor and to scorn injury and pain.
—Cicero.

Voting by Mail

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

Now that politics is beginning to show signs of life it might be a good plan once more to inject into the public consciousness a few thoughts about voting by mail.

We are in the midst of a welter of political parties and all most of us have to do is to get out and do what one of these parties say for us to do. In any case we have no choice.

Newspapers and orators are fond of lambasting the American public because they do not vote. It might be more to the point if they gave them a chance to vote or make it to their interest and convenience to vote.

The present party system is certainly a failure when it comes to getting out the vote.

The statement is made that 64 per cent of the people entitled to a franchise decline to exercise it. Only 36 per cent of the people support the two parties.

Why cannot this 64 per cent get together?

It is simple and practical to adopt a voting system whereby a ballot is mailed to every citizen of the country to be marked by him in the quiet and propitious surroundings of his own home and mailed and returned to the proper official.

This system would absolutely get 90 per cent of the voters.

By this system it could be found out inside of 30 days whether this country wants prohibition or not, whether it wants a high protective tariff or not and whether it wants a war or not. It is well known that advocates, both pro and con on these questions, are going up and down the country asserting that the people favor their side. There is no system at present of finding out what side the people favor.

George Washington warned us against the party spirit, for among his last words were, "To avoid party spirit, the worst enemy of government, which in different ages and countries has perpetrated the most horrid enormities, is itself a frightful despotism."

While seated with our families around our own firesides, if we voted by mail and stopped the antiquated custom of voting in a booth, every one of us could help nominate and elect our officials.

If we are going to have a democracy let us have one and make it one where the people can easily give expression to their opinion. Why cannot the science of politics keep pace with the other sciences and why cannot our excellent postal system be employed to register the will of the people quickly and accurately instead of harking back to a system that might have been all right in Adam's or Jefferson's day, but is certainly out of date in ours?

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Real Life

YES, we have been caught in the swirl of the stream of modern biographies and it is a swim for the gods.

We are too close for the proper perspective, but if we could stand away in a century from this day we would see the modern output of human, readable biographies as one of the most significant and hopeful movements in the annals of American letters.

And so we have been star gazing lately at a number of luminaries done in charming biography:

Napoleon, Bismarck, Washington, Lincoln, Beecher, Moody, Gladstone, Disraeli, Cellini, Cleopatra, Johnson, Heine and Franklin.

Of these Bismarck, Moody and Gladstone were of the old type, packed with data, losing the man in a cloud of historical and political underbrush.

Beecher was done by a pen dipped in vitriol and didn't reverberate beautifully. A man's best accomplishment should be his criterion, not his foibles and failures.

Napoleon by Ludwig is a classic and unequaled as a delineation of the little Corsican.

Washington by Woodward is an artistic unveiling of that colossal character.

Lincoln by Sandburg has new and fresh material on every page and a background that Turner might envy.

Heinie by Brown is an exhibition of an author bleeding for the pains of his hero. Only sympathy can write biography.

Cleopatra by Ferval is a piece of exquisite literary art showing the famous woman not only as the Siren of the Nile but as an intellectual Aspasia and the genuine lover of Mark Antony.

Franklin by Russell couldn't be surpassed by Sir Joshua Reynolds as a portrait of the man.

Disraeli by Maurois is poetic prose setting forth the high lights of genius splendidly.

And of course Johnson by Boswell and Cellini's autobiography have been recognized classics for many a year until all vocabularies have been exhausted in their praise.

None of these books are meant for hammock siestas. You can't sleep under their preaching. Here language walks on the ground instead of on stilts.

Banzai to the modern biographers!
